PREFACE.

-00-

As the occasion of this Poem was real, not fictitious; so the method pursued in it was rather imposed by what spontaneously arose in the Author's mind on that occasion, than meditated or designed. Which will appear very probable from the nature of it. For it differs from the common mode of poetry ; which is, from long narrations to draw short morals. Here, on the contrary, the narrative is short, and the morality arising from it makes the bulk of the Poem. The reason of it is, that the facts mentioned did naturally poar these moral reflections on the thought of the Writer.

NIGHT 1.

ON LIFE, DEATH, AND IMMORTALITY.
TO THE RIGHT HON. ARTHUR ONSLOW, ESQ. SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.
Tinfd Nature's sweet restorer, balmy Sleep! He, like the world, his ready visit pays
Where Fortune smiles; the wretched he forsakes; Swift on his downy pinion flies from woe, And lights on lids unsullied with a tear.

From short (as usual) and disturb'd repose I wake: how happy they who wake no more! Yet that were vain, if dreams infest the grave. I wake, emerging from a sea of dreams Tumultuous; where my wreck'd, desponding thought, From wave to wave of fancied misery 11
At random drove, her helm of reason lost. Though now restored, 'tis only change of pain, (A bitter change!) severer for severe.
The Day too short for my distress ; and Night, F'en in the zenith of her dark domain, Is sunshine to the colour of my fate.

Night, sable goddess ! from her ebon throne, In rayless majesty, now stretches forth Hor leaden sceptre o'er a slumbering world.
Silence how dead! and darkness how profound !
Nor eye nor listening ear an object finds ;
Creation sleeps. 'Tis as the general pulse Of life stood still, and Nature made a pause: An arfful pause! prophetio of her end,

And let her prophecy be soon fulfill'd:
Fate! drop the curtain; I can lose no more.
Silence and Darkness! solemn sisters ! \{wins
From ancient Night, who nurse the tender though
To Reason, and on reason build resolve
(That column of true majesty in man,)
Assist me: I will thank you in the grave;
The grave your kingdom : there this frame shall fall
A victim sacred to your dreary shrine.
But what are ye?
Thou who didst put to flight
Primeval Silence, when the morning stars,
Exulting, shouted o'er the rising ball ;
O Thou! whose word from solid darkness struck
That spark, the Sun, strike wisdom from my soul ; 40
My soul, which flies to thee, her trust, her treasure;
As misers to their gold, while others rest.
Through this opaque of Nature and of Soul,
This double night, transmit one pitying ray,
To lighten and to cheer. O lead my mind
(A mind that fain world wander from its woe,)
Lead it through various scenes of life and death,
And from each scene the noblest truths inspire.
Nor less inspire my conduct than my song ;
Teach my best reason, reason ; my best will Teach rectitude ; and fix my firm resolve
Wisdon to wed, and pay her long arrear:
Nor let the phial of thy vengeance, pour'd
On this devoted head, be poured in vain.
The bell strikes one. We take no note of time 55
But from its '.uss: to give it then a tongue
Is wise in nuan. As if an angel spoke
I feel the solemn sound. If heard aright,
It is the knell of my departed hours.
Where are they? With the years beyond the flood. 60
It is the signal that demands despatch:
How much is to be done! My hopes and fears
Sfart up' alarm'd, and o'or life's narrow verge

ON LIFE, DEATH, AND IMMORTALITY. 7

Look down-or what? A fathomless abyss.
A dread eternity! how surely mine!
And can eternity belong to me,
Poor pensioner on the bounties of an hour ?
How poor, how rich, how abject, how august,
How complicate, how wonderful, is man !
How passing wonder He who made him such!
Who centred in our make such strange extremes !
From different natures marvellously mix'd,
Connexion exquisite of distant worlds !
Distinguish'd link in being's endless clain!
Midway from nothing to the Deity !
A beam ethereal, sullied and absorb'd!
Though sullied and dishonour'd, still divine!
Dim miniature of greatness absolute !
An heir of glory! a frail child of dust !
Helpless immortal ! insect infinite !
A worm! A god !-I tremble at myself, And in myself am lost. At home a stranger, Thought wanders up and down, surprised, aghast,
And wondering at her own. How Reason reels !
O what a miracle to man is man!
Triumphantly distress'd ! what joy ! what dread!
Alternately transported and alarm'd;
What can preserve my life! or what destroy
An angel's arm can't snatch me from the grave ;
Legions of angels can't confine me there.
'Tis past conjecture ; all things rise in proof:
While o'er my limbs Sleep's soft dominion spreads,
What though my soul fantastic measures trod
O'er fairy fields, or mourn'd along the gloom
Of pathless woods, or down the craggy steep
Hurl'd headlong, swam with pain the mantled pool,
Or scaled the cliff, or danced on hollow winds
With antic shapes, wild natives of the brain!
Her ceaseless flight, though devious, speaks her nature
Of subtler essence than the trodden clod;
100
Active, acrial, towering, unconfined,

Unfetter'd with her gross companion's fall.
E'en silent Night proclaims my soul immortal :
E'en silent Night proclaims eternal day !
For human weal Heaven husbands all events :
105
Dull Sleep instructs, nor sport vain dfams in vain.
Why then their loss deplore, that are not lost?
Why wanders wretched Thought their tombs around
In infidel distress? Are angels there?
Slumbers, raked up in dust, ethereal fire?
They live! they greatly live ! a life on earth
Unkindled, unconceived, and from an eye
Of tenderness let heavenly pity fall
On me, more justly number'd with the dead.
This is the desert, this the solitude :
How populous, how vital is the grave !
This is Creation's melancholy vault,
The vale funereal, the sad cypress gloom;
The land of apparitions, empty shades !
All, all on earth is shadow, all beyond
Is substance ; the reverse is Folly's creed.
How solid all, where change shall be no more !
This is the bud of being, the dim dawn,
The twilight of our day, the vestibule:
Life's theatre, as yet is shut ; and Death,
Strong Death, alone can heave the massy bar,
This gross impediment of clay remove,
And make us, embryos of existence, free.
From real life but little more remote
Is he, not yet a candidate for light,
130
The future embryo, slumbering in his sire.
Embryos we must be till we burst the shell,
Yon ambient azure shell, and spring to life, The life of gods, $\mathbf{O}$ transport! and of man.

Yet man, fool man! here buries all his thoughts,
Inters celestial hopes without one sigh :
135
Prisoner of earth and pent beneath the moon,
Here pinions all his wishes ; wing'd by Heaven
To fly at infinite, and reach it there,

ON LIFE, DEATH, AND IMMORTALITY. 9
Where seraph's gather immortality. 140
On Life's fair tree fast by the throne of God,
What golden joys ambrosial clustering glow
In His full beam, and ripen for the just,
Where momentary ages are no more!
Where Time, and Pain, and Chance, and Death expire!
And is it in the flight of threescore years
146
To push eternity from human thought,
And smother souls immortal in the dust?
A soul immortal, spending all her fires,
Wasting her strength in strenuous idleness, , 150
Thrown into tumult, raptured, or alarm'd
At aught this scene can threaten or indulge,
Resembles ocean into tempest wrought,
To waft a feather or to drown a fly.
Where falls this censure? it o'erwhelms myself;
How was my heart instructed by the world!
O how self-fetter'd was my grovelling soui!
How like a worm, was I wrapp'd round and round
In silken thought, which reptile Fancy spun,
Till darken'd Reason lay quite clouded o'er
With soft conceit of endless comfort here,
Nor yet put forth her wings to reach the skies!
Night visions may befriend (as sung above:)
Our waking dreams are fatal. How I drean'd,
Of things impossible ! (could sleep do more ?)
165
Of joys perpetual in perpetual change !
Of stable pleasures on the tossing wave ;
Eternal sunshine in the storms of life!
How richly were ny noontide trances hung
With gorgeous tapestries of pictured joys,
Joy behind joy, in endless pérspective ; Till at Death's toll, whose restless iron tongue
Calls daily for his millions at a meal, Starting I woke, arid found myself undene.
Where now my frenzy's pompous furniture?
The cobweb'd cottage, with its ragged wall
Of mouldering mud, is royalty to me !

The spider's most attenuated thread
Is cord, is cable, to man's tender tie
On earthly bliss: it breaks at every breeze.
O ye bless'd scenes of permanent delight!
Full above measure! lasting beyond bound!
A perpetuity of bliss is bliss.
Could you, so rich in rapture, fear an end,
That ghastly thought would drink up all your joy,
And quite unparadise the realms of light.
186
Safe are you lodged above these rolling spheres,
The baleful influence of whose giddy dance
Sheds sad vicissitude on all beneath.
Here teems with revolutions every hour,
190
And rarely for the better; or the best
More mortal than the common births of Fate.
Each moment has its sickle, emulous
Of Time's enormous scythe, whose ample sweep
Strikes empires from the root ; each moment plays
His little weapon in the narrower sphere
196
Of sweet domestic comfort, and cuts down
The fairest bloom of sublunary bliss.
Bliss ! sublunary bliss !-proud words, and vain!
Implicit treason to divine decree !
A bold invasion of the rights of Heaven!
I clasp'd the phantoms, and I found them air.
O had I weigh'd it ere my fond embrace,
What darts of agony had miss'd my heart !
Death! great propriefor of all! 'tis thine
To tread out empire, and to quench the stars.
The Sun himself by thy permission shines,
And, one day, thou shalt pluck him from his sphere:
Amid such mighty plunder, why exhaust
Thy partial quiver on a mark so mean ?
Why thy peculiar rancour wreak'd on me?
Insatiate archer! could not one suffice ?
Thy shaft flew thrice, and thrice my peace was slain;
And thrice, ere thrice yon moon had fill'd her horn.
O Cynthia! why so pale? dost thou lament

ON LIFE, DEATH, AND IMMORTALITY. H

 Thy wretched neighbour? grieve to see thy wheel Of ceaseless change outwhirl'd in human life? How wanes my borrow'd bliss ! from Fortune's smile, Precarious courtesy ! not Virtue's sure, Self-given, solar, ray of sound delight.In every varied posture, place, and hour, How widow'd every thought of every joy ! Thought, busy thought ! too busy for my peace, Through the dark postern of time long elapsed, Led softly, by the stillness of the night,
Led, like a murderer, (and such it proves!) Strays (wretched rover!) o'er the pleasing past ; In quest of wretchedness perversely strays, And finds all desert now ; and meets the ghosts Of my departed joys, a numerous train!
I rue the riches of my former fate ; Sweet comfort's blasted clusters I lament ;
I tremble at the blessings once so dear, And every pleasure pains me to the heart.

Yet why complain? or why complain for one? 235
Hangs out the Sun his lustre but for me, The single man? are angels all beside ?
I mourn for millions ; 'tis the common lot:
In this shape or in that has Fate entail'd The mother's throes on all of woman born ;
Not more the children than sure heirs of pain.
War, famine, pest, volcano, storm, and fire, Intestine broils, Oppression, with her heart Wrapp'd up in triple brass, besiege mankind. God's image, disinherited of day,
Here plunged in mines, forgets a Sun was made : There beings, deathless as their haughty lord, Are hammer'd to the galling oar for life, And plough the winter's wave, and reap despair. Some for hard masters, broken under armb,
In battle lopp'd away, with half their limbs,
Beg bitter bread through realms their valour saved,
If so the fyrment or his minion dogm.

Want, and incurable disease, (fell pair!)
On hopeless multitudes remorseless seize
At once, and make a refuge of the grave.
How groaning hospitals eject their dead!
What numbers groan for sad admission there !
What numbers, once in Fortune's lap high fed,
Solicit the cold hand of Charity !
200
To shock us more, solicit it in vain!
Ye silken sons of Pleasure! since in pains
You rue more modish visits, visit here,
And breathe from your debauch : give, and reduce Surfeit's dominion o'er you. But so great
Your impudence, you blush at what is right.
Happy ! did sorrow seize on such alone.
Not prudence can defend, or virtue save,
Disease invades the chastest temperance;
And punishment the guiltless; and alarm,
Through thickest shades, pursues the fond of peace.
Man's caution often into danger turns,
And his guard, falling, crushes him to death.
Not Happiness itself makes good her name ;
Our very wishes give us not our wish.
How distant oft the thing we dote on most
From that for which we dote, felicity !
The smoothest course of Nature has its pains,
And truest friends, through error, wound our rest.
Without misfortune, what calamities !
280
And what hostilities, without a foe!
Nor are foes wanting to the best on earth.
But endless is the list of human ills,
And sighs might sooner fail than cause to sigh.
A part how small of the terraqueous globe 285 Is tenanted by man! the rest a waste, Rocks, deserts, frozen seas, and burning sands !
Wild haunts of monsters, poisons, stings, and death.
Such is Earth's melarcholy map! but, far
More sad! this earth is a true map of man :
so bounded are its hauglty lord's delights

ON LIFE, DEATH, AND IMMORTALITY. 13
To Woe's wide empire, where deep troubles toss, Loud sorrows howl, envenom'd passions bite, Ravenous calamities our vitals seize, And threatening Fate wide opens to devour.

What then am I, who sorrow for myself? In age, in infancy, from others' aid Is all our hope ; to teach us to be kind : That Nature's first, last lesson to mankind. The selfish heart deserves the pain it feels :
More generous sorrow, while it sinks exalts, And conscious virtue mitigates the pang, Nor virtue more than prudence bids me give Swoln thought a second channel : who divide, They weaken too, the torrent of their grief. Take, then, O World! thy much indebted tear: How sad a sight is human happiness To those, whose thought can pierce beyond an hour !
O thou! whate'er thou art, whose heart exults, Wouldst thou I should congratulate thy fate !
I know thou wouldst ; thy pride demands it from me:
Let thy pride pardon what thy Nature needs,
The salutary censure of a friend:
Thou happy wretch ! by blindness thou art bless'd ;
By dotage dandled to perpetual smiles.
Know, smiler! at thy peril art thou pleased;
Thy pleasure is the promise of thy pain.
Misfortune, like a creditor severe,
But rises in demand for her delay ;
She makes a scourge of vast prosperity,
To sting thee more, and double thy distress.
Lorenzo! Fortune makes her court to thee ;
Thy fond heart dances while the siren sings.
Dear is thy welfare! think me not unkind; -
I would not damp, but to secure thy joys.
Think not that fear is sacred to the storm;
Stand on thy guard against the smiles of Fate.
Is $H$ aven tremendous in its frowns? most sure;
And in its favours formidable too :

A call to duty, not discharge from care,
And should alarm us full as much as woes,
Awake us to their cause and consequence,
O'er our scann'd conduct give a jealous eye, And make us tremble, yeigh'd with our desert; 335
Awe Nature's tumult, and chastise her joys,
Lest while we clasp we kill them ; nay, invert
To worse than simple misery their charms.
Revolted joys, like foes in civil war,
Like bosom friendships to resentment sour'd, 340
With rage envenom'd rise against our peace.
Beware what earth calls happiness ; beware
All joys but joys that never can expirc.
Who builds on less than an immortal base,
Fond as he seems, condemns his joys to death. 345
Mine died with thee, Philander ; thy last sigh
Dissolved the charm; the disenchanted earth
Lost all her lustre. Where her glittering towers?
Her golden mountains where? all darken'd down
To naked waste ; a dreary vale of tears. 350
The great magician's dead! Thou poor, pale piece
Of outcast earth, in darkness : what a change
From yesterday! Thy darling hope so near,
(Long-labour'd prize!) O how ambition flush'd
Thy glowing cheek! ambition truly great,
Of virtuous praise. Death's subtle seed within, (Sly, treacherous miner!) working in the dark,
Smiled at thy well concerted scheme, and beckon'd
The worm to riot on that rose so red,
Unfaded ere it fell, one moment's prey!
Man's foresight is conditionally wise ;
Lorenzo! wisdom into folly turns
Oft, the first instant ; its idea fair
To labouring thought is born. How dim our eye !
The present moment terminates our sight; 36 J
Clouds, thick as those on Doomsday, drown the next:
We penetrate, we pronhesy in vain,

ON LIFE, DEATH, AND IMMORTALITY. 15
Time is dealt out by particles, and each Are mingled with the streaming sands of life. By Fate's inviolable oath is sworn Deep silence,-where Eternity begins.
By Nature's law, what may be may be now ;
There's no prerogative in human hours.
In human hearts what bolder thought can rise
Than man's presumption on to-morrow's dawn?
375
Where is to-morrow? In another world.
For numbers this is certain ; the reverse
Is sure to none ; and yet on this perhaps,
This peradventure, infamous for lies,
As on a rock of adamant, we build
Our mountain hopes, spin out eternal schemes, As we the Fatal Sisters could outspin, And, big with life's futurities, expire.

Not e'en Philander had bespoke his shroud ; Nor had he cause ; a warning was denied. How many fall as sudden, not as safe!
As sudden, though for years admonish'd home ;
Of human ills the last extreme beware ;
Beware, Lorenzo! a slow, sudden death :
How dreadful that deliberate surprise !
Be wise to-day ; 'tis madness to defer :
Next day the fatal precedent will plead;
Thus on, till wisdom is push'd out of life.
Procrastination is the thief of time ;
Year after year it steals, till all are fled,
395
And to the mercies of a moment leaves
The vast concerns of an eternal scene.
If not so frequent, would not this be strange ?
That 'tis so frequent, this is stranger still.
Of man's miraculous mistakes this bears
The palm, 'That all men are about to live,'
For ever on the brink of being born :
All pay themselves the compliment to think
They one day shall not drivel, and their pride
On this reversion takes up ready praise ;

At least their own ; their future selves applauds.
How excellent that life they ne'er will lead!
Time lodged in their own hands is Folly's vails;
That lodged in Fate's to wisdom they consign ;
The thing they can't but purpose they postpone. 410
''Tis not in folly not to scorn a fool,
And scarce in liuman wisdom to do more.
All promise is poor dilatory man,
And that through every stage. When young, indeed,
In full content we sometimes nobly rest, 415
Unanxious for ourselves, and only wish,
As duteous sons, our fathers were more wise.
At thirty man suspects himself a fool;
Knows it at forty, and reforms his plan ;
At fifty chides his infamous delay,
Pushes his prudent purpose to resolve ;
In all the magnanimity of thought
Resolves, and re-resolves ; then dies the same.
And why ? because he thinks himself immortal.
All men think all men mortal but themselves;
Themselves, when some alarming shock of Fate
Strikes through their wounded hearts the suddendread:
But their hearts wounded, like the wounded air, Soon close ; where pass'd the shaft no trace is found.
As from the wing no scar the sky retains,
The parted wave no furrow from the keel, So dies in lhuman hearts the thought of death : E'en with the tender tear which Nature sheds O'er those we love, we drop it in their grave. Can I forget Philander? that were strange !
O my full heart !-But should I give it vent,
The longest night, though longer far, would fail,
And the lark listen to my midnight song.
The sprightly lark's shrill matin wakes the morn ;
Grief's sharpest thorn hard pressing on my breast,
I strive, with wakeful melody, to cheer
The sullen gloom, sweet Philomel ! like thee,
And call the stars to listen : every star

ON LIFE, DEATH, AND IMHCRTALITY. 17
Is deaf to mine, enamour'd of thy lay.
Yet be not vain; there are who thine excel, 445
And charm through distant ages. Wrapp'd in shade, Prisoner of darkness ! to the silent hours
How often I repeat their rage divine,
To lull my griefs, and steal my heart from woe!
I roll their raptures, but not catch their fire.
Dark, though not blind, like thee, Mæonides !
Or, Milton! thee ; ah, could I reach your strain!
Or his* who made Mæonides our own.
Man, too, he sung : immortal man I sing :
Oft bursts my song beyond the bounds of life : 455
What, now, but immortality can please?
O had he press'd his theme, pursued the track
Which opens out of darkness into day !
O had he mounted on his wing of fire,
Soar'd where I sink, and sung immortal man,
How had it bless'd mankind, and rescued me!

* Pope.

NIGHT II.

ON TIME, DEATH, AND FRIENDSHIP.

 to the
RIGHT HON. THE EARL OF WILMINGTON.

' When the cock crew, he wept,'-smote by that eye Which looks on me, on all ; that Power who bids
This midnight sentinel, with clarion shrill, Emblom of that which shall awake the dead, Rouse souls from slumber, into thoughts of Heaven. 5 Shall I too weep? where tinen is fortitude? And fortitude abandon'd, where is man?
I know the terms on which he sees the light:
Ile that is born is listed: life is war ;
Eternal war with woe: who bears it best 10.

Deserves it least.-On other themes I'll dwell. Lorenzo! let me turn my thoughts on thee; And thine on themes may profit; profit there
Where most thy need. Themes, too, the genuine growth
Of dear Philander's dust. He thus, though dead, 15 May still befriend.-What themes? Time's wondrous price,
Death, friendship, and Plilander's final scene.
So could I touch these themes as might obtain Thine ear, nor leave thy heart quite disengaged, The good deed would delight me; half impress
On my dark cloud an Iris, and from grief Call glory.-Dost thou mourn Philander's fate? I know thou say'st it: says thy life the same?
II : nourns the dead who lives az they desire.
Where is that thirst, that avarice of Time, ..... $2 \overline{3}$ (O glorious avarice!) thought of death inspires, As rumour'd robberies endear our gold ?
O Time! than gold more sacred; more a load Than lead to fools, and fools reputed wise. What moment granted man without account?
What years are squander'd, Wisdom's debt unpaid?
Our wealth in days all due to that discharge.
Haste, haste, he lies in wait, he's at the door; Insidious Death! should his strong hand arrest, No composition sets the prisoner free, Eternity's inexorable chain Fast binds, and vengeance claims the full arrear.

How late I shudder'd on the brink! how late Life call'd for her last refuge in despair! That time is mine, O Mead! to thee I owe;
Fain would I pay thee with eternity.
But ill my genius answers my desire:
My sickly song is mortal, prast thy cure.
Accept the will:--that dies not with my strain.
For what calls thy disease, Lorenzo? not
For Esculapian, but for moral aid.
Thou think'st it folly to be wise too soon.
Youth is not rich in time ; it may be poor :
Part with it as with money, sparing ; pay
No moment, but in purchase of its worth ;
And what it's worth, ask deathbeds ; they can tell. Part with' it as with life, reluctant ; big
With holy hope of nobler time to come ;
Time higher aim'd, still nearer the great mark Of men and angels, virtue more divine.
Is this our duty, wisdom, glory, gain ?
(These Heaven benign in vital union binds)
And sport we like the natives of the bough,
When vernal suns inspire? Amusement reigns,
Man's great demand: to trifle is to live :
And is it then a trifl., too, to die?
Thou say'st I preach, Lorenzo! 'tis confess'd.

What if, for once, I preach thee quite awake ?
Who wants amusement in the flame of battle?
Is it not treason to the soul immortal,
Her foes in arms, eternity the prize?
Will toys amuse when medicines cannot cure?
When spirits ebb, when life's enchanting scenes
Their lustre lose, and lessen in our sight,
As lands and cities with their glittering spires,
To the poor shatter'd bark, by sudden storm
Thrown off to sea, and soon to perish there;
Will toys amuse? No; thrones will then be toys,
And earth and skies seem dust upon the scale.
Redeem we time?-Its loss we dearly buy.
What pleads Lorenzo for his high prized sports ?
He pleads Time's numorous blanks; he loudly pleads
The strawlike trifles on Life's common stream.
From whom those blanks and trifles but from thee?
No blank, no trifle Nature made or meant.
Virtue, or purposed virtue, still be thine ;
This cancels thy complaint at once; this leaves
In act no trifle, and no blank in time.
This greatens, fills, immortalizes all ;
This the bless'd art of turning all to gold ;
This the good heart's prerogative to raise
A royal tribute from the poorest hours :
Immense revenue ! every moment pays.
If notking more than purpose in thy power,
Thy purpose firm is equal to the deed.
Who does the best his circumstance allows
Does well, acts nobly ; angels could no more.
Our outward act, indeed, admits restraint :
'Tis not in things o'er thought to domineer.
Guard well thy thought : our thoughts are heard in Heaven! 95
On all important time, through every age,
Though much, and warm, the wise have urged, the man
Is yet unborn who duly weighs ai hour.
'I've lost a day,'-the prince who nobly cried,

ON TIME, DEATH, AND FRIENDSHIP. 21
IIad been an emperor without his crown. 1,00
Of Rome? say, rather, lord of human race:
He spoke as if deputed by mankind.
So should all speak : so reason speaks in all From the soft whispers of that God in man, Why fly to folly, why to frenzy fly,
For rescue from the blessings we possess ?
Time, the supreme !-Time is Eternity;
Pregnant with all cternity can give ;
Pregnant with all that makes archangels smile.
Who murders Time, he crushes in the birth
A power ethereal, only not adored.
Ah! how unjust to Nature and himself
Is thoughtless, thankless, inconsistent man !
Like children babbling nonsense in their sports
We censure Nature for a span too short;
That span too short we tax as tedious too ;
Torture invention, all expedients tire,
To lash the lingering moments into speed,
And whirl us (happy riddance!) from ourselves.
Art, brainless Art! our furious charioteer,
(For Nature's voice unstifled would recal)
Drives headlong towards the precipice of death;
Death most our dread; death thus more dreadful made:
O what a riddle of absurdity !
Leisure is pain ; takes off our chariot wheels :
How heavily we drag the load af life!
Bless'd leisure is our curse ; like that of Cain,
It makes us wander, wander earth around,
To fly that tyrant Thought. As Atlas groan'd
The world beneath, we groan beneath an hour : 130
We cry for mercy to the next amusement ;
The next amusement mortgages our fields ;
Slight inconvenience! prisons hardly frown, From hateful time if prisons set us free.
Yet when Death kindly tenders us relief,
We call him cruel ; years to moments shrink,

Ages to years. The telescope is turn'd: To man's false optics (from his folly false) Time, in advance, behind him hides his wings, And seems to creep, decrepit with his age,

And all mankind, in contradiction strong, Rueful, aghast, cry out on his career.

Leave to thy foes these errors and these ills; 145. To Nature just, their cause and cure explore.
Not short Heaven's bounty, boundless our expense;
No niggard Nature, men are prodigals.
We waste, not use our time ; we breathe, not live.
Time wasted is existence; used, is life:
150
And bare existence man, to live ordain'd,
Wrings and oppresses with enormous weight.
And why? since time was given for use, not waste,
Enjoin'd to fly, with tempest, tide, and stars,
To keep his speed, nor ever wait for man.
Time's use was doom'd a pleasure, waste a pain,
That man might feel his error if unseen,
And, feeling, fly to labour for his cure ;
Not, blundering, split on idleness for ease.
Life's cares are comforts ; such by Heaven design'd;
He that has none must make them, or be wretched.
Cares are employments, and without employ
The soul is on a rack, the rack of rest, To souls most adverse, action all their joy.

Here then the riddle, mark'd above, unfolds;
Then Time turns torment, when man turns a fool.
We rave, we wrestle with great Nature's plan; We thwart the Deity ; and 'tis decreed,
Who thwart His will shall contradict their own.
Hence our unnatural quarrels with ourselves; $\quad \mathbf{1 7 0}$
Our thoughts at enmity ; our bosom-broil:
We push Time from us, and we wish him back:
Lavish of lustrums, and yet fond of life :

ON TIME, DEATH, AND FRIENDSHIP. 23
Life we think long and short, death seek and shun :
Body and soul, like peevish man and wife,
175 United jar, and yet are loath to part.

Oh the dark days of vanity ! while here
How tasteless! and how terrible when gone!
Gone? they ne'er go; when pass'd, they haunt us still. The spirit walks of every day deceased, 180 And smiles an angel, or a fury frowns. Nor death nor life delight us. If time past And time possess'd both pain us, what can please ?
That which the Deity to please ordain'd,
Time used. The man who consecrates his hours 185 By vigorous effort and an honest aim, At once he draws the sting of life and death; He wallss with Nature, and her paths are peace.

Our error's cause and cure are seen : see next Time's nature, origin, importance, speed;
And thy great gain from urging his career, All sensual man, because untouch'd, unseen, He looks on Time as nothing. Nothing else Is truly man's; 'tis Fortune's.-Time's a god! Hast thou ne'er heard of Time's omnipotence?
For, or against, what wonders can he do!
And will : to stand blank neuter he disdains.
Not on those terms was Time (Heaven's stranger!) sent On his important embassy to man. Lorenzo! no: on the long-destined hour,
From everlasting ages growing ripe,
That memorable hour of wondrous birth, When the Dread Sire, on emanation bent, And big with Nature, rising in his might, Call'd forth Creation (for then Time was born) 205 By Godhead streaming through a thousand worlds; Not on those terms, from the great days of Heaven, From old Eternity's mysterious orb
Was Time cut off, and cast beneath the skies; The skies, which watch him in his new abode,
Measuring his motions by revolving spheres,

That horologe machinery divine.
Hours, days, and months, and years, his children, play,
Like numerous wings, around him, as he flies;
Or rather, as unequal plumes they shape 215
His ample piniors, swift as darted flame,
To gain his goal, to reach his ancient rest,
And join anew Eternity, his sire ;
In his immutability to nest,
219
When worlds, that count his circles now, unhinged
(Fate the loud signal sounding) headlong rush
To timeless night and chaos, whence they rose.
Why spur the speedy ${ }^{\text {j }}$ why with levities
New-wing thy short, short day's too rapid flight?
Know'st thou or what thou dost, or what is done ? 225
Man flies from Time, and Time from man: too soon,
In sad divorce, this double flight must end;
And then where are we? where, Lorenzo! then,
Thy sports, thy pomps? I grant thee in a state
Not unambitious; in the ruffled shroud,
Thy Parian tomb's triumphant arch beneath.
Has Death his fopperies? then well may Life Put on her plume, and in her rainbow shine.

Ye well array'd! ye lilies of our land!
Ye lilies male! who neither toil nor spin, (As sistcr-lilies might) if not so wise As Solomon, more sumptuous to the sight !
Ye delicate! who nothing can support, Yourselves most insupportable! for whom The winter-rose must blow, the Sun put on 240
A brighter beam in Leo ; silky-soft, Favonious ! breathe still softer, or be chid; And other worlds send odours, sauce, and song, And roves, and notions, framed in foreign looms !
O ye Lorenzos of our age! who deem

One moment unamused a misery
Not made for feeble man! who call aloud
For every bauble drivel'd o'er by sense ;
For rattles and conceits of every cast ;

ON TINE, DEAATH, AND FRIENDSHIP. 25
For change of follies and relays of joy,
To drag your patient through the tedious length
Of a short winter's day — say, sages ! say, Wit's oracles! say, dreamers of gay dreams ! How will you weather an eternal night, Where such expedients fail ? -

O treacherous Conscience! while she seems to sleep. On rose and myrt'e, lull'd with siren song ; While she seems, nodding o'er her charge, to drop On headlong Appetite the slacken'd rein, And give us up to license, unrecall'd, The sly informer minutes every fault, And her dread diary with horror fills. Not the gross act alone employs her pen ; She reconnoitres Fancy's airy band.
A watchful foe! the formidable spy Listening, o'erhears the whispers of our camp, Our dawning purposes of heart explores, And steals our embryos of iniquity. As all-rapacious usurers conceal
Their doomsday-book from all-consuming heirs,
Thus, with indulgence most severe, she treats
Us spendthrifts of inestimable time,
Uanoted, notes each moment misapplied;
In leaves more durable than leaves of brass
Writes our whole history, which Death shall read
In evcry pale delinquent's private ear,
And judgment publish, publish to more worlds
Than this, and endless age in groans resound.
Lorenzo! such that sleeper in thy breast ;
Such is her slumber, and her vengeance such For slighted counsel ; such thy future peace; And think'st thou still thou canst be wise too soon?

But why on time so lavish is my song ?
On this great theme kind Nature keeps a school 'To teach her sons herself. Each night we die; Each morn are born anew : each day a life ।

And shall we kill each day? If trifling kills,
Sure vice must butcher. $O$ wh $t$ heaps of slain
Cry out for vengeance on us! Time destroy'd
Is suicide, where more than blood is spilt.
Time flies, death urges, knells call, Heaven invites,
Hell threatens : all exerts; in effort all,
More than creation, labours! Labours more?
And is there in creation what, amidst 295
This tumult universal, wing'd despatch,
And ardent energy, supinely yawns?-
Man sleeps, and man alone ; and man, whose fate,
Fate irreversible, entire, extreme,
Endless, hair-hung, breeze-shaken, o'er the gulf 300
A moment trembles; drops! and man, for whom
All else is in alarm ; man, the sole cause
Of this surrounding storm ! and yet he sleeps,
As the storm rock'd to rest !-Throw years away ?
Throw empires, and be blameless : moments seize, 305
Heaven's on their wing; a moment we may wish,
When worlds want wealth to buy. Bid Day stand still,
Bid him drive back his car, and reimport
The period past, regive the given hour.
Lorenzo! more than miracles we want.
Lorenzo-O for yesterdays to come!
Such is the language of the man awake,
His ardour such for what oppresses thee.
And is his ardour vain, Lozenzo? No ;
That more than miracle the gods indulge.
To-day is yesterday return'd; return'd
Full power'd to cancel, expiate, raise, adorn,
And reinstate us on the rock of peace.
Let it not share its predecessor's fate,
Nor, like its elder sisters, die a fool.
Shall it evaporate in fume, fly off
Fuliginous, and stain us deeper still ?
Shall we be poorer for the plenty pour'd ?
More wretched for the clemencies of Heaven? 324
Where shall I find him? Angels! tell me where -

ON TIME, DEATH, AND FRIENDSHIP. 27

You know him: he is near yoù; point him out. Shall I see glories beaming from his brow, Or trace his footsteps by the rising flowers? Your golden wings, now hovering o'er him, shed Protection ; now are waving in applause
To that bless'd son of foresight ! lord of Fate ! That awful independent on to-morrow ! Whose work is done ; who triumphs in the past ; Whose yesterdays look backwards with a smile, Nor, like the Parthian, wound him as they fly; That common but opprobrious lot! Past hours, If not by guilt, yet wound us by their flight, If folly bounds our prospect by the grave ;
All feeling of futurity benumb'd;
All godlike passion for eternals quench'd ;
All relish of realities expired ;
Renounced all correspondence with the skies;
Our freedom chain'd ; quite wingless our desire ;
In sense dark-prison'd all that ought to snar ;
Prone to the centre ; crawling in the dust ;
Dismounted every great and glorious aim; Imbruted every faculty divine ;
Heart-buried in the rubbish of the world, The world, that gulf of souls, immortal souls, Souls elevate, angelic, wing'd with fire 350 To reach the distant skies, and triumph there On thrones, which shall not mourn their masters changed;
Though we from earth, ethereal they that fell. Such veneration due, O man to man!

Who venerate themselves the world despise. 355
For what, gay friend! is this escutcheon'd world, Which lrangs out death in one eternal night?
A night that glooms us in the noontide ray,
And wraps our thoughts at banquets in the shroud. Life's little stage is a small eminence,
Inch high the grave above, that home of man, Where dwells the multitude : we gaze around;

We read their monuments ; we sigh; and while We sigh we sink ; and are what we deplored:
Lamenting or lamented all our lot!
365
Is Death at distance? No; he has been on thee,
And given sure earnest of his final blow.
Those hours that lately smiled, where are they now?
Pallid to thought, and ghastly ! drown'd, all drown'd
In that great deep which nothing disembogues! 370
And, dying, they bequeath'd thee small renown.
The rest are on the wing : how fleet their flight!
Already has the fatal train took fire ;
A moment, and the world's blown up to thee;
The Sun is darkness, and the stars are dust.
'Tis greatly wise to talk with our past hours, And ask them what report they bore to Heaven, And how they might have borne more welcome news Their answers form what men Experience call ;
If Wisdon's friend, her best; if not, worst foe. 380
O reconcile them! kind Experience cries,
'There's nothing here but what as nothing weighs;
The mure our joy, the more we know it vain,
And by success are tutor'd to despair.'
Nor is it only thus, but must be so.
Who knows not this, though gray, is still a child.
Loose then from earth the grasp of fond desire ;
Weigh anchor, and some happier clime explore.
Art thou so moor'd thou canst not disengage,
Nor give thy thoughts a ply to future scenes?
390
Since by life's passing breath, blown up from earth,
Light aș the summer's dust, we take in air
A moment's giddy flight, and fall again,
Join the dull mass, increase the trodden soil,
And sleep, till Earth herself shall be no more ; 395
Since then (as emmets, their small world o'erthrown)
We, sore amazed, from out earth's ruins crawl,
And rise to fate extreme of foul or fair,
As man's own choice, (controller of the skies!)
As man's despotic will, perhaps one hour,

ON TIME, DEATH, AND FRIENDSHIP.

(O how omnipotent is Time!) decrees ;
Should not each warning give a strong alarm?
Warning, far less than that of bosom torn
From bosom, bleeding o'er the saered dead!
Should not each dial strike us as we pass,
Portentous, as the written wall which struck, O'er midnight bowls, the proud Assyrian pale, Srewhile high flush'd with insolence and wine ?
Like that, the dial speaks, and points to thee, Lorenzo! loath to break thy banquet up:-
' O Man! thy kingdom is departing from thee, And, while it lasts, is emptier than my shade.'
Its silent language such ; nor need'st thou call
Thy Magi to decipher what it means.
Know, like the Median, Fate is in thy walls :
Dost ask how? whence ? Belshazzar-like, amazed :
Man's make encloses the sure seeds of death;
Life feeds the murderer: ingrate! he thrives
On her own meal, and then his nurse devours.
But here, Lorenzo, the delusion lies;
That solar shadow, as it measures life,
It life resembles too. Life speeds away
From point to point, though seeming to stand still.
The cunning fugitive is swift by stealth :
Too subtle is the movement to be seen ;
Yet soon man's hour is up, and we are gone.
Warnings point out our danger; gnomons, time:
As these are useless when the Sun is set,
So those, but when more glorious Reason shines.
Reason should judge in all ; in Reason's eye
That sedentary shadow travels hard;
But such our gravitation to the wrong,
So prone our hearts to whisper what we wish,
'Tis later with the wise than he's aware.
A Wilmington goes slower than the Sun;
And all mankind mistake their time of day;
E'en Age itself. Fresh hopes are hourly sown
In furrow'd brows. So gentle life's descent,

We shat our eyes, and think it is a plain.
We take fair days in winter for the spring,
And turn our blessings into bane. Since oft
Man must compute that age he cannot feel,
He scarce believes he's older for his years.
Thus at life's latest eve we keep in store
One disappointment sure, to crown the rest,
The disappointment of a promised hour.
On this, or similar, Philander! thou
Whose mind was moral as the preacher's tongue,
And strong to wield all science worth the name,
How often we talk'd down the summer's sun,
And cool'd our passions by the breezy stream ! How often thaw'd and shorten'd winter's eve By conflict kind, that struck out latent truth,
Best found so sought, to the recluse more coy!
Thoughts disentangle passing o'er the lip;
Clean runs the thread; if not, 'tis thrown away,
Or kept to tie up nonsense for a song ;
Song, fashionably fruitless, such as stains
The fancy, and unhallow'd passion fires,
Chiming her saints to Cytherea's fane.
Know'st thou, Lorenzo! what a friend contains?
As bees mix'd nectar draw from fragrant flowers,
So men from Friendship, wisdom and delight ;
Twins, tied by Nature ; if they part, they dic.
Hast thou no friend to set thy mind abroach? 46 ã
Good sense will stagnate. Thoughts shut up want air, And spoil, like bales unopen'd to the sun.
Had thought been all, sweet speech had been denied; Specch ! thought's canal ; speech! thought's criterion too:
Thought in the mine may come forth gold or dross ;
When coin'd in word, we know its real worth :
If sterling, store it for thy finture usc ;
'Twill buy thee benefit, perhaps renown.
Thought, too, deliver'd, is the more possess'd ;
Teaching we learn; and giving we retain

The births of intellect ; when dumb, forgot. Speech ventilates our intellectual fire; Speech burnishes our mental magazine ; Brightens for ornament, and whets for use. What numbers, sheath'd in erudition, lie Plunged to the hilts in venerable tomes, And rusted in, who might have borne an edge, And play'd a sprightly beam, if born to speech, If born bless'd heirs of half their mother's tongue! 484 'Tis thought's exhcange, which, like the' alternate push Of waves conflicting, breaks the learned scum, And defecates the student's standing pool.
In contemplation is his proud resource? 'Tis poor as proud, by converse unsustain'd. Rude thought runs wild in Contemplation's field; 490 Converse, the menage, breaks it to the bit Of due restraint ; and Emulation's spur Gives graceful energy, by rivals awed. 'Tis converse qualifies for solitude, As exercise for salutary rest : 495 By that untutor'd, Contemplation raves ; And Nature's fool by Wisdom's is outdone

Wisdom, though richer than Peruvian mines, And sweeter than the sweet ambrosial hive, What is she but the means of happiness? That unobtain'd, than Folly more a fool ; A melancholy fool, without he: bells. Friendship, the means of wisdom, richly gives
The precious end, which makes our wisdom wise. Nature, in zeal for human amity,
Denies or damps an undivided joy. Joy is an import: joy is an exchange ; Joy flies monopolists ; it calls for two : Rich fruit! Heaven-planted ! never pluck'd by one. Needful auxiliars are our friends, to give To social man true relish of himself. Full on ourselves descending in a line, Pleasure's bright beam is feeble in delight :

Delight intense is taken by rebound ;
Reverberated pleasures fire the breast.
515
Celestial Happiness! whene'er she stoops
To visit Earth, one slrine the goddess finds,
And one alone, to make her sweet amends
For absent Heaven-the bosom of a friend;
Where heart meets heart, reciprocally soft,
520
Each other's pillow to repose divine
Beware the counterfeit ; in passion's flame
Hearts melt, but melt like ice, soon harder froze.
True love strikes root in reason, passion's foe:
Virtue alone entenders us for life;
I wrong her much-entenders us for ever.
Of Friendship's fairest fruits, the fruit most fair
Is Virtue kindling at a rival fire,
And emulously rapid in her race.
O the soft enmity! endearing strife !
This carries Friendship to her nọontide point,
And gives the rivet of eternity.
From Friondship, which outlives my former themes, Glorious survivor of otd Time and Death !
From Friendship, thus, that flower of heavenly seed,
'The wise extract earth's most hyblean bliss, 536
Suparior wisdom, crown'd with smiling joy.
But for whom blossoms this Elysian flower?
Abroad they find who cherish it at home.
lorenzo ! pardon what my love extorts,
An honest love, and not afraid to frown.
Though choice of follies fasten on the great,
None clings more obstinate than fancy fond,
That sacred friendship is their easy prey
Caught by the wafture of a golden lure,
Or fascination of a highborn smile.
Their smiles the great, and the coquette, throw out
For others' hearts, tenacious of their own ;
And we no less of ours, when such the bait.
Ye Fortune's cofferers! ye powers of Wealth! 550
Can gold gain friendship? impudence of hope.

As well mere man an angel might beget. Love, and love only, is the loan for love. Lorenzo! pride repress, nor hope to find A friend, but what has found a friend in thee:

All like the purchase, few the price will pay; And this makes friends such miracles below.

What if (since daring on so nice a theme)
I show thee friendship delicate as dear,
Of tender violations apt to die?
560
Reserve will wound it, and distrust destroy.
Deliberate on all things with thy friend:
But since friends grow not thick on every bough
Nor every friend unrotten at the core,
First on thy friend deliberate with thyself;
Pause, ponder, sift ; not eager in the choice, Nor jealous of the chosen : fixing, fix ; Judge before friendship, then confide till death. Well for thy friend, but nobler far for thee. How gallant danger for earth's highest prize!
A friend is worth all hazards we can run.
' Popr is the friendless master of a world; A world in purchase for a friend is gain.'

So sung he (angels hear that angel sing . Angels from friendship gather half their joy)
So sung Philander, as his friend went roupd
In the rich ichor, in the generous blood Of Bacchus, purple god of joyous wit, A brow solute, and ever laughing eye. He drank long health and virtue to his friend ; 580 His friend! who warm'd him more, who more inspired. Friendship's the wine of life ; but friendship new (Not such was his) is neither strong nor pure. O ! for the bright complexion, cordial warmith, And elevating spirit of a friend,
For twenty summers ripening by my side ;
All feculence of falsehood long thrown down,
All social virtues rising in his soul,
As crystal clear, and smiling as they riso !

Here nectar flows; it sparkles in our sight:
Rich to the taste, and genuine from the heart.
High-flavour'd bliss for gods ! on earth how rare !
On earth how lost :-Philander is no more.
Think'st thou the theme intoxicates my song ?
Am I too warm?-Too warm I cannot be.
I loved him much, but now I love him more.
Like birds, whose beauties languish, half conceal'd,
Till, mounted on the wing, their glossy plumes
Expanded, shine with azure, green, and gold;
How blessings brighten as they take their flight! 600
His flight Philander took, his upward flight,
If ever soul ascended. Had he dropp'd,
(That eagle genius!) O had he let fall
One feather as he flew, I then had wrote
What friends might flatter, prudent foes forbear, 605
Rivals scarce damn, and Zuilus reprieve.
Yet what I can I must: it were profane
To quench a glory lighted at the skies,
And cast in shadows his illustrious close.
Strange ! the theme most affecting, most sublime, 610
Momentous most to man, should sleep unsung !
And yet it slceps, by genius unawaked,
Painim or Christian, to the blush of Wit.
Man's highest triumph, man's profoundest fall,
The deathbed of the just! is yet undrawn
By mortal hand; it merits a divine :
Angels should paint it, angels ever there,
There on a post of honour and of joy.
Dare I presume, then? but Philander bids,
And glory tempts, and inclination calls.
Yet am I struck, as struck the soul beneath
Aerial groves' impenetrable gloom,
Or in some mighty ruin's olemn shade,
Or gazing, by pale lamps, on highborn dust
In vaults, thin courts of poor unflatter'd kings,
Or at the midnight altar's hallow'd flame.
It is religion to proceed : I pause-

ON TLME, DEATH, AND FRIENDSHIP. Зコ̆

And enter, awed, the temple of my theme. Is it his deathbed? No ; it is his shrine :
Behold him there just rising to a god.
630
The chamber where the good man meets his fate
Is privileged beyond the common walk
Of virtuous life, quite in the verge of Heaven.
Fly, ye profane! if not, draw near with awe,
Receive the blessing, and adore the chance
635
That threw in this Bethesda your disease :
If unrestored by this, despair your cure ;
For here resistless Demonstration dwells.
A deathbed 's a detector of the heart !
Here tired Dissimulation drops her mask,
640
Through Life's grimace that mistress of the scene !
Here real and apparent are the same.
You see the man, you see his hold on Heaven,
If sound his virtue, as Philander's sound.
Heaven waits not the last moment ; owns her friends
On this side death, and points them out to men; 646
A lecture silent, but of sovereign power ! To Vice confusion, and to Virtue peace.

Whatever farce the boastful hero plays, Virtue alone has majesty in death ;
And greater still, the more the tyrant frowns. Philander! he severely frown'd on thee. ' No warning given! uncerenionious fate! A sudden rush from life's meridian joys! A wrench from all we love! from all we are! 655
A restless bed of pain! á plunge opaque Beyond conjecture ! feeble Nature's dread! Strong Reason's shudder at the dark unknown! A sun extinguish'd! a just opening grave !
And, oh ! the last, the last ; what? (can words express, Thought reach it ?) the last-silence of a friend !'
Where are those horrors, that amazement, where This hideous group of ills which singly shock?
Demand from man-I thought him man, till now. 664
Through Nature's wreck, through vanquish'd agonies,
(Like the stars struggling through this midnight gloom) What gleams of joy ! what more than human peace !
Where the frail mortal, the poor abject worm ?
No, not in death the mortal to be found.
His conduct is a legacy for all,
670
Richer than Mammon's for his single heir.
His comforters he comforts; great in ruin,
With unreluctant grandeur gives, not yields
His soul sublime, and closes ?
How our hearts burn'd within us at the scene! 675
Whence this brave bound o'er limits fix'd to man?
His God sustains him in his final hour !
His final hour brings glory to his God!
Man's glory Heaven vouchsafes to call her own.
We gaze, we weep; mix'd tears of grief and joy! 680
Amazement strikes : devotion bursts to flame:
Christians adore! and infidels believe !
As some tall tower, or lofty mountain's brow,
Detains the Sun, illustrious, from its height,
While rising vapours and descending shades,
With damps and darkness, drown the spacious vale -
Undamp'd by doubt, undarken'd by despair,
Philander thus augustly rears his head,
At that black hour which general horror sheds
On the low level of the' inglorious throng :
Sweet peace, and heavenly hope, and humble joy
Divinely beam on his exalted soul;
Destruction gild and crown him for the skies,
With incommunicable lustre bright.

TO HER GRACE THE DUCHESS OF PORTLAND.

Jgnoscenda quidem, scirent si ignoscere manes. Virg.

Fros dreams, where thought in Fancy's mazeruns mad, To Reasori, that heaven-lighted lamp in man, Once more I wake; and at the destined hour, Punctual as lovers to the moment sworn, I keep my assignation with iny woe.

O ! lost to virtue, lost to manly thought, Lost to the noble sallies of the soul;
Who think it solitude to be alone.
Communion sweet ! communion large and high !
Our reason, gruardian-angel, and our God!
'Then nearest these, when others most remote ;
And all, ere long, shall be remote but these :
How dreadful, then, to meet thein all alone,
A stranger! unacknowledged! unapproved!
Now woo them, wed them, bind them to thy breast;
To win thy wish çreation has no more :
Or if we wish a fourth, it is a friend.-
But friends how mortal! dangerous the desire.
Take Phobus to yourselves, ye basking bards !
Inebriate at fair Fortune's fountain head,
And reeling throngh the wilderness of joy,

Where Sense runs savage, broke from Reason's chain,
And sings false peace, till smother'd by the pall.
My fortune is unlike, unlike my song,
Unlike the Deity my song invokes.
I to day's soft-eyed sister pay my court.
(Endymion's rival,) and her aid implore,
Now first implored in succour to the Muse.
Thou who didst lately borrow Cynthia's* form,
And modestly forego thine own: O thou
Who didst thyself, at midnight hours, inspire !
Say, why not Cynthia, patroness of song ?
As thou her crescent, she thy characte:
Assumes; still more a goddess by the change.
Are there demurring wits who dare dispute
This revolution in the world inspired ?
Ye train Pierian! to the lunar sphere,
In silent hour, address your ardent call
For aid immortal, less her brother's right.
She with the spheres harmonious nightly leads
The mazy dance, and hears their matchless strain,
A strain for gods, denied to mortal ear.
Transmit it heard, thou silver queen of Heaven !
What title or what name endears thee most?
Cynthia! Cyllene! Phæbe-or dost hear $4 \bar{J}$
With higher gust, fair Portland of the skies?
Is that the soft enchantment calls thee down,
More powerful than of old Circean charm?
Come, but from heavenly banquets with thee bring
The soul of song, and whisper in mine ear
The theft divine ; or in propitious dieams
(For dreams are thine) tranfuse it through the breast
Of thy first votary-but not thy last,
If, like thy namesake, thou art ever kind.
And kind thou wilt be, kind on such a theme;
A theme so like thee, a quite lunar theme,
Soft, modest, melancholy, female, fair !
A theme that rose all pale, and told my soul * At the Duke of Norfolk's mastsquerates *
${ }^{?}$ Twas night ; on her fond hopes perpetual night;
A night which struck a damp, a deadlier damp
Than that which snote me from Philander's tomb !
Narcissa follows ere his tomb is closed.
Woes cluster ; rare are solitary woes;
They love a train; they tread each other's heel ;
Her death invades his mournful right, and claims
65 The grief that started from my lids for him; Scizes the faithless, alienated tear, Or shares it cre it falls. So frequent Death, Sorrow he more than causes, he confounds ; For human sighs his rival strokes contend,
And make distress distraction. Oh, Philander !
What was thy fate? a double fate to me!
Portent and plain! a menace and a blow!
Like the black raven hovering o'er my peace, Not less a bird of omen than of prey. It call'd Narcissa long before her hour; It call'd her tender soul by break of bliss, From the first blossom, from the buds of joy; Those few our noxious fate unblasted leaves, In this inclement clime of human life.

Sweet harmonist! and beautiful as sweet! And young as beautiful! and soft as young! And gay as soft! and innocent as gay! And happy (if aught happy here) as good! For Fortune fond had built her nest on high. Jike birds quite exquisite of note and plume, Transfix'd by Fate (who loves a lofty mark) How from the summit of the grove she fell, And left it unharmonious! all its charm Extinguish'd in the wonders of her song !
Her song still vibrates in my ravish'd ear, Still melting there, and with voluptuous pain (O to forget her!) thrilling through my heart.

Song, beauty, youth, love, virtue, joy! this group Of bright ideas, flowers of Paradise,

Kneel, and present it to the skies, as all
We guess of Heaven! and these were all her own;
And she was mine ; and I was-was !-most bless'd-
Gay title of the deepest misery !
100
As bodies grow more ponderous robb'd of life,
Good lost weighs more in grief than gain'd in joy.
Like blossom'd trees o'erturn'd by vernal storm,
Lovely in death the beauteous ruin lay;
And if in death still lovely, lovelier there;
F'ar lovelier ! pity swells the tide of love.
And will not the severe excuse a sigh ?
Scorn the proud man that is ashamed to weep.
Our tears indulged indeed deserve our shame.
Ye that e'er lost an angel, pity me!
Soon as the lustre languish'd in her eye,
Dawning a dimmer day on human sight,
And on her cheek, the residence of Spring,
Pale Omen sat, and scattered fears around
On all that saw, (and who would cease to gaze 115
'That once had seen ?) with haste, parental haste, I flew, I snatch'd her from the rigid North,
Her native bed, on which bleak Boreas blew,
And bore her nearer to the Sun ; the Sun
(As if the Sun could envy) check'd his beam,
120
Denied his wonted succour ; nor with more
Regret beheld her drooping than the bells
Of lilies; fairest lilies, not so fair!
Queen lilies! and ye painted populace
Who dwell in fields, and lead ambrosial lives ! 125
In morn and evening dew your beauties bathe,
And drink the sun, which gives your chceks to glow,
And outblush (mine excepted) every fair ;

- You gladlier grew, ambitious of her hand,

Which often cropp'd your odours, incense meet 130
To thought so pure! Ye lovely fugitives !
Cocval race with man! for man you smile :
Why not, smile at him too? You share, indeed,
His sudden pass ; but not his constant nain.

So man is made, nought ministers delight, 135 But what his glowing passions can engage ; And glowing passions, bent on aught below, Must, soon or late, with anguish turn the scale; And anguish after rapture, how severe!
Rapture ? bold man ! who tempts the wrath divine, 140 By plucking fruit denied to mortal taste, While here presuming on the rights of Heaven. For transport dost thou call on every hour, lorenzo? At thy friend's expense be wise : Lean not on earth ; 'twill pience thee to the heart; A broken reed at best; but oft a spear.:
On its sharp point Peace bleeds, and Hope expires.
Turn, hopeless thought! turn from her.-Thought Resenting rallies, and wakes every woe. [repell'd Snatch'd ere thy prime! and in thy bridal hour! 150 And when kind Fortune, with thy lover, smiled! And when high-flavour'd thy fresh opening joys! And when blind man pronounced thy bliss complete! And on a fcreign shore, where strangers wept ! Strangers to thee, and, more surprising still, 155 Strangers to kindness wept. Their eyes let fall Inhuman tears; strange tears ! that trickled down From marble hearts ! obdurate tenderness ! A tenderness that calld them more severe, In spite of Nature's soft persuasion steel'd:
While Nature melted, Superstition raved ; 'That mourn'd the dead, and this denied a grave.

Their sighs incensed; sighs foreign to the will ! Their will the tiger sucked, outraged the storm; For, oh! the cursed ungodliness of Zeal! While sinful flesh relented, spirit nursed In blind Infallibility's embrace, The sainted spirit petrified the breast Denied the charity of dust to spread O'er dust ! a charity their dogs enjoy.
What could I do? what succour? what resouree?
With piaus sacrilege a grave I stole ;

With impious piety that grave I wrong d;
Short in my duty, coward in my grief!
More like her murderer than friend, I crept
With soft-suspended step, and, muffled deep
In midnight darkness, whisper'd my last sigh.
I whisper'd what should echo through their realms,
Nor writ her name, whose tomb should pierce the skies.
Presumptuous fear! how durst I dread her foes, 180
While Nature's londest dictates I obey'd ?
Pardon necessity, bless'd shade ! of grief
And indignation rival bursts I pour'd ;
Half execration mingled with my prayer ;
Kindled at man, while I his God adored:
Sore grudged the savage land her sacred dust ;
Stamp'd the cursed soil; and with humanity
(Denied Narcissa) wish'd them all a grave.
Glows my resentment into guilt? what guilt
Can equal violations of the dead?
The dead how sacred! sacred is the dust
Of this heaven-labour'd form, erect, divine!
This heaven-assumed, majestic robe of earth
He deign'd to wear, who hung the vast expanse
With azure bright, and clothed the Sun in gold. 195
When every passion sleeps that can offend;
When strikes us every motive that can melt ;
When man can wreak his rancour uncontroll'd,
That strongest curb on insult and ill will;
Then! spleen to dust? the dust of innocence? 200
An angel's dust !-This Lucifer transcends;
When he contended for the patriarch's bones.
'Twas not the strife of malice, but of pride ;
The strife of pontiff pride, nut pontiff gall.
Far less than this is shocking in a race
Most wretched, but from streams of mutual love ;
And uncreated, but for love divine ;
And but for love divine this moment lost,
By Fate resorb'd, and sunk in endless night.
Man hard of herirt to man! oï horrid things

Most horrid! mid stupendous highly strange ! Yet oft his courtesies are emoother wrongs ; Pride brandishes the favours he confers, And contumelious his humanity :
What then his vengeance? Hear it not, ye Stars ! 215 And thou, pale Moon! turn paler at the sound, Man is to man the sorest, surest ilr:
A previous blast foretels the rising' storm;
O'erwhelming turrets threaten, ere they fall; Volcanos bellow, ere they disembogue ;
Earth trembles, ere her yawning jaws devour ; And smoke betrays the wide consuming fire : Ruin from man is most conceal'd when near, And sends the dreadful tidings in the blow. Is this the flight of Fancy? would it were!
Heaven's Sovercign saves all beings, but himself, That hideous sight, a naked human heart.

Fired is the Muse ? and let the Muse be lired: Who not inflamed, when what he speaks he feels, And in the nerve most tender, in his friends; Shame to mankind! Philander had his foes ; He felt the truths I sing, and I in him ; But he nor I feel more. Past ills, Narcissa! Are sunk in thee, thou recent woיnd of heart, Which bleeds with other cares, with other pangs, 23.3 Pangs numerous as the numerous ills that swarm'd O'er thy distinguish'd fate, and, clustering there, Thick as the locust on the land of Nile, Made death more deadly, and more dark the grave. Reflect (if not forgot my'toucl.ng tale)
How was each circumstance with aspics arm'd!
An aspic each, and all an hydra woe.
What strong Herculean virtue could suffice? Or is it virtue to be conquer'd here? This hoary cheek a train of tears bedews,
And each tear mourns its own distinct distress,
And each distress, distinctly mourn'd, demands
Of grief still more as heighten'd by the whole.

A grief like this proprietors excludes:
Not friends alone such obsequies deplore ;
They make mankind the mourner ; carry sighs
Far as the fatal Fame can wing her way,
And turn the gayest thought of gayest age
Down their right channel, through the vale of death.
The vale of death! that hush'd Cimmerian vale,
Where Darkness, brooding o'er unfinish'd fates, 256
With raven wing incumbent, waits the day
(Dread day !) that interdicts all future change ;
That subterranean world, that land of ruin!
Fit walk, Lorenzo! for proud human thought! 260
There let my thoughts expatiate, and explore
Balsamic truths and healing sentiments,
Of all most wanted, and most welcome, here.
For gay Lorenzo's sake, and for thy own,
My soul! 'The fruits of dying friends survey; 265
Expose the vain of life; weigh life and death:
Give Death his eulogy; thy fear subdued ;
And labour that first palm of noble minds,
A manly scorn of terror from the tomb.'
This harvest reap from thy Narcissa's grave. $\quad 270$
As poets feig'd from Ajax' streaming blood
Arose, with grief inscribed, a mournful flower,
Let wisdom blosson from my mortal wound.
And first, of dying friends; what fruit from these?
It brings us more than triple aid; an aid $2 \% 5$
To chase our thoughtlessness, fear, pride, and guilt.
Our dying friends come o'er us like a cloud,
To damp our brainless ardours, and abate
That glare of life which often blinds the wise.
Our dying friends are pionecrs, to smooth
Our rugged pass to death ; to break those bars
Of terror and abhorrence Nature throws
Cross our obstructed way, and thus to make
Welcome, as safe, our port from every storm.
Each friend by Fate snatch'd from us is a plume, 285 Pluck'd from the wing of human vanity,

Which makes us stoop from our aerial heights, And damp'd with omen of our own decease, On drooping pinions of ambition lower'd, Just skim earth's surface ere we break it up, O'er putrid earth to scratch a little dust, And save the world a nuisance. Smitten friends Are angels sent on errands full of love; For us they languish, and for us they die:
And shall they languish, shall they die, in vain? 295 Ungrateful, shall we grieve their hovering shades, Which wait the revolution in our hearts?
Shall we disdain their silent, soft, address, Their posthumous advice, and pious prayer? Senseless as herds that graze their hallow'd graves, Tread under font their agonies and groans, 301
Frustrate their anguish, and destroy thoir deaths?
Lorenzo! no ; the thought of death indulge; Give it its wholesome empire! let it reign, That kind chastiser of thy soul, in joy !
Its reign will spread thy glorious conquests far, And still the tumults of thy ruffled breast. Auspicious era! golden days, begin!
The thought of death shall, like a god, inspire.
And why not think on death? Is life the theme 310
Of every thought? and wish of every hour?
And song of every joy? surprising truth!
The beaten spaniel's fondness not so strange.
To wave the numerous ills that seize on life
As their own property, their lawful prey;
Ere man lins measured half his weary stage,
Ilis luxuries have left him no reserve,
No maiden relishes, unbroach'd delights :
On cold-served repetitions he subsists,
And in the tasteless present chews the past ;
Discrusted chiews, and scarce can swallow down.
Like lavish ancestors, his earlier years
Have disinherited his future hours,
Which starve on orts, and glean their former field.

Live ever here, Lorenzo !-shocking thought! 325 So shocking! they who wish, disown it too; Disown from shame, what they from folly crave. Live ever in the womb, nor sce the light? For what, live ever here ?-with labouring step To tread our former footsteps? pace the round Eternal? to climb life's worn heavy wheel, Which draws up nothing new ? to beat, and beat The beaten track? to bid each wretched day The former mock ? to surfeit on the same, And yawn our joys? or thank a misery 335 For change though sad! to see what we have seen? Hear, till unheard, the same old slabber'd tale ?
To taste the tasted, and at each return
Less tasteful? o'er our palates to descant
Another vintage? strain a flatter year
340
Through loaded vessels, and a laxer tone?
Crazy machines to grind Earth's wasted fruits !
Ill ground, and worse concocted! load, not «ife!
The rational foul kennels of excess !
Still-streaming thoroughfares of dull debauch! 345
Trembling each gulp, lest Death should snatch the bowl.
Such of our fine ones is the wish refined!
So would they have it : elegant desire!
Why not invite the bellowing stalls and wiids?
But such examples might their riot awe.
Through want of virtue, that is, want of thought,
(Though on bright Thought they father all their flights)
To what are they reduced? to love and hate
The same vain world; to censure and espouse
This painted shrew of life, who calls them fool
Each moment of each day; to flatter bad, Through dread of worse ; to cling to this rude rock,

- Barren to them of good, and sharp with ills, And hourly blacken'd with impending storms,
And infamous for wrecks of human hope-
Scared at the gloomy gulf that yawns beneath.
Such are their triupphs! such their pangs of joy!

Tis time, high time, to shift this dismal scene. This hugg'd, this hideous state, what art can cure? One only, but that one what all may reach : 365 Virtue-she, wonder-working goddess! charms That rock to bloom, and tames the painted shrew;
And what will more surprise, Lorenzo! gives To life's sick, nauscous iteration, change ; And straightens Nature's circle to a line. Believest thou this, Lorenzo ? lend an ear, A paticnt ear ; thou'lt blush to disbelieve.

A languid, leaden iteration reigns, And ever must, o'er those whose joys are joys Of sight, smell, taste. The cuckoo-seasons sing The same dull note to such as nothing prize But what those seasons, from the teeming earth, To doting sense indulge : but nobler minds, Which relish fruits unripen'd by the Sun, Make their days various ; various as the dyes On the dove's neck, which wanton in his rays. On minds of dovelike innocence possess'd, On lighten'd minds that bask in Virtue's beams, Nothing hangs tedious, nothing old revolves In that for which they long, for which they live. 385 Their glorious efforts, wing'd with heavenly hope, Each rising morning sces still higher rise ; Each bounteous dawn its novelty presents To worth maturing, new strength, lustre, fame ; While Nature's circle, like a chariot-wheel
Rolling beneath their elevated aims,
Makes their fair prospect fairer every hour, Advancing rirtue in a line to bliss; Virtue, which Christian motives best inspire ; 394 And bliss, which Christian schemes alone ensure!

And shall we then, for Virtue's sake, commence Apostate, and turn infidels for joy?
A truth it is few doubt, but fewer trust, 'He sins against this life, who slights the next.' What is this life? how few their favourite know! 400

Fond in the dark, and blind in our embrace,
By passionately loving Life, we make
Loved Life unlovely, hugging her to death.
We give to time cternity's regard,
And dreaming, take our passage for our port.
dife has no value as an end, but means ;
An end deplorable! a means divine!
When 'tis our all, 'tis nothing' worse than nought ;
A nest of pains: when held as nothing, much.
Like some fair humorists, life is most enjoy'd 410
When courted least ; most worth when disesteem'd ;
Then 'tis the seat of comfort rich in peace;
In prospect richer far ; important! awful!
Not to be mentioned but with shouts of praise !
Not to be thought on but with tides of joy !
The mighty basis of eternal bliss !
Where now the barren rock? the painted shrew?
Where now, Lorenzo, life's eternal round?
Have I net made my triple promise good?
Vain is the world, but only to the vain.
To what compare we then this varying scene,
Whose worth, ambiguous, rises and declines,
Waxes and wanes? (in all propitious Night
Assists me here) compare it to the moon ;
Dark in herself, and indigent, but rich
In borrow'd lustre from a higher sphere.
When gross guilt interposes, labouring Earth,
O'ershadow'd, mourns a deep celipse of joy;
Her joys at brightest, pallid to that font
Of full effulgent glory whence they flow.
Nor is that glory distant. Oh, Lorenzo!
A good man and an angel! these between
How thin the barrier! what divides their fate?
Perhaps a moment, or perhaps a year ; ,
Or if an age, it is a moment still ;
A noment, or Eternity's forgot.
Then be what once they were who now are geds:
LI: what Philander was, and claim the skies.

Starts timid Nature at the gloomy pass?
The soft transition call it, and be cheer'd:
Such it is often, and why not to thee ?-
To hope the best is pious, brave, and wise,
And may itself procure what it presumes.
Life is much flatter'd, Death is much traduced;
Compare the rivals and the kinder crown.
'Strange competition!'-True, Lorenzo! strange !
So little life can cast into the scale.
Life makes the soul dependent on the dust,
Death gives her wings to mount above the spheres.
Through chinks, styled organs, dim life, peeps at light ;
Death bursts the involving cloud, and all is day : 451
All eye, all ear, the disembodied power.
Death has feign'd evils Nature shall not feel;
Life, ills substantial wisdom cannot shun.
Is not the mighty mind, that sun of Heaven! $45 \overline{5}$
By tyrant Life dethroned, imprison'd, pain'd?
By Death enlarged, ennobled, deified?
Death but entombs the body, Life the soul.
'Is Death then guiltless? How he marks his way
With dreadful waste of what deserves to shine! 460
Art, Genius, Fortune, elevated power !
With various lustres these light up the world,
Which Death puts out, and darkens human race.'
I grant, Lorenzo ! this indictment just :
The sage, peer, potentate, king, conqueror! 465
Death humbles these; more barbarous Life, the man Life is the triumph of our mouldering clay;
Death of the spirit infinite ! divine!
Death has no dread but what frail Life imparts, Nor Life true joy but what kind Death improves. 470 No bliss has Life to boast, till Death can give Far greater. Life's a debtor to the grave; Dark lattice! letting in eternal day.

Lorenzo! blush at fondness for a life Which sends celestial souls on errands vile, To cater for the sense, and serve at boards

Where every ranger of the wilds, perhaps

- Each reptile, justly claims our upper hand.

Luxurious feast ! a soul, a soul immortal,
In all the dainties of a brute bemired!
Lorenzo! blush at terror for a death
Which gives thee to repose in festive bowers.
Where nectars sparkle, angels minister,
And more than angels share, and raise, and crown,
And eternize, the birth, bloom, bursts of bliss.
What need I more? -O Death! the palm is thine.
Then welcome, Death! thy dreaded harbingers,
Age and disease; Disease, though long my guest,
That plucks my nerves, those tender strings of life :
Which pluck'd a little more, will toll the bell
That calls my few friends to my funcral ;
Where feeble nature drops, perhaps, a tear,
While Reason and Religion, better taught,
Congratulate the dead, and crown his tomb
With wreath triumphant. Death is victory !
It binds in chains the raging ills of life :
Lust and Ambition, Wrath and Avarice,
Dragg'd at his chariot-wheel, applaud his power.
That ills corrosive, cares importunate,
Are not immortal too, O Death! is thine.
Our day of dissolution ?-name it right,
'Tis our great pay-day ; 'tis our harvest rich
And ripe. What though the sickle, sometimes keen, Just scars us as we reap the golden grain?
More than thy balm, O Gilead! heals the wound. 505
Birth's feeble cry, and Death's deep dismal groan,
Are slender tributes low-tax'd Nature pays
For mighty gain: the gain of each a life !
But, O ! the last the former so transcends,
509
Life dies, compared; Life lives beyond the grave.
And feel I, Death! no joy from thought of thee?
Death! the great counsellor, who man inspires
With every nobler thought and fairer deed !
Death! the deliverer, who rescues man !

Death the rewarder, who the rescued crowns! 515 Death ! that absolves my birth, a curse without it! Rich Death! that realizes all my cares, Toils, virtues, hopes; without it a chimera; Death! of all pain the period, not of joy ; Joy's source and subject still subsist unhurt ; 520 One in my soul, and one in her great sire, Though the four winds were warring for my dust. Yes, and from winds and waves, and central night, Though prison'd there, my dust, too, I reclaim, (To dust when drop proud Nature's proudest spheres) And live entire. Death is the crown of life! 526 Were death denied, poor man would live in vain: Were death denied, to live would not be life : Were death denied, e'en fools would wish to die. Death wounds to cure ; we fall, we rise, we reign! 530 Spring from our fetters, fasten in the skies, Where blooming Eden withers in our sight. Death gives us more than was in Eden lost: This king of terrors is the prince of peace. When shall I dic to vanity, pain, death ? When shall I die?-when shall I live for ever?

CONTAINING

OUR ONUY CURE FOR THE FEAR OF IDEATH, AND PROPER SENTIMENTS OF HEART ON TIIAT INESTIMABLE

BLESSING.

TO THE HON. MR. YORKE.

A much indebted Muse, O Yorke! intrudes.
Amid the smiles of fortune and of youth,
Thine ear is patient of a serious song.
How deep implanted in the breast of man
-The dread of death! I sing its sovereign cure. 5
Why start at Death? where is he? Death arrived,
Is past ; not come, or gone ;- he's never here.
Ere hope, sensation fails. Black-boding men,
Receives, not suffers, Death's tremendous blow.
The knell, the shroud, the mattock, and the grave ; 10
The deep damp vault, the darkness, and the worm;
These are the bugbears of a winter's eve,
The terrors of the living, not the dead.
Imagination's fool, and Error's wretch,
Man makes a death which Nature never made: 15
Then on the point of his own fancy falls,
And feels a thousand deaths in fearing one.
But were Death frightful, what has age to fear?
If prudent, age should meet the friendly foe,
And shelter in his hospitable glonm.
I scarce can meet a monument, but holds

My younger ; every date cries-' Come away.' And what recals me? look the world around, And tell me what: the wisest cannot tell. Should any born of woman give his thouglit
Full range, on just Dislike's unbounded field ;
Of things the vanity, of men the flaws :
Fiaws in the best ; the many, flaw all o'er ;
As leopards spotted, or as Lthiops dark ;
Vivacious ill ; good dying immature ;
(How immature, Narcissa's marble tells!)
And at his death bequeathing endless pain ;
Ifis heart, though bold, would sicken at the sight,
And spend itself in sighs for future scenes.
But grant to life (and just it is to grant
To lucky life) some perquisites of joy ;
A time there is when, like a thrice-told tale, Long-rifled life of sweet can yield no more, But, from our comment on the comedy, Pleasing reflections on parts well sustain'd40

Or purposed emendations where we fail'd, Or hopes of plaudits from our candid Judge, When, on their exit, souls are bid unrobe, Toss Fortune back her tinsel and her plume, And drop this mask of flesh behind the seene.

With me that time is come; my world is dead; A new world rises, and new manners reign: Foreign comedians, a spruce band! arrive, To push me from the scene, or hiss me there. What a pert race starts up! the strangers gaze, And I at them; my neighbour is unknown; Nor that the worst. Ah me! the dire effect Of loitering here, of death defrauded long. Of old so gracious (and let that suffice) My very master knows me not.

Shall I dare say peculiar is my fate? J've been so long remember'd I'm forgot. An object ever pressing dims the sight, And hides behind its ardour to be seen.

When in his courtiers' ears I pour my plaint,
They drink it as the nectar of the great,
And squeeze my hand, and beg me come to-morrow.
Refusal! canst thou wear a smoother form?
Indulge me, nor conceive I drop my theme.
Who cheapens life abates the fear of death.
Twice told the period spent on stubborn Troy,
Court-favour, yet untaken, I besiege ;
Ambition's ill judged effort to be rich.
Alas! ambition makes my little less,
Imbittering the possess'd. Why wish for more? 70
Wishing of all employments is the worst ;
Plilosophy's reverse, and health's decay !
Were I as plump as stall'd Theology,
Wishing would waste me to this shade again.
Were I as wealthy as a South Sea dream,
Wishing is an expedient to be poor.
Wishing, that constant hectic of a fool,
Caught at a court, purged off by purer air
And simpler diet, gifts of rural life!
Bless'd be that hand divine, which gently laid
My heast at rest, beneath this humble shed.
The world's a stately bark, on dangerous seas
With pleasure seen, but boarded at our peril:
Here on a single plank, thrown safe ashore,
I hear the tumult of the distant throng,
As that of seas remote, or dying storms !
And meditate on scenes more silent still;
Pursue my theme, and figltt the fear of death.
Here, like a sheplierd gazing from his hut, Touching his reed, or leaning on his staff,
Eager Ambition's fiery chase I see;
I see the circling hunt of neisy men
Burst law's enclosure, leap the mounds of right,
Pursuing and pursued, each other's prey ;
As wolves for rapine, as the fox for wiles,
Fill Death, that mighty hunter, earths them all.
Why all this toil for triumphs of an hour?

What though we wade in wealth, or soar in fame ?
Earth's highest station ends in, 'Here he lies;'
And 'dust to dust' concludes her noblest song. 100
If this song lives, posterity shall know
One, though in Britain born, with courtiers bred,
Who thought e'en gold might come a day too late ;
Nor on his subtle deathbed plann'd his scheme
For future vacancies in church or state,
Some avocation deeming it-to die ;
Unbit by rage canine of dying rich, Guilt's blunder ! and the loudest laugh of Hell.

O my coevals! remnants of yourselves.
Poor human ruins totteriug o'er the grave!
Shall we, shall aged men, like aged trees,
Strike deeper their vile root, and closer cling,
Still more enamour'd of this wretched soil?
Shall our pale wither'd hands be still stretched out,
Trembling, at once, with eagerness and age ?
With avarice and convulsions, grasping hard ?
Grasping at air! for what has earth beside ?
Man wants but little, nor that little long:
How soon must he resign his very dust,
Which frugal Nature lent him for an hour!
Fears unexperienced rush on numcrous ills:
And soon as man, expert from time, has found The key of life, it opes the gates of death.

When in this vale of years I backward look, And miss such numbers, numbers too, of such Firmer in healt!, and greener in their age, And stricter on their guard, and fitter far To play life's subtle game, I scarce believe
I still survive. And am I fond of life,
Who scarce can think it possible I live ?
Alive by miracle! or, what is next,
Alive by Mead! if I am still alive,
Who long have buried what gives life to live,
Firmness of nerve, and energy of thought.
Life's lee is not more shallow than impure

And vapid: Sense and Reason show the door,
Call for my bier, and point me to the dust.
O thou great Arbiter of life and death !
Nature's immortal, immaterial Sun!
Whose all-prolific beam late call'd me forth
From darkness, teeming darkness, where I lay
The worm's inferior ; and, in rank, beneath
The dust I tread on ; high to bear my brow,
To drink the spirit of the golden day,
And triumph in existence ; and couldst know
No motive but my bliss; and hast ordain'd A rise in blessing! with the patriarch's joy, Thy call I follow to the land unknown;
1 trust in thee, and know in whom I trust :
Or life or death is equal; neither weighs ;
All weight in this- $O$ let me live to Thee!
Though Nature's terrors thus may be repress'd, Still frowns grim Death; guilt points the tyrant's spear. And whence all human guilt?-From death forgot.
Ah me: too long I set at nought the swarm 153
Of friendly warnings which around me flew,
And smiled unsmitten. Small my cause to smile !
Death's admonitions, like shafts upward shot,
More dreadful by delay; the longer ere
They strike our hearts, the deeper is their wound: 160
O think how deep, Lorenzo! here it stings;
Who can appease its anguish ? How it burns !
What hand the barb'd, envenom'd thought ean draw ?
What healing hand can pour the balm of peace,
And turn my sight undaunted on the tomb ?
With joy,-with grief, that healing hand I see ;
Ah! too conspicuous! it is fixed on high.
On high ?-what means my frenzy ? I blaspheme :
Alas! how low! how far beneath the skies!
The skies it form'd, and now it bleeds for me- $\quad 170$
But bleeds the balm I want-yet still it bleeds;
Draw the dire steel-ah, no! the dreadful blessing
What heart or can sustain, or dares forego ?

THE CHRISTIAN TRIUMPH.

There hangs all human hope ; that nail supports The falling universe : that gone, we drop;

Creation had been smother'd in her birthDarkness his curtain, and his bed the dust, When stars and sun are dust beneath his throne; In Heaven itself can such indulgence dwell ?180
$O$ what a groan was there! a groan not his : He seized our dreadful right, the load sustain'd, And heaved the mountain from a guilty world. A thousand worlds, so bought, were bought too dear ; Sensations new in angels' bosoms rise, Suspend their song, and make a pause in bliss.

O for their song to reach my lofty theme ! Inspire me, Night! with all thy tuneful spheres: Whilst I with serapis share seraphic themes, And show to men the dignity of man; Shall Pagan pages glow celestial flame, And Christian languish ? On our hearts, not heads, Falls the foul infamy. My heart! awake: What can awake thee, unawaked by this,

Feel the great truths which burst the tenfold night Of Heathen error with a golden flood Of endless day. To feel is to be fired; And to believe, Lorenzo ! is to feel.

Thou most indulgent, most tremendous Pcwer ! Still more tremendous for thy wonderous love ! That arms with awe more awful thy commands, And foul transgression dips in sevenfold guilt; How our hearts tremble at thy love immense ! 205 In love immense, inviolably just ! Thou, rather than thy justice should be strain'd, Didst stain the Cross ; and, work of wonders far The greatest, that thy dearest far might bleed. -

Boid thought ! shall I dare speak it or repress? 210 Should man more ex́ecrate or boast the guilt

Which roused such vengeance? which such love in. flamed?
O'er guilt (how mountainous!) with outstretch'd arms
Stern Justice and soft-smiling Love embrace,
Supporting in full majesty thy throne,
When seem'd its majesty to need support ;
Or that, or man, inevitably lost :
What but the fathomless of thought divine
Could labour such expedient from despair,
And rescue both? Both rescue! both exalt !
O how are both exalted by the deed!
The wondrous deed! or shall I call it more?
A wonder in Omnipotence itself!
A mystery no less to gods than men !
Not thus our infidels the' Eternal draw,
A God all o'er consummate, absolute,
Full orb'd, in his whole round of rays complete :
They set at odds Heaven's jarring attributes,
And with one excellence another wound;
Maim Heaven's perfection, break its equal beams, 230
Bid mercy triumph over-God himself,
Undeified by their opprobrious praise :
A God all mercy is a God unjust.
Ye brainless wits! ye baptized infidels !
Ye worse for mending ! wash'd to fouler stains! 235
The ransom was paid down; the fund of Heaven,
Heaven's inexhaustible, exhausted fund,
Amazing and amazed, pour'd forth the price,
All price beyond: though curious to compute,
Archangels fail'd to cast the mighty sum :
Its value vast, ungrasp'd by minds create,
For ever hides and glows in the Supreme.
And was the ransom paid? it was; and paid
(What can exalt the bounty more:) for you!
The Sun beheld it.-No, the shocking seene, 245
Drove back his chariot: midnight veil'd his face ;
Not such as this, not such as Nature makes ;
A midnight Nature shưdder'd to behold;

A midnight new ! a dread eclipse (without Opposing spheres) from her Creator's frown!
Sun! didst thou fly thy Maker's pain? or start At that enormous load of human guilt
Which bow'd his blessed head, o'erwhelm'd his cross,
Made groan the centre, burst earth's marble :womb
With pangs, strange pangs ! deliver'd of her dead ? 255
Hell howld; and Heaven that hour let fall a tear :
Heaven wept, that men might smile! Heaven bled, that man
Might never die!
And is devotion virtue? 'tis corppell'd. What heart of stone but glows at thoughts like these? Such contemplations mount us, and should mount 261 The mind still higher, nor ever glance on man Unraptured, uninflamed.-Where roll'd my thoughts To rest from wonders? other wonders rise, And strike where'er they roll : my soul is caught : 265 Heaven's sovereign blessings, clustering from the cross, Rush on her, in a throng, and close her round, The prisoner of amaze !-In his bless'd life I see the path, and in his death the price, And in his great ascent the proof supreme, Of immortality.-And did he rise?Hear, O ye Nations! hear it, O ye Dead! He rose ! he rose ! he burst the bars of Death. Lift up your heads, ye everlasting Gates! And give the King of glory to come in.
Who is the King of glory? he who left His throne of glory for the pang of death. Lift up your heads, ye everlasting Gates ! And give the King of glory to come in. Who is the King of glory? he who slew
The ravenous foe that gorged all human race!
The King of glory He, whose glory fill'd Heaven with amazement at his love to man, And with divine complaceney beheld Powers most illumined, wilder'd in the theme.

The theme, the joy, how then shall man sustain?
Oh, the burst gates ! crush'd sting ! demolish'd throne!
Last gasp of vanquish'd Death! Shout, earth and heaven,
This sum of good to man! whose nature then
Took wing, and mounted with him from the tomb. 290
Then, then I rose ; then first Humanity
Triumphant pass'd the crystal ports of light,
(Stupendous gudst !) and seized eternal youth,
Seized in our name. E'er since 'tis blasphemous
To call man mortal. Man's mortality 295
Was then transferr'd to death; and Heaven's duration
Unalienably seal'd to this frail frame,
This child of dust.-Man, all immortal! hail ;
Hail, Heaven! All lavish of strange gifts to man!
Thine all the glory, man's the boundless bliss! 300
Where am I rapp'd by this triumphant theme,
On Christian joy's exulting wing, above
The' Aonian mount !-Alas ! small cause for joy!
What, if to pain immortal ? if extent
Of being, to preclude a close of woe ?
305
Where, then, my boast of immortality ?
I boast it still, though cover'd o'er with guilt :
For guilt, not innocence, his life he pour'd ;
'Tis guilt alone can justify his death ;
Nor that, unless his death can justify
Relenting guilt in Heaven's indulgent sight.
If, sick of folly, I relent ; he writes
My name in Heaven with that inverted spear
(A spear deep dipped in blood) which pierced his side, And open'd there a font for all mankind, 315
Who strive, who combat crimes, to drink and live:
This, only this, subdues the fear of death !
And what is this?-Survey the wondrous cure,
And at each step let higher wonàer rise !
' Pardon for infinite offence! and pardon
Through means that speak its value infinite :
A pardon bought with blood! with blood divine!
With blood divine of him I made my foe;

Persisted to provoke! though wooed, and awed; Bless'd, and chastised ; a flagrant rebel still!
A rebel midst the thunders of his throne!
Nor I alone! a rebel universe !
My species up in arms! not one exempt !
Yet for the foulast of the foul he dies, Most joy'd for the redcem'd from deepest guilt !
As if our race were held of highest rank; And Godhead dearer, as more kind to man!'

Bound, every heart ; and, every bosom, burn!
0 what a scale of miracles is here!
Its lowest round high planted on the skics, 335
Its towering summit lost beyond the thought
Of man or angel! O that I could climb
The wonderful ascent, with equal praise !
Praise! flow for ever, (if astonishment
Will give thee leave) my praise! for ever flow;
340
Praise ardent, cordial, constant, to high Heaven
More fragrant than Arabia sacrificed,
And all her spicy mountains in a flome.
So dear, so due to Heaven, shall Praise descend
With her soft plume (from plausive angels' wing 345 First pluck'd by man) to tickle mortal ears,
Thus diving in the pockets of the great?
Is praise the perquisite of every paw,
Though black as hell, that grapples well for gold?
O, love of gold! thou meanest of amours !
Shall praise her odours waste on virtues dead,
Embalm the base, perfume the stench of guilt,
Earn dirty bread by washing Ethiops fair,
Removing filth, or sinking it from sight;
A scavenger in scenes where vacant posts,
Like gibbets yet untenanted, expect
Their future ornaments? From courts and thrones
Return, apostate Praise! thou vagabond!
Thou prostitute ! to thy first love return, Tliy first, thy greatest, once unrival'd theme.

There flow redundant, like Meander flow,

Back to the fountain, to that parent Power
Who gives the tongue to sound, the thought to soar,
The soul to be. Men homage pay to men,
Thoughtless beneath whose dreadful eye they bow,
In mutual awe profound, of clay to clay,
Of guilt to guilt, and turn their backs on thee,
Great Sire! whom thrones celestial ceaseless sing ;
To prostrate angels an amazing scene !
0 the presumption of man's awe for man! - $\quad 370$
Man's Author! End! Restorer! Law ! and Judge !
Thine all! Day thine, and thine this gloom of Night,
With all her wealth, with all her radiant worlds.
What night cternal, but a frown from thee ?
What Heaven's meridian glory, but thy smile? 375
And shall not praise be thine, not human praise,
While Heaven's high host on hallelujahs live?
O may I breathe no longer than I breathe
My soul in praise to Him who gave my soul;
And all her infinite of prospect fair,
380
Cut through the shades of hell, great Love! by thee,
Oh most adorable! most unadored !
Where shall that praise begin, which ne'er should end ?
Where'er I turn, what claim on all applause !
How is Night's sable mantle labour'd o'er, 385
How richly wrought with attributes divine!
What wisdom shines; what love! This midnight pomp,
This gorgeous arch, with golden worlds inlaid!
Buict with divine ambition! nought to thee ;
For others this profusion. Thou apart,
Above! beyond! Oh! tell me, mighty Mind!
Where art thou? Shall I dive into the deep?
Call to the Sun? or ask the roaring winds
For their Croator! shall I question loud
The thunder, if in that the' Almighty dwells? 395
Or holds He furious storms in straiten'd reins,
And bids fierce whirlwinds wheel his rapid car ?
What mean these questions ?-Trembling I retract;
My prostrate sonl adores the present/ God!
Praise I a distant Deity? He tunes

My voice (if tuned;) the nerve that writes sustains: Wrapp'd in his being I resound his praise :
But though past all diffused, without a shore His essence, local is his throne (as meet) To gather the dispersed (as standards call
The listed from afar ;) to fix a point, A central point, collective of his sons; Since finite every nature but his own.

The nameless He, whose nod is Nature's birth, And Nature's shield the shadow of his hand;
Her dissolution his suspended smile !
The great First-Last ! pavilion'd high he sits In darkness, from excessive splendour born, By gods unseen, unless through lustre lost. His glory, to created glory, bright,
As that to central horrors : he looks down On all that soars, and spans immensity.
Though night unnumber'd worlds unfolds to view, Boundless Creation! what art thou? a beam, A mere effluvium of his majesty. And shall an atom of this atom world Mutter, in dust and sin, the theme of Heaven? Down to the centre.should I send my thought, Through beds of glittering ore and glowing gems ; Their beggar'd blaze wants lustre for my lay; 425 Goes out in darkness: if, on towering wing, I send it through the boundless vault of stars ! 'The stars, though rich, what dross their gold to thee, Great! good! wise! wonderful! eternal King ! If to those conseious stars thy throne around, Praise ever pouring, and imbibing bliss, And ask their strain : they want it, more they want . Poor their abundance, humble their sublime, Languid their energy, their ardour cold; Indebted still, their highest rapture burns, Short of its mark, defective though divine !

Still more-this theme is man's, and man's alone ;

Thcir vast appointments reach it not ; they see
On earth a bounty not indulged on high,
And downward look for Heaven's superior praise ! 440
Firstborn of Ether ! high in fields of Light !
View man, to see the glory of your God!
Could angels envy, they had envied here :
And some did envy ; and the rest, though gods,
Yet still gods unredeem'd (there triumphs man, 445 Tempted to weigh the dust against the skies,)
They less would feel, though more adorn my theme.
They sung Creation (for in that they shared ;)
How rose in melody that child of love !
Creation's great superior, man! is thine ;
Thine is Redemption! they just gave the key ;
'Tis thine to raise and eternize the song,
Though human, yet divine ; for should not this
Raise man o'er man, and kindle seraphs here?
Redemption! 'twas Creation more sublime ; 455
Redemption ! 'twas the labour of the skies;
Far more than labour-it was death in Heaven!
A truth so strange, 'twere bold to think it true, If not far bolder still to disbelieve.

Here pause and ponder. Was there death in Heaven? What then on carth ? on earth, which struck the blow ? Who struck it? Who-O how is man enlarged, Seen through this medium! How the pigmy towers! How counterpoised his origin from dust !
How counterpoised: to dust his sad return!
How voided his vast distance from the skies!
How near he presses on the seraph's wing!
Which is the seraph ? which the born of clay ?
How this demonstrates, through the thickest cloud
Of guilt and clay condensed, the Son of Heaven ! 4\%0
The double Son; the made, and the remade!
And shall Heaven's double property be lost ?
Man's double madness only can destroy.
To man the bleeding Cross has promised all;
The bleeding Cross has sworn eternal grace.

Who gave his life, what grace shall He deny ?
O ye! who from this rock of ages leap Apostates, plunging headlong in the deep!
What cordial joy, what consolation strong,
Whatever winds arise, or billows roll,
Our interest in the Master of the storm !
Cling there, and in wreck'd Nature's ruins smile ;
While vile apostates tremble in a calm.
Man! know thyself: all wisdom centres there.
To none man scems ignoble, but to man.
Angels that grandeur, men o'erlook, admire :
How long shall human nature be their book,
Degenerate mortal! and unread by thee?
The beam dim Reason sheds shows wonders there ;
What high contents ! illustrious faculties !
But the grand comment, which displays at fill
Our human height, scarce sever'd from divine,
By Heaven composed, was publish'd on the Cross.
Who looks on that, and sees not in himself
An awful stranger, a terrestrial god?
A glorious partner with the Deity
In that high attribute, immortal life?
If a God bleeds, he bleeds not for a worm.
I gaze, and, as I gaze, my mounting soul Catches strange fire, Eternity! at thee, And drops the world-or, rather, more enjoys. How changed the face of Nature! how improved! What seem'd a chaos, shines a glorious world ; Or what a world, an Eden; heighten'd all! It is another scene! another self! 505
And still another, as time rolls along, And that a self far more illustrious still.
Beyond long ages, yet roll'd up in shades
Unpierced by bold Conjecture's keenest ray, What evolutions of surprising Fate!
How Nature opens, and receives my soul, In boundless walks of raptured thought! where gods Enoounter and embrace me ' What new birth

Of strange adventure, foreign to the sun,
Where what now charms, perhaps, whate'er exists
Old Time and fair Creation, are forgot.
Is this extravagant? of man we form
Extravagant conception, to be just :
Conception unconfined wants wings to reach him;
Beyond its reach the Godhead only more.
He , the great Father ! kindled at one flame
The world of rationals : one spirit pour'd
From spirits' awful Fountain ; pour'd Himself
Through all their souls, but not in equal stream,
Profuse, or frugal, of the' inspiring God,
As his wise plan demanded ; and when pass'd Their various trials, in their various spheres, If they continue rational, as made,
Resorbs them all into Hinself again,
His throne their centre, and his smile their crown. 530
Why doubt we, then, the glorious truth to sing,
Though yet unsung, as deem'd, perhaps, too bold ?
Angels are men of a superior kind;
Angels are men in lighter habit clad,
High o'er celestial mountains wing'd in flight; 535
And men are angels, loaded for an hour,
Who wade this miry vale, and climb with pain,
And slippery step, the bottom of the steep.
Angels their failings, mortals have their praise:
While here, of corps ethereal, such enroll'd,
And summon'd to the glorious standard soon,
Which flames eternal crimson through the skies.
Nor are our brothers thoughtless of their kin,
Yet absent; but not absent from their love.
Michael has fought our battles; Raphael sung 545
Our triumphs; Gabriel on our errands flown, Sent by the Sovereign : and are these, 0 man!
Thy friends, thy warm allies? and thou (shame burn
The cheek to cinder !) rival to the brute ?
Religion's all. Descending from the skies
'So wretched man, the goddess in her left

Holds out this world, and in her right the nest Religion! the sole voucher man is man ; Supporter sole of man above hirnself;
E'en in this night of frailty, change, and death, 555 She gives the soul a soul that acts a god. Religion! Providence ! an after state! Here is firm footing ; here is solid rock ; This can support us ; all is sea besides ; Sinks under us ; bestorms, and then devours.
His hand the good man fastens on the sikies, And bids earth roll, nor feels her idle whirl. As when a wretch, from thick polluted air, Darkness and stench, and suffocating damps, And dungeon horrors, by kind Fate discharged,
Climbs some fair eminence, where ether pure Surrounds him, and Elysian prospects rise ; His heart exults, his spirits cast their load, As if newborn he triumphs in the change: So joys the soul, vhen from inglorious aims
And sordid sweets, from feculence and froth Of ties terrestrial set at large, she mounts To Reason's region, her own element,
Breathes hopes immortal, and affects the skies. Religion! thou the soul of happiness,
And, groaning Calvary ! of thee: there shine .
"he noblest truths ; there strongest motives sting;
There sacred violence assaults the soul;
There nothing but compulsion is forborne.
Can love allure us! or can terror awe ?
580
He weeps!-the falling drop puts out the Sun:
He sighs!-the sigh earth's deep foundation shakes.
If in his love so terrible, what then
His wrath inflamed? his tenderness on fire? Like soft, smooth oil, outblazing other fires? Can prayer, can praise, avert it?-Thou, my all! My thene! my inspiration! and my crown ?
Try strength in age! my rise in low estate !
My soul's ambition, pleasure, wealth !-mv world '
ivy light in darkness ! and my life in death !
My boast through time! bliss through eternity!
Eternity, too short to speak thy praise,
Or fathom thy profound of love to man!
To man of men the meanest, e'en to me ;
My-sacrifice! my God!-what things are these! 595
What then art Thnu? by what name shall I call thee?
Knew I the name devout archangels use,
Devout archangels should the name enjoy,
By me unrival'd; thousands more sublime,
None half so dear as that which, though unspoke, 600
Still glows at heart. O how Omnipotence
Is lost in love! thou great Philanthropist !
Father of angels! but the friend of man !
Like Jacob, fondest of the younger born !
Thou who didst save him, snatch the smoking brand
From out the flames, and quench it in thy blood! 606
How art thou pleased by bounty to distress !
To make us groan beneath our gratitude,
Too big for birth ! to favour and confound;
To challenge and to distance all return!
Of lavish love stupendous heights to soar, And leave Praise panting in the distant vale!
Thy right, too greai, defrauds thee of thy due;
And sacrilegrious our sublimest song !
But since the naked will obtains thy smile,
Beneath this monument of praise unpaid,
And future life symphonious to my strain,
(That noblest hymn to Heaven!) for ever lie
Entomb'd my fear of death! and every fear,
The dread of every evil, but thy frown.
Whom see I yonder so demurely smile?
Laughter a labour, and might break their rest.
Ye Quietists ! in homage to the skies!
Serene! of soft address! who mildly make
An unobtrusive tender of your hearts,
Abhorring violence ! who halt indeed,
But, for the blessingi wrestle not with Heaven !

Think you my song too turbulent? too warm? Are passions, then, the pagans of the soul?
Reason alone baptized? alone ordain'd
To touch things sacred? Oh, for warmer still!
Guilt chills my zeal, and age benumbs my powers:
Oh , for an humbler heart and prouder song!
Thou, my much injured Theme! with that soft oyo
Which melted o'er doom'd Salem, deign to look 0135
Compassion to the coldness of my breast,
And pardon to the winter in my strain.
Oh, ye cold-hearted, frozen Formalists !
On such a theme 'tis impious to be calm :
Passion is reason, transport temper here.
Shall Heaven, which gave us ardour, and has shown Her own for man so strongly, not disdain
What smooth emollients in theology,
Recumbent Virtue's downy doctors, preach ;
That prose of piety, a lukewarm praise ?
Rise odours sweet from incense uninflamed?
Devotion when lukewarm is undevout;
But when it glows, its heat is struck to Heaven, To human hearts her golden harps are strung ; High Heaven's orchestra chants Ainen to man.

Hear I, or dream I hear, their distant strain, Swect to the soul, and tasting strong of Heaven, Soft wafted on celestial Pity's plume, Through the vast spaces of the universe, To cheer me in this melancholy gloom? Admit me of their choir? Oh, when will Death This mouldering, old, partition wall throw down? Give beings, one in nature, one abode ? Oh, Death divine ! that givest us to the skies: 660 Great future ! glorious patron of the past And present! when shall I.thy shrine adore ? From Nature's continent, immensely wide, Immensely bless'd, this little isle of life, This dark incarcerating colony

Mivides us. Happy day! that breaks our chain;
That manumits; that calls from exile home;
That leads to Nature's great metropolis,
And readmits us, through the guardian hand
Of elder brothers, to our Father's throne ;
670
Who hears our Advocate, and, through his wounds
Beholding man, allows that tender name.
'Tis this makes Christion triumph a command :
Tis this makes joy a duty to the wise.
"This impious in a good man to be sad. 675
Scest thou, Lorenzo, where hangs all our hope?
Touch'd by the Cross, we live ; or, more than die ;
'That touch which touch'd not angels ; more divine
Than that which touch'd confusion into form,
And darkness into glory ; partial touch !
Incffably preeminent regard!
Sacred to man, and sovereign through the whole
Long golden chain of miracles, which hangs
From Heaven through all duration, and supports,
In one illustrious and amazing plan,
Thy welfare, Nature ! and thy God's renown.
Tliat touch, with eharms celestial, heals the soul
Diseased, drives pain from guilt, lights life in death, Turns earth to Heaven, to heavenly thrones transforms The ghastly ruins of the mouldering tomb.

Dost ask me when? When He who died returns; Returns, how ehanged; where then the man of woe?
In Glory's terrors all the Godhead burns,
And all his courts, exhausted by the tide
Of deities triumphant in his train,
Leave a stupendous solitude in Heaven;
Replenish'd soon, replenish'd with increase
Of pomp and multitude ; a radiant band
Of angels new, of angels from the tomb'
Is this by Fancy thrown remote? and rise
Dark doubts between the promise and event?
I send thee nst to volumes for thy cure ;
Read Nature : Nature is a friend to truth;

Nature is Christian ; preaches to mankind, And bids dead matter aid us in our creed.
Hast thou ne'er seen the comet's flaming flight ;
The' illustrious stranger passing, terror sheds
On gazing nations from his fiery train
Of length enormous; takes his ample round
Through depths of ether ; coasts unnumber'd worlds
Of more than solar glory; doubles wide
Heaven's rnighty cape ; and then revisits eath,
From the long travel of a thousand years.
Thus at the destined period shall return.
He, once on earth, who bids the comet blaze,
And with Him all our triumph o'er the tomb.
Nature is dumb on this important point,
Our Hope precarious in low whisper breathes ;
Faith speaks aloud, distinct ; e'en adders hear, But turn, and dart into the dark again.
Faith builds a bridge across the gulf of death,
To breals the shock blind Nature cannut shun, And lands Thought smoothly on the farther shore
Death's terror is the mountain faith removes, That mountain barrier between man and peace.
'Tis Faith disarms Destruction, and absolves From every clamorous charge the guiltless tomb.

Why disbelieve? Lorenzo !-' Reason bids ;
All-sacred Reason.'-Hold her sacred still;
Nor shalt thou want a rival in thy flame :
All-sacred Reason! source, and soul, of all
Demanding praise, on earth, or earth above !
My heart is thine : deep in its inmost folds
Live thou with life; live dearer of the two.
Wear I the blessed Cross, by Fortune stamp'd
On passive Nature before Thought was born?
My birth's blind bigot! fired with local zeal !-
No: Reason rebaptized me when adult:
Weigh'd true and false in her impartial scale ;
$M y$ heart became the convert of my head,

And made that choice which once was but my fate

- On argument alone my faith is built,'

Reason pursued is Faith; and unpursued,
Where proof invites, 'tis reason then no more:
And such our proof, that or our Faith is right,
745
Or Reason lies, and Heaven designed it wrong.
Absolve we this! what then is blasphemy ? -
Fond as we are, and justly fond of Faith,
Reason, we grant, demands our first regard;
The mother honour'd, as the daughter dear.
Reason the root, fair Faith is but the flower:
The faxding flower shall die, but Reason lives
Immortal, as her Father in the skies !
When Faith is virtue, Reason makes it so.
Wrong not the Christian ; think not Reason yours;
'Tis Reason our great Master holds so dear ;
${ }^{3}$ Tis Reason's injured rights his wrath resents;
'Tis Reason's voice obey'd his glories crown :
To give lost Reason life he pourd his own.
Believe, and show the reason of a man;
Believe, and taste the pleasure of a god;
Believe, and look with triumph on the tomb.
Through Reason's wounds alone thy Faith can die,
Which dying, tenfold terfor gives to Death,
And dips in venom his twice mortal sting.
Learn hence what honours, what loud pæans, due
To those who push our antidote aside ;
Those boasted friends to Reason and to man,
Whose fatal love stabs every joy, and leaves
Death's terror heighten'd, gnawing on his heart. 770
These pompous sons of Reason idolized,
And vilified at once ; of Reason dead,
Then deified, as monarchs were of old;
What conduct plants proud laurels on their brow ?
While love of truth through all their camp resound
They draw Pride's curtain o'er the noontide ray, 776
Spike up their incl of reason on the point

Of philosophic wit, call'd Argument, And then exulting in their taper, cry,
'Behold the Sun!' and, Indianlike, adore.
Talk they of morals? O thou bleeding Love !
Thou Maker of new morals to mankind!
The grand morality is love of Thee.
As wise as Socrates, if such they were
(Nor will they bate of that sublime renown,)
As wise as Socrates might justly stand
The definition of a modern fool.
A Christian is the highest style of man!
And is there who the blessed Cross wipes off, As a foul blot, from his dishonour'd brow?
If angels tremble, 'tis at such a sight:
The wretch they quit, desponding of their charge, More struck with grief or wonder who can tell ?

Ye sold to sense! ye citizens of earth' (For such alone the Christian banner fly)
Know ye how wise your choice, how great your gain? Behold the picture of Earth's happiest man : 'He calls his wish, it comes : he sends it back, And says he call'd another: that arrives, Meets the same welcome ; yet he still calls on ; 800 Till one calls him, who varies not his call, But holds him fast, in chains of darkness bound, Till Nature dies, and Judgment sets him free; A freedom far less welcome than his chain.'

But grant man happy ; grant him happy long ; 805 Add to life's highest prize her latest hour ; That hour, so late, is nimble in approach, That, like a post, comes on in full career. How swift the shuttle flies that weaves thy shroud! Where is the fable of thy former years?
Thrown down the gulf of time; as far from thee As they had near been thine; the day in hand, Like a bird struggling to get loose, is going ; Scarce now possess'd, so suddenly 'tis gone ; And each swift moment fled, is death advanced 810

By strides as swift. Eternity is all ;
And whose eternity? who triumphs there?
Bathing for ever in the font of bliss !
For ever basking in the Deity !
Lorenzo! who ?-thy conscience shall reply. 820
O give it leave to speak; 'twill speak ere long
Thy leave unask'd. Lorenzo ! hear it now,
While useful its advice, its accent mild.
By the great edict, the divine decree,
Truti is deposited with man's last hour ; 825
An honest hour, and faithful to her trust ;
Truth! eldest daughter of the Deity !
Truth ! of his council when he made the worlds ;
Nor less, when he shall judge the worlds he made;
Though silent long, and sleeping ne'er so sound, 830
Smother'd with errors, and oppress'd with toys,
That heaven-commission'd hour no sooner calls,
But from her cavern in the soul's abyss,
Like him they fable under Ætna wheln'd,
The goddess bursts in thunder and in flame,
Loudly convinces, and severely pains.
Dark demons I discharge, and hydra-stings;
The keen vibration of bright Truth-is Hell;
Just definition! though by schools untaught. Ye deaf to truth! peruse this parson'd page,
And trust, for once, a prophet and a priest; -
' Men may live fools, but fools they cannot die.'

Che Larlaps .

TO THE RIGHT HON. THE EARL OF LITCHFIELD.
Lorenzo ! to recriminate is just.
'Fondness for fame is avarice of air.'
I grant the man is vain who writes for praise :
Praise no man e'er deserved, who sought no more.
As just thy second charge. I grant the Muse $\quad \overline{4}$ Has often blush'd at her degenerate sons, Retain'd by Sense to plead her fithy cause, To raise the low, to magnify the mean, And subtilize the gross into refined; As if to magic numbers' powerful charm
'Twas given to make a civet of their song Obscene, and sweeten ordure to perfume. Wit, a true pagan, deifies the brute, And lifts our swine enjoyments from the mire.

The fact notorious, nor obscure the cause.
We wear the chains of pleasure and of pride : These share the man, and these distract him too;
Draw different ways, and clash in their commands. Pride, like an cagle, builds among the stars ; But Pleasure, larklike, nests upon the ground. Joys, shared by brute creation, Pride resents; Pleasure embraces; man would both enjoy, And hoth at once : a point how hard to gain! But what can't Wit, when stung by strong desire?

Wit dares attempt this arduous enterprise. Since joys of Sense can't rise to Reason's taste,

In subtle Sophistry's laborious forge
Wit hammers out a reason new, that stoops
To sordid scenes, and meets them with applause.
Wit calls the Graces the chaste zone to loose,
Nor less than a plump god to fill the bowl:
A thousand phantoms and a thousand spells,
A thousand opiates scatters to delude,
To fascinate, inebriate, lay asleep,
And the fool'd mind delightfully confound.
Thus that which shock'd the judgment shocks no mare;
That which gave pride offence, no more offends.
Pleasure and Pride, by nature mortal foes,
At war eternal, which in man shall reign,
By Wit's address patch up a fatal peace,
And hand in hand lead on the rank debauch,
From rank, refined to delicate and gay.
Art, cursed Art! wipes off the' indebted blush
Froma Nature's cheek, and bronzes every shame.
Man smiles in ruin, glories in his guilt,
And Infamy stands candidate for praise.
All writ by man in favour of the soul,
These sensual ethics far, in bulk, transcend.
The flowers of eloquence, profusely pour'd
O'er spotted Vice, fill half the letter'd world.
Can powers of genius exereise their page,
And consecrate enormities with song!
But let not these inexpiable strains
Condemn the Muse that knows her dignity,
Nor meanly stops at time, but holds the world
As 'tis, in Nature's ample field, a point,
A point in her estecm; from whence to start,
And run the round of universal space,
To visit being universal there,
And being's Source, that utmost flight of mind :
Yet spite of this so vast circumference,
Well knows but what is moral nought is great.
Sing sirens only? do not angels sing ?
There is in Poesy a decent pride

Which well becomes her when she speaks to Prose, Her younger sister, haply not more wise.

Think'st thou, Lorenzo, to find pastimes here?
No guilty passion blown into a flame,
No foible flatter'd, dignity disgraced,
No fairy field of fiction, all on flower,
No rainbow colours, here, or silken tale ;
But solemn counsels, images of awe, Truths, which Eternity lets fall on man, With deubie weight through these revolving spheres, This death-deep silence, and incumbent shade :75

Thoughts such as shall revisit your last hour, Visit uncall'd, and live when life expires; And thy dark pencil, Midnight ! darker still In melancholy dipp'd, imbrowns the whole.

Yet this, e'en this, my laughter-loving friends !
Lorenzo! and thy brothers of the smile '
If what imports you most can most engage, Shall steal your ear, and chain you to my song.
Or if you fail me, know the wise shall taste
The truths I sing ; the truths I sing shall feel;
And, feeling, give assent ; and their assent
Is ample recompense ; is more than praise.
But chiefly thine, O Litchfield !-nor mistake;
Think not unintroduced I force my way:
Narcissa, not unknown, not unallied
By virtue, or by blood, illustrious youth !
To thee, from blooming amaranthine bowers,
Where all the language harmony, descends Uncall'd, and asks admittance for the Muse;
A Muse that will not pain thee with thy praise :
Thy praise she drops, by nobler still inspired.
O thou, bless'd Spirit ! whether the Supreme,
Great antemundane Father! in whose breast
Embryo-Creation, unborn being, dwelt,
And all its various revolutions rolld
Present, though future, prior to themselves;
Whose breath can blow it into nought again,

Or from his throne some delegated power,
Who, studious of our peace, dost turn the thought
From vain and vile to solid and sublime!
Unseen thou lead'st me to delicious draughts
Of inspiration, from a purer stream,
And fuller of the God, than that which burst
From famed Castalia; nor is yet allay'd
My sacred thirst, though long my soul has ranged 110
Through pleasing paths of moral and divine,
By thee sustain'd, and lighted by the stars.
By them best lighted are the paths of thought ;
Nights are their days, their most illumined hours.
By day the soul, o'erborne by life's career,
Stunn'd by the din, and giddy with the glare,
Reels far from reason, josiled by the throng.
By day the soul is passive, all her thoughts
Imposed, precarious, broken, ere mature.
By night, from objects free, from passion cool, $\quad 120$
Thoughts uncontroll'd and unimpress' d , the births
Of pure clection, arbitrary range,
Not to the limits of one world confined;
But from ethereal travels light on earth,
As voyagers drop anchor, for repose.
Let Indians, and the gay, like Indians, fend
Of feather'd fepperies, the Sun adore:
Darkness has more divinity for me ;
It strikes thought inward; it drives back the soul
To settle on herself, our point supreme!
There lies our theatre ; there sits our jadge.
Darkness the curtain drops o'er life's dull scene;
'Tis the kind hand of Providence stretch'd out
'Twixt man and vanity ; 'tis Reason's reign,
And Virtue's too ; these tutelary shades
Are man's asylum from the tainted throng.
Night is the good man's friend, and guardian too ;
It no less rescues virtue than inspires.
Virtue, for ever frail as fair below,
Her tender nature suffers in the crowd,

Nor touches on the world without a stain.
The world's infectious; few bring back at eve,
Immaculate, the manners of the morn.
Something we thought, is blotted ; we resolved,
Is shaken; we renounced, returns again.
Each salutation may slide in a sin
Unthought before, or fix a former flaw.
Nor is it strange ; light, motion, concourse, noise,
All seatter us abroad. Thought, outward-bound,
Neglectful of our home affairs, flies off
In fume and dissipation, quits her charge,
And leaves the breast unguarded to the foe.
Present example gets within our guard, And acts with double force, by few repell'd.
Ambition fires ambition; love of gain
Strikes, like a pestilence, from breast to breast:
Riot, pride, perfidy, blue vapours breathe;
And inhumanity is caught from man, From smiling man! A slight, a single glance, And shot at random, often has brought home
A sudden fever to the throbbing heart
Of envy, rancour, or impure desire.
We see, we hear, with peril ; Safety dwells
Remote from multitude. The world 's a school Of wrong, and what proficients swarm around!
We must or imitate or disapprove ;
Must hist as their accomplices or foes :
That stains our inrocence, this wounds our peace.
From Nature's birth, hence, Wisdom has been smit
With sweet recess, and languish'd for the shade. 170
This sacred shade and solitude what is it ?
'Tis the felt presence of the Deity !
Few are the faults we flatter when alone;
Vice sinks in her allurements, is unguilt,
And looks, like other objects, black by night.
By night an atheist half believes a God!
Night is fair Virtue's immemorial friend.
The conscious Moon, through every distant age,

Has held a lamp to Wisdom, and let fall,
On Contemplation's eye, her purging ray.
The famed Athenian, he who woo'd from Heaven
Philosophy the fair, to dwell with men,
And form their manners, not inflame their pride.
While o'er his head, as fearful to molest
His labouring mind, the stars in silence slide,
And seem all gazing on their future guest,
See him soliciting his ardent suit
In private audience : all the livelong night,
Rigid in thought, and motionless, he stands;
Nor quits his theme or posture till the Sun
190
(Rude drunkard! rising resy from the main)
Disturbs his nobler intellectual beam,
And gives him to the tumult of the world.
Hnil, precious moments ! stolen from the black waste
Of murder'd time! auspicious Midnight, hail! 195
The world excluded, every passion hush'd,
And open'd a calm intercourse with Heaven,
Here the soul sits in council, ponders past, Predestines future action ; sees, not feels Tumultuous Lafe, and reasons with the storm, 200
All her lies answers, and thinks down her charms.
What awful joy! what mental liberty !
I am not pent in darkness ; rather say
(If not too bold) in darkness I'm imbower'd.
Delightful gloom ! the clustering thoughts around 205 Spontaneous rise, and blossom in the shade ;
But droop by day, and sicken in the Sun;
Thought borrows light elsewhere ; from that first fire,
Fountain of animation! whence descends
Urania, my celestial guest! who deigns
Nightly to visit me, so mean, and now,
Conscious how needful discipline to man,
From pleasing dalliance with the charms of Night, My wandering thought recals, to what excites Far other beat of heart, Narcissa's tomb !

Or is it feeble Natare calls me back,

And breaks my spirtt into grief again ? Is it a Stygian vapour in my blood?
A cold slow puddle, creeping through my veins?
Or is it thus with all men?-Thus with all.
What are we? how unequal! now we soar, And now we sink. To be the same transcends
Our present prowess. Dearly pays the soul For lodging ill ; too dearly rents her clay. Reason, a baffled counsellor ' but adds
The blush of weakness to the bane of woe.
The noblest spirit, fighting her hard fate
In this damp dusky region, charged with storms,
But feebly flutters, yet untaught to fly ;
Or, flying, short her flight, and sure her fall : $\quad 230$
Our utmost strength, when down, to rise again;
And not to yield, though beaten, all our praise.
'Tis vain to seek in men for more than man.
Though proud in promise, big in previous thought,
Experience damps our triumph. I, who late, 235
Emerging from the shadows of the grave,
Where grief detain'd me prisoner, mounting high,
Threw wide the gates of cverlasting day,
And call'd mankind to glory, shook of pain,
Mortality shook off, in ether pure,
And struck the stars; now feel my spirits fail ;
They drop me from the zenith; down I rush, Like him whom fable fledged with waxen wings,
In sorrow drown'd-but not in sorrow lost.
How wretched is the men who never mourn'd!
I dive for precious pearl in Sorrow's stream :
Not so the thoughtless man that only grieves, Takes all the torment, and rejects the gain, (Inestimable gain!) and gives Heaven leave To make him but more wretched, not more wise. 250
If wisdom is our lesson (and what else
Ennobles man? what else have angels learn'd?)
Grief! more proficients in thy school are made,

Than Genius or proud Learning e'er could boast.
Voracious Learning, often overfed,
Digests not into sense her motley meal.
'This bookease, with dark bonty almost burst,
'This forager on others' wisdom, leaves
Her native farm, her reason, quite untill'd;
With mix'd manure she surfeits the rank soil,
Dung'd, but not dress'd, and rich to beggary :
A pomp untamable of weeds prevails;
Her servant's wealth encumber'd Wisdom mourns.
And what says Genius? 'Let the dull be wise!'
Genius, too hard for right, can prove it wrong, $20{ }^{\circ}$ )
And loves to boast, where blush men less inspired.
It pleads exemption from the laws of Serise,
Considers Reason as a leveller,
And scorns to share a blessing with the crowd.
That wise it could be, thinks an ample claim;
To glory and to pleasure gives the rest.
Crassus but sleeps, Ardelio is undone.
Wisdom less shudders at a fool than wit.
But Wisdom smiles, when humbled mortals weep.
When Sorrow wounds the breast, as ploughs the glebe, And hearts obdurate feel her softening shower; 276 Her seed eelestial, then, glad Wisdom sows;
Her golden harvest triumphs in the soil.
If so, Narcissa! weleome my relapse;
Ill raise a tax on my calamity,
280
And $-\bullet$ pp rich compensation from my pain.
I'll range the plenteous intellectual field,
And gather every thought of sovereign power ${ }^{\prime}$ To chase the moral maladies of man;
Thoughts which may bear transplanting to the skies,
Though natives of this coarse penurious soil; 286 Nor wholly wither there, where seraphs sing,
Refined, exalted, not annull'd, in Heaven :
Reason, the sun that gives them birth, the same
In either clime, though more illustrious there. 290

These choicely cull'd, and elegantly ranged, Shall form a garland for Narcissa's tomb, And, peradventure, of no fading flowers.

Say, on what themes shall puzzled choice descend ? 'The' importance of contemplating the tomb ; 205 Why men decline it; suicide's foul birth: The various kinds of grief; the faults of age ; And Death's dread character-invite my song.'

And, first, the' importance of our end survey'd. Friends counsel quick dismission of our grief.
Mistaken kindness ! our hearts heal too soon.
Are they more kind than He who struck the blow? Who bid it do his errand in our hearts, And banish peace till nobler guests arrive, And bring it back a true and endless peace? 305 Calamities are friends : as glaring day Of these unnumber'd lustres robs our sight, Prosperity puts out unnumber'd thoughts Of import high, and light divine, to man.
The man how bless'd, who, sick of gaudy scenes, (Scenes apt to thrust between us and ourselves!) 311 Is led by choice to take his favourite walk Beneath Death's gloomy, silent, cypress shades, Unpierced by Vanity's fantastic ray ;
To read his monuments, to weigh his dust, 315 Visit his vaults, and dwell among the tombs! Lorenzo! read with me Narcissa's stone ; (Narcissa was thy favourite) let us read Her moral stone ; few doctors preach so well ; Few orators so tenderly can touch
The feeling heart. What pathos in the date!
Apt words can strike ; and yet in them we see Faint images of what we here enjoy.
What cause have we to build on length of lifew? Temptations seize when fear is laid asleep,
And ill foreboded is our strongest guard.
See from her tomb, as from an huinble shrine,
Truth, radiant goddess! sallies on my soul,

And puts Delusion's dusky train to flight, Dispels the mist our sultry passions raise
From objects low, terrestrial, and obscene, And shows the real estimate of things,
Which no man, unafflicted, ever saw :
Pulls off the veil from Virtue's rising charms ;
Detects Temptation in a thousand lies.
Truth bids me look on men as autumn leaves,
And all they bleed for as the summer's dust
Driven by the whirlwind : lighted by her beams,
I widen my horizon, gain new powers,
See things invisible, feel things remote,
Am present with futurities; think nought
'To man so foreign as the joys possess'd,
Nought so much his as those beyond the grave.
No folly keeps its colour in her sight ;
Pale worldly Wisdom loses all her charms.
In pompous promise from her schemes profound,
If future fate she plans, 'tis all in leaves,
Like sibyl, unsubstantial, fleeting bliss !
At the first blast it vanishes in air.
Not so celestial. Wouldst thou know, Lorenzo !
How differ worldly Wisdom and divine?
Just as the waning and the waxing moon.
More empty worldly Wisdom every day,
And every day more fair her rival shines.
When later, there's less time to play the fool.
Soon our whole term for Wisdom is expired
(Thou know'st she calls no council in the grave,;
And everlasting fool is writ in fire,
Or real wisdom wafts us to the skies.
As worldly schemes resembles sibyls' leaves, 360
The good man's days to sibyls' books compare
(In ancient story read, thou know'st the tale)
In price still rising as in number less,
Inestimable quite his final hour.
For that who thrones can offer, offer thrones; 365
Insolvent worlds the purchase cannot pay.
' Oh let me die his death!' all Nature cries.
'Then live his life.'-All Nature falters there ;
Our great physician daily to consult, To commune with the grave, our only cure.

What grave prescribes the best ?-A friend's; and yet From a friend's grave how soon we disengage ! E'en to the dearest, as his marble, cold. Why are friends ravish'd from us? 'tis to bind, By soft Affection's ties, on human hearts
The thought of Death, which Reason, too supine, Or misemploy'd, so rarely fastens there. Nor Reason nor Affection, no, nor both Combined, can break the witcherafts of the world. Behold the' inexorable hour at hand ;
Behold the' inexorable hour forgot! And to forget it the chief aim of life, Though well to ponder it is life's chief end.
is Death, that ever threatening, ne'er remote, That all important, and that only sure, (Come when he will) an unexpected guest ? Nay, though invited by the loudest calls Of blind Imprudence, unexpected still ? Though numerous messengers are sent before, To warn his great arrival? What the cause, The woudrous cause, of this mysterious ill ? All Heaven looks down, astonish'd at the sight !

Is it that Life has sown her joys so thick, We can't thrust in a single care between ? Is it that Life has such a swarm of cares,
The thought of Death can't enter for the throng ?
Is it that Time steals on with downy feet, Nor wakes Indulgence from her golden dream?
To-day is so like yesterday, it cheats;
We take the lying sister for the same.
Life glides away, Lorenzo! like a brook, For ever changing, unperceived the change. In the same brook none ever bathed him twice ; To the same life none ever twice awoke.'

We call the brook the same: the same we think 405
Our life, though still more rapid in its flow,
Nor mark the much irrevocably lapsed,
And mingled with the sea. Or shall we say
(Retaining still the brook to bear us on)
That life is like a vessel on the stream?
In life embark'd, we smoothly down the tide
Of time descend, but not on time intent;
Amused, unconscious of the gliding wave,
Till on a sudden we perceive a shoek;
We start, awake, look out : what see we there! 415
Our brittle bark is burst on Charon's shore.
Is this the cause Death flies all human thought?
Or is it Judgment, by the Will struck blind,
That domincering mistress of the soul!
Like him so strong, by Dalilah the fair?-
Or is it fear turns startled Reason back,
Frem looking down a precipice so steep?-
'Tis dreadful ; and the dread is wisely placed
By Nature, conscious of the make of man, A dreadful friend it is, a terror kind,
A flaming sword to guard the tree of Life.
By that unawed, in Life's most smiling hour The good man would repine; would suffer joys,
And burn impatient for his promised skies.
The bad, on each punctilious pique of pride,
Or gloom of humour, would give Rage the rein,
Bound o'er the barrier, rush into the dari,
And mar the scenes of Providence below.
What groan was that, Lorenzo ?-Furies ! rise,
And drown in your less execrable yell,
Britannia's shame. There took her gloomy flight,
On wing impetuous, a black sullen sovl,
Blasted from hell with horrid lust of death.
Thy friend, the brave, the gallant Altamont,
So call'd, so thought-and then he fled the field; 440
Less base the fear of death than fear of life.
O Britain! infamous for suicide !

THE RELAPSE.

An island, in thy manners: far disjoin'd From the whole world of rationals beside! In ambient waves plunge thy polluted head,
Wash the dire stain, nor shock the continent.
But thou be shock'd, while I detect the cause Of self-assault, expose the monster's birth, And bid Ablorrence hiss it round the world. Blame not thy clime, nor chide the distant Sun; 450 The Sun is innocent, thy clime absolved. Immoral climes kind Nature never made. The cause I sing, in Eden might prevail, And proves it is thy folly, not thy fate.

The soul of man (let man in homage bow Who names his soul,) a native of the skies! Highborn and free, her freedom should maintain. Unsold, unmortgaged for earth's little bribes. The' illustrious stranger, in this foreign land, Like strangers, jealous of her dignity, Studious of home, and ardent to return, Of earth suspicious, Earth's enchanted cup With cool reserve light iouching, should indulge On immortality her godlike taste ;
[there. There take large draughts ; make her chief banquet

But some reject this sustenance divine, 466 To beggarly vile appetites descend, Ask alms of Earth, for guests that came from Heaven ! Sink into slaves, and sell, for present hire, Their rich reversion, and (what shares its fate)
Their native freedom, to the prince who sways This nether world: and when his payments fail,
When his foul basket gorges them no more, Or their pall'd palates loathe the basket full, Are instantly, with wild demoniac rage,
For breaking all the chains of Providence, And bursting their confinement, though fast barr'd By laws divine and human, guarded strong With horrors doubled to defend the pass, The blackest Nature or dire guilt can raise,

And moated round with fathomless destruction, Sure to receive and whelm them in their fall.

Such, Britons! is the cause, to you unknown, Or worse, o'erlook'd ; o'erlook'd by magistrates, Thus criminals themselves! I grant the deed
Is madness ; but the madness of the heart.
And what is that ? our utmost bound of guilt.
A sensual, unreflecting life is big
With monstrous births, and Suicide, to crown
The black infernal brood. The bold to break
Heaven's law supreme, and desperately rush Through sacred Nature's murder, on their own, Because they never think of death, they die. 'Tis equally man's duty, glory, gain,
At once to shun, and meditate his end. 495
When by the bed of languishment we sit,
(The seat of Wisdom! if our choice, not fate)
Or o'er our dying friends in anguish hang,
Wipe the cold dew, or stay the sinking head;
Number their moments, and in every clock
Start at the voice of an eternity ;
See the dim lamp of life just feebly lift
An agonizing beam, at us io gaze,
Then sink again, and quiver into death,
That most pathetic herald of our own :
How read we such sad scenes? As sent to man
In perfect vengeance? no ; in pity sent,
To melt him down, like wax, and then impress,
Indelible, Death's image on his heart,
Bleeding for others, trembling for himself.
We bleed, we tremble, we forget, we smile.
The mind turns fool before the cheek is dry.
Our quick-returning folly cancels all,
As the tide rushing razes what is writ
In yielding sands, and smooths the letter'd shore. 515
Lorenzo! hast thou ever weigh'd a sigh ?
Or studied the philosophy of tears?
(A science yet unlectured in our schools !)

Hast thou descended deep into the breast,
And seen their source? if not, descend with me, 520
And trace these briny rivulets to their springs.
Our funcral tears from different causes rise:
As if from separate cisterns in the soul, Of various kinds they flow. From tender hearts, By soft contagion call'd, some burst at once, And stream obsequious to the leading eye ; Some ask more time, by curious art distill'd. Some hearts, in secret hard, unapt to meit, Struck by the magic of the public eye, Like Moses' smitten rock, gush out amain : Some weep to share the fame of the deceased, So high in merit, and to them so dear :
They dwell on praises which they think they share ; And thus, without a blush, commend themselves. Some mourn, in proof that something they could love; They weep not to relieve their grief, but show. 536 Some weep in perfect justice to the dead, As conscious all their love is in arrear. Some mischievously weep, not unapprized, Tears sometimes aid the conquest of an cye.
With what address the soft Ephesians draw Their sable network o'er entangled hearts ! As seen through crystal, how their roses glow, While liquid pearl runs trickling down their cheek! Of hers not prouder Egypt's wanton queen, Carousing gems, herself dissolved in love. Some weep at death, abstracted from the dead, And celebrate, like Charles, their own decease. By kind censtruction some are deemed to weep, Because a decent veil conceals their joy. Some weep in carnest, and yet weep in vain, As deep in indiscretion as in woe.
Passion, blind Passion! impotently pours '「ears that deserve more tears ; while Reason sleeps, Or gazes, like an idiot, unconcern'd,
Nor comprehends the meaning of the storm;

Knows not it speaks to her, and her alone.
Irrationals all sorrows are beneath,
That noble gift! that privilege of man!
From sorrow's pang, the birth of endless joy:
But these are barren of that birth divine ;
They weep impetuous as the summer storm,
And full as short! the cruel grief soon tamed,
They make a pastime of the stingless tale;
Far as the deep-resounding knell they spread
565
The dreadful news, and liardly feel it more:
No grain of wisdom pays them for their woe.
Half round the globe the tears pump'd up by death
Are spent in watering vanities of life ;
In making folly flourish still more fair. $5 \% 0$
When the sick soul, her wonted stay withdrawn,
Reelines on earth and sorrows in the dust;
Instead of learning there her true support,
(Though there thrown down her true support to learn,)
Without Heaven's aid, impatient to be bless'd, 575
She crawls to the next shrub or bramble vile,
Though from the stately cedar's arms she fell ;
With stale forsworn cmbraces clings anew,
The stranger weds, and blossoms, as before,
In all the fruitless fopperies of life,
580
Presents her weed, well fancied at the ball,
And rafiles for the death's head on the ring.
So wept Aurelia, till the destined youth
Stepp'd in with his receipt for making smiles,
And blanching sables into bridal bloom.
So wept Lorenzo fair Clarissa's fate,
Who gave that angel-boy on whom he dotes,
And died to give him, orphan'd in his birth !
Not such, Narcissa! my distress for thee.
I'll make an altar of thy sacred tomb,
To sacrifice to Wislom.-What wast then ?
'Young, gay, and fortunate!' Each yields a theme :
Ill dwell on each, to shun thought more severe;
(Heaven knows I labour with severer still!)

Itl dwell on each, and quite exhaust thy death. 593 A soul without reflection, like a pile Without inhabitant, to ruin runs.

And, first, thy youth : what says it to gray hairs? Nareissa! l'm become thy pupil now.Early, bright, transient, chaste, as morning dew, 600 She sparkled, was exhaled, and went to heaven! Time on this head has snow'd, yet still 'tis borne Aloft, nor thinks but on another's grave. Cover'd with shame I speak it, age severo Old worn-out vice sets down for virtue fair ; With graceless gravity chastising youth, That youth chastised surpassing in a fault, Father of all, forgetfulness of death ! As if, like objects pressing on the sight, Death had advanced too near us to be seen; Or that life's loan Time ripen'd into right, And men might plead prescription from the grave; Deathless, from repetition of reprieve. Deathless? far from it! such are dead already; Their hearts are buried, and the world their grave. 615 Tell me, some god! my guardian angel! tell What thus infatuates? what enchantment plants The phantom of an age 'twixt us and Death, Already at the door? He knoeks; we hear him, And yet we will not hear. What mail defends Our untouch'd hearts? what miracle turns off The pointed thought, which from a thousand quivers Is daily darted, and is daily shunn'd? We stand, as in a battle, throngs on throngs Around us falling, wounded oft ourselves,
Though bleeding with our wounds, immortal still! iWe sce Time's furrows on another's brow, And Death intrenched, preparing his assault: How few themselves in that just mirror see ! Or, seeing, draw their inference as strong ! There death is certain ; doubtful here : he mast, And soon: we may, within an age, expire.

Though gray our heads, our thoughts and aims are green; Like damaged clocks, whose hand and bell dissent, Folly sings six, while Nature points at twelve. 63.5

Absurd longevity ! more, more, it cries :
More life, more wealth, more trash of every kind.
And wherefore mad for more, when relish fails?
Object and appetite must club for joy :
Shall Folly labour hard to mend the bow,
Baubles, I mean, that strike us from without,
While Nature is relaxing every string !
Ask Thought for joy; grow rich, and hoard within.
Think you the soul, when this life's rattles cease,
Has nothing of more manly to succeed?
Contract the taste immortal ; learn e'en now
To relish what alone subsists hereafter.
Divine, or none, henceforth your joys for ever!
Of age, the glory is to wish to die :
That wish is praise and promise ; it applauds
Past life, and promises our future bliss.
What weakness see not children in their sires!
Grand climacterical absurditics !
Gray hair'd authority, to faults of youth
How shocking! it makes folly thrice a fool;
And our first childhood might our last despise.
Peace and esteem is all that age can hope:
Nothing but wisdom gives the first ; the last
Nothing but the repute of being wise.
Folly bars both: our age is quite undone.
What folly can be ranker? like our shadows,
Our wishes lengthen as our sun dectines.
No wish should loiter, then, this side the grave.
Our hearts should leave the world before the linell
Calls for our carcasses to mend the soil.
Enough to live in tempest; die in port:
Age should fy concourse, cover in retreat
Defects of judgment, and the will subdue ; •
Walk thourgtful on the silent solemn shore
Of that rast ocean it must anil so soon,

And put good works on board, and wait the wind That shortly blows us into worlds unknown:
If unconsider'd, too, a dreadful scene !
All should be prophets to themselves; foresee Their future fate; their future fate foretaste : This art would waste the bitterness of death. The thought of death alone the fear destroys:
A disaffection to that precious thought Is more than midnight darkness on the soul, Which sleeps beneath it on a precipice,
Puff'd off by the first blast, and lost for ever.
Dost ask, Lorenzo, why so warmly press'd,
By repetition hammer'd on thine ear,
The thought of death ? That thought is the machine, The grand machine! that heaves us from the dust, 685 And rears us into men. That thought, ply'd home,
Will soon reduce the ghastly precipice
O'erhanging hell, will soften the descent, And gently slope our passage to the grave. How warmly to be wish'd! what heart of flesh
Would trifle with tremendous? dare extremes?
Yawn o'er the fate of infinite? what hand, Beyond the blackest brand of censure bold (To speak a language too well known to thee,)
Would at a moment give its all to Chance,
And stamp the die for an Eternity!
Aid me, Narcissa! aid me to keep pace
With Destiny; and, ere her scissars cut
My thread of life, to break this tougher thread Jf moral death, that ties me to the world.
Sting thou my slumbering Reason, to send forth A thought of observation on the foe;
To sally, and survey the rapid march
Of his ten thousand messengers to man,
Who, Jehulike, behind him turns them all.
All accident apart, by Nature sign'd,
My warrant is gone out, though dormant yet ; Perhaps behind one moment lurks my fate !

Must 1 then forward only look for Death ?
Backward I turn mine eye, and find him there.
Man is a self-survivor every year.
Man, like a stream, is in perpetual flow.
Death's a destroyer of quotidian prey:
My youth, my noontide, his; my yesterday :
The bold invader shares the present hour :
Each moment on the former shuts the grave.
While man is growing, life is in decrease,
And cradles rock us nearer to the tomb,
Our birth is nothing but cur death begun :
As tapers waste that instant they take fire.
Shall we then fear lest that should come to pass, Which comes to pass each moment of our lives?
If fear we must, let that Death turn us pale
Which marders strength and ardour ; what remains
Should ratner call on Death, than dread his call. 725
Ye partners of my fault, and my decline!
Thoughtless of death, but when your neighbour's knell
(Rude visitant !) knocks hard at your dull sense,
And with its thunder scarce obtains your ear!
Be death your theme, in every place and hour ; 730
Nor longer want, ye monumental sires!
A brother tomb to tell you-you shall die.
That death you dread, (so great is Nature's skill !)
Know you shall court, before you shall enjoy.
But you are learn'd : in volumes deep you sit, 735
In wisdom shallow. Pompous ignorance!
Would you be still more learned than the learn'd ?
Learn well to know how much need not be known,
And what that knowledge which impairs your sense.
Our needful knowledge, like our needful food, $\quad 740$
Unhedged, lies open in Life's common field,
And bids all welcome to the vital feast.
You scorn what lies before you in the page
Of Nature and Experience, moral truth;
Of indispensable, eternal fruit;
Fruit, on which mortals feeding, turn to gods ;

THE RELAPSE.

And dive in science for distinguish'd names, Dishonest fomentation of your pride, Sinking in virtue as you rise in fame. Your learning, like the lunar beam, affords
Light, but not heat ; it leaves you undevout, Frozen at heart, while speculation shines. Awake, ye curious indagators ! fond Of knowing all, but what avails you known. If you would learn Death's character, attend.
All casts of conduct, all degrees of health, All dies of fortune, and all dates of age, Together shook in his impartial urn, Come forth at random ; or, if choice is made, The choice is quite sarcastic, and insults All boid conjecture and fond hopes of man. What countless muititudes not only leave, But deeply disappoint us, by their deaths ! Though great our sorrow, greater our surprise. Like other tyrants, Death delights to smite 763 What, smitten, most proclaims the pride of power And arbitrary nod. His joy supreme, To bid the wretch survive the fortunate : The feeble wrap the' athletic in his shroud; And weeping fathers build their children's tomb: 770 Me thine, Narcissa !-What, though short thy date? Virtue, not rolling suns, the mind matures. That life is long which answers life's great end. The time that bears no fruit deserves no name.
The man of wisdom is the man of years. In hoary youth Methusalems may die; O how misdated on their flattering tombs !

Narcissa's youth has lectured me thus far:
And can her gaiety give counsel too? That, like the Jews' famed oracle of gems,
Sparkles instruction ; such as throws new light, And opens more the character of Death, 111 known to thee, Lorenzo ! this thy vaunt ! 'Give Death his due, the wretched and the old;

E'en let him sweep his rubbish to the grave;
Let him not violate kind Nature's laws,
But own man born to live as well as die.'-
Wretched and old thou givest him ; young and gay
He takes; and plunder is a tyrant's joy.
What if I prove, ' the farthest from the fear
Are often nearest to the stroke of Fate ?'
All, more than common, menaces an end.
A blaze betokens brevity of life :
As if bright embers should emit a flame,
Glad spirits sparkled from Narcissa's eye,
And made Youth younger, and taught Life to live.
As Nature's opposites wage endless war,
For this offence, as treason to the deep
Inviolable stupor of his reign,
Where lust and turbulent ambition slecp, 800
Death took swift vengeance. As he life detests,
More life is still more odious ; and, reduced
By conquest, aggrandizes more his power.
But wherefore aggrandized ?-By Heaven's decree
To plant the soul on her eternal guard, 80⿹
In awful expectation of our end.
Thus runs Death's dread commission: 'Strike, but so As most alarms the living by the dead.'
Hence stratagem delights him, and surprise,
And cruel sport with man's securities.
810
Not simple conquest, triumph is his aim ;
And where least fear'd, t'lere conquest triumphs most.
This proves my bold assertion not too bold.
What are his arts to lay our fears asleep?
Tiberian arts his purposes wrap up
815
In deep Dissimulation's darkest night.
Like princes unconfess'd in foreign courts,
Who travel under cover, Death assumes
The name and look of Life, and dwells among us :
He takes all shapes that serve his black designs : 820
Though master of a wider empire far
Than that o'er which the Roman Eagle flew,

Like Nero, he's a fiddler, charioteer :
Or drives his phaëton in female guise ;
Quite unsuspected, till, the wheel beneath,
His disarray'd oblation he devours.
He most affects the forms least like himself, His slender self: hence burly corpulence Is his familiar wear, and sleek disguise. Behind the rosy bloom he loves to lurk, Or aunbush in a smile; or, wanton, dive In dimples deep; Love's eddies, which draw in Unwary hearts, and sink them in despair. Such on Nareissa's couch he loiter'd long Unknown, and when detected, still was seen To smile : such peace has Innocence in death !

Most happy they, whom least his arts deceive ! One eye on Death, and one full fix'd on Heaven, Becomes a mortal and immortal man. Long on his wiles a piqued and jealous spy, I've seen, or dream'd I saw, the tyrant dress, Lay by his horrors, and put on his smiles. Say, Muse ! for thou remember'st, call it back, And show Lorenzo the surprising seene; If 'twas a dream, his genius can explain.
'Twas in a circle of the gay I stood:
Death would have enterd; Nature push'd him back: Supported by a doctor of renown, His point he gain'd ; then artfully dismiss'd The sage ; for Death design'd to be conceal'd:
He gave an old vivacious usurer
His meagre aspect, and his naked bones, In gratiturle for plumping up his prey, A pamper'd spendthrift, whose fantastic air, Well fashion'd figure, and cockaded brow,
He took in change, and underneath the pride Of costly linen tuck'd his filthy shroud. His crooked bow he straightened to a cane, And hid his deadly shafts in Myra's eyo.

The dreadful masquerader thus equipp'd,

Outsallies on adventures. Ask you where?
Where is he not? For his peculiar haunts
Let this suffice ; sure as night follows day,
Death treads in Pleasure's footsteps round the world,
When Pleasure treads the paths which Reason shuns.
When against Reason, Riot shuts the door,
866
And Gaiety supplies the place of Sense,
Then, foremost at the banquet and the ball,
Death leads the dance, or stamps the deadly die,
Nor ever fails the miduight bowl to crown.
870
Gaily carousing to his gay compeers,
Inly he laughs to see them laugh at him,
As absent far; and when the revel burns,
When Fear is banish'd, and triunphant Thought,
Calling for all the joys beneath the noon,
Against him turns the key, and bids him sup
With their progenitors-he drops his mask,
Frowns out at full : they start, despair, expire.
Scarce with more sudden terror and surprise,
From his black mask of nitre, touch'd by fire,
He bursts, expands, roars, blazes, and devours.
And is not this trimmphant treachery,
And more than simple conquest, in the fiend?
And now, Lorenzo, dost thou wrap thy soul
In soft security, because unknown
Which moment is commision'd to destroy?
In death's uncertainty thy danger lies.
Is death uncertain? therefore thou be fix'd,
Fix'd as a sentinel, all eye, all ear,
All expectation of the coming foc.
Rouse, stand in arms, nor lean against thy spear,
Lest slumber steal one moment o'er thy soul
And Fate surprise thee nodding. Watch, be strong;
Thus give each day the merit and renown
Of dying well, though doom'd but once to die; 895
Nor let life's perivd, hidden, (as from most)
Hide, too, from thee the precious use of life.
Early, not sudden, was Narcissa's fate :

Soon, not surprising, Death his visit paid: Her thought went forth to meet him on his way, 900 Nor Gaiety forgot it was to die; Though Fortune, too (our third and final theme,) As an accomplice, play'd her gaudy plumes, And every glittering gewgaw, on her sight, To dazzle and debauch it from its mark.
Death's dreadful advent is the mark of man, And every thought that misses it is blind. Fortune with Youth and Gaiety conspired To weave a triple wreath of happiness, (If happiness on earth) to crown her brow :
And could Death charge through such a shining shield ?
That shining shield invites the tyrant's spear,
As if to damp our elevated aims,
And strongly preach humility to man.
O how portentous is prosperity !
How, cometlike, it threatens while it shines !
Few years but yield us proof of Death's ambition, To cull his victims from the fairest fold, And sheath his shafts in all the pride of life. When flooded with abundance, purpled o'er With recent henours, bloom'd with every bliss, Set up in ostentation, made the gaze, The gaudy centre, of the public eye; When Fortune, thus, has toss'd her child in air, Snatch'd from the covert of an humble state, How often have I seen him dropp'd at once, Our morning's envy ! and our evening's sigh ! As if her bounties were the signal given, The flowery wreath, to mark the sacrifice, And call Death's arrows on the destined prey. 930

High Fortune seems in cruel league with Fate.
Ask you for what? to give his war on man The deeper dread, and more illustrious spoil; Thus to keep daring mortals more in awe. And burns Lorenzo still for the sublime Of life? to hang his airy nest on high,

On the slight timber of the topmost bough,
Rock'd at each breeze, and menacing a fall ?
Granting grim Death at equal distance there,
Yet peace begins just where ambition ends.
What makes man wretched? Happiness denied?
Lorenzo! no ; 'tis Happiness disdain'd!
She comes too meanly dress'd to win our smile,
And calls herself Content, a homely name !
Our flame is transport, and Content our scorn! 945
Ambition turns, and shuts the door against her,
And weds a toil, a tempest, in her stead;
A tempest to warm transport near of kin.
Unknowing what our mortal state admits,
Life's modest joys we ruin while we raise,
And all our ecstasies are wounds to peace ;
Peace, the full portion of mankind below.
And since thy peace is dear, ambitious youth !
Of fortune fond! as thoughtless of thy fate As late I drew Death's picture, to stir up
Thy wholesome fears ; now, drawn in contrast, see
Gay Fortune's thy vain hopes to reprimand.
See, high in air the sportive goddess hangs,
Unlocks her casket, spreads her glittering ware,
And calls the giddy winds to puff abroad
Her random bounties o'er the gaping throng.
All rush rapacious; friends o'er trodden friends, Sons o'er their fathers, subjects o'er their kings, Priests o'er their gods, and lovers o'er the fair, (Still more adored) to snatch the golden shower. 965

Gold glitters most where virtue shines no more ;
As stars from absent suns have leave to shine.
0 what a precious paek of votaries,
Unkennel'd from the prisons and the stews,
Pour in, all opening in their idol's praise !
All, ardent, eye each wafture of her hand,
And, wide expanding their voracious jaws,
Morsel on morsel swallow down unchew'd,
Untasted, through mad appetite for more;

Gorged to the throat, yet lean and ravenous still : 975 Sagacious all to trace the smallest game, And bold to seize the greatest. If (bless'd chance !) Court-zephyrs sweetly breathe ; they launch, they fly, O'er just, o'er sacred, all-forbidden ground, Drunk with the burning scent of place or power, 980 Stanch to the foot of Lucre-till they die.

Or, if for men you take them, as I mark Their manners, thou their various fates survey. With aim mismeasured and impetuous speed, Some, darting, strike their ardent wish far off, Through fury to possess it : some succeed, But stumble, and let fall the taken prize. From some, by sudden blasts, 'tis whirl'd away, And lodged in bosoms that ne'er dream'd of gain. To some it sticks so close, that, when torn off, Torn is the man, and mortal is the wound. Some, o'erenamour'd of their bags, run mad; Groan under gold, yot weep for want of bread. Together some (unhappy rivals !) scize, And rend abundance into poverty :
Lcud croaks the raven of the law, and smiles ; Smiles, too, the goddess; but smiles most at those (Just victims of exorbitant desire !) Who perish at their own request, and, wheln'd Beneath her load of lavish grants, expire. Fortune is famous for her numbers slain ; The number small which happiness can bear. Though various for a while their fates, at last One curse involves them all : at Death's approach All read their riches backward into loss, And mourn in just proportion to their store.

And Death's approach (if orthodox my song)
Is hasten'd by the lure of Fortune's smiles.
And art thou still a glutton of bright gold? And art thou still rapacious of thy ruin?
Death loves a shining mark, a signal blow ;
A blow which, while it executes, alarms,

And startles thousands with a signal fall.
As when some stately growth of oak, or pine,
Which nods aloft and proudly spreads her shade, 1015
The Sun's defiance, and the flock's defence,
By the strong strokes of labouring hinds subdued
Loud groans her last ; and rushing from her height,
In cumbrous ruin thunders to the ground;
The conscious forest trembles at the shock, 1020
And hill, and stream, and distant dale resound.
These high-aim'd darts of Death, and these alone,
Should I colleet, my quiver would be full;
A quiver which, suspended in mid air,
Or near heaven's archer, in the zodiac, hung 1025 (So could it be,) should draw the public eye,
The gaze and eontemplation of mankind!
A constellation awful, yet benign,
To guide the gay through Life's tempestnous wave,
Nor suffer them to strike the common roek; 1030

- From greater danger to grow more secure,

And, wrapp'd in happiness, forget their fate.'
Lysander, happy past the common lot,
Was warn'd of danger, but too gay to fear
He woo'd the fair Aspasia ; she was kind. 1035
In youth, form, fortune, fame, they both were bless'd:
All who knew envied ; yet in envy loved :
Can Fancy form more finish'd happiness?
Fix'd was the nuptial hour. Her stately dome
Rose on the sounding beach. The glittering spires Float in the wave, and break against the shore; 1041 So break those glittering shadows, human joys. The faithless morning smiled : he takes his leave To reembrace, in ecstasies, at eve :
The rising storm forbids : the news arrives; 1045
Untold sle saw it in her servant's eye.
She felt it seen (her heart was apt to feel,)
And drown'd, without the furious ocean's aid,
In suffocating șorrows shares his tomb.
Now round the sumgtuous bridal monument

The guilty billows innocently roar, And the rough sailor, passing, drops a tear. A tear?-can tears suffice?-but not for me How vain our efforts! and our arts how vain! The distant train of thought I took, to shun, 1055 Has thrown me on my fate. - These died together; Happy in ruin! undivorced by death!
Or ne'er to meet, or ne'er to part, is peace.Narcissa! Pity bleeds at thought of thee; Yet thou wast only near me, not myself. 1060 Survive myself?-that cures all other woe. Narcissa lives ; Philander is forgot.
O the soft commerce ! -O the tender ties, Close twisted with the fibres of the heart !
Which broken, break them, and drain off the soul 1065 Of human joy, and make it pain to live.And is it then to live? When such friends part, 'Tis the survivor dies.-My heart ! no more.

CONTAINING THF
NATLRE, PROOF, AND IMPORTANCE OF IMMORTALITY

PART I.

WHERE, AMONG OTIIER THINGS,
GLORY AND RICHES ARE PARTICULALY CONSIDERED.

PREFACE.

New ages have been deeper in dispute about religion than this. The dispute about religien, and the practice of it, seldom go together. 'The shorter, therefore, the dispute, the better. I think it may be rednced to this single question, 'Is man immortal, or is he not ?' If he is not, all our disputes are mere amusements, or trials of skill. In this case, truth, reason, religion, which çive our discourses such pomp and solemnity, are (as will be shown) mere empty sounds, without any merning in them: but if man is immortal, it will behove him to be very serious about eternal consequences; or, in other words, to be truly religious. And this great fundamental truth, unestablished, or unawakened in the minds of men, is, I conceive, the real source and support of all our infidelity, how remote soever the particular objections advanced may seem to be from it.

Sensible appearances affect most men much more than abstract reasonings; and we daily see bodies drop around us, but the soul is invisible. The power which inclination has orer the judgment is greater than can be well conceived by those that have not had an experience of it; and of what numbers is it the sad interest that souls should not survive? The heathen world confessed that they rather hoped, than firmly believed, immortality! and how many heathens have we still amongst us! The Sacred Page assures us, that 'life and immortality is brouglt to light by the Gospel;' but by how many is the Gospel rejected or overlooked? From these considerations, and from my being, accidentally, privy to the sentiments of some particular persons, I have been long persuaded that most, if not all our infidels (whatever name they take, and whatever scheme for argument's sake, and to keep themselves in countenance, they patronize) are supported in their deplorable error by some doubt of their immortality, at the bottom: and I am satisfied, that men once thoroughly convinced of their immortality, are not far from being Christians: for it is hard to conceive that a man, fully conscious eternal pain or happiness will certainly be his lot, should not earnestly and impartially inquire after the surest means of escaping one, and securing the other: and of such an earnest and impartial inquiry I well know the consequence.

Here, therefore, in proof of this most fundamental truth, some plain arguments are offered; arguments derived from principles which infidels admit in common with believers ; arguments which appear to me altogether irresistible; and such as, I am satisfied, will have great weight with all who give themselves the small trouble of looking seriously into their own hosoms, and of observing with any tolerable degree of attention, what daily passes round about them in the world. If some arguments shall here occur which others have declined, they are submitted, with all deference, to better judgments, in this, of all points, the most important! for as to the being of a God, that is no longer disputed; but it is undisputed for this reason only, viz. because where the least pretence to reason is admitted, it must for ever be indisputable : and, of consequence, no man can be betrayed into a dispute of that nature by vanity, which has a principal share in animating our modern combatants against other articles of our belief.

THE INFIDEL RECLAIMED.

> PART TIE FIRST.

To Tife

RIGHT HONOURABLE HENRY PELHAM,

FIRST LORD COMMISSIONER OF THE TREASURY, AND CIIANCELIOR OF THE EXCHEQUER.
She* (for I know not yet her name in Heaven)
Not early, like Narcissa, left the scene,
INor sudden, like Philander. What avail?
This seeming mitigation but inflames;
This fancied medicine licightens the discase.
The longer linown, the closer still she grew,
And gradual parting is a gradual death.
'Tis the grim tyrant's engine which extorts,
Fy tardy pressure's still increasing weight, From hardest hearts confession of distress.

O the long dark approach, through years of pain, Death's gallery ! (might I dare to call it so)
With dismal doubt and sable terror hung,
Sick Hope's pale lamp its only glimmering ray :
There Fate my melancholy walk ordain'd,
Forbid self-love itself to flatter there.
How oft I gazed, prophetically sad!
How oft I saw her dead, while yet in smiles !
In smiles she sunk her grief to lessen mine :
She spoke me comfort, and increased my_pain.
Like powerful armies trenching at a town,
By slow and silent, but resistless sap,
In his pale progress gently gaining ground, * Referring to Night the Fifth.

Death urged his deadly siege; in spite of art,
Of all the balmy blessings Nature lends To succour frail humanity. . Ye Stars ! (Not now first made familiar to my sight) And thou, O Moon! bear witness; many a night He tore the pillow from beneath my head, Tied down my sore attention to the shock, By ceaseless depredations on a life Dearer than that he left me. Dreadful post Of observation ! darker every hour ! Less dread the day that drove me to the brink, And pointed at eternity below;
When my soul shudder'd at futurity ; When, on a moment's point, the' important die Of life and death spun doubtful, ere it fell, And turn'd up life ; my title to more woe. Dut why more woe? more comfort let it be. Nothing is dead, but that which wished to die ; Nothing is dead, but wretchedness and pain ; Nothing is dead, but what encumber'd, gall'd, Block'd up the pass, and barr'd from real life. Where dwells that wish most ardent of the wise?45

Too dark the Sun to see it ; highest stars Too low to reach it ; Death, great Death alone, O'er Stars and Sun triumphant, lands us there Nor dreadful our transition, though the mina, An artist at creating self-alarms, Rich in expedients for inquietude, Is prone to paint it dreadful. Who can take Death's portrait true? the tyrant never sat. Our sketch all random strokes, conjecture all ; Close shuts the grave, nor tells one single tale, Death and his image rising in the brain Eear faint resemblance ; never are alike Fear shakes the pencil : Fancy loves excess : Dark Ignorance is lavish of her shades ; And these the formidable picture draw:

But grant the wnrst, 'tis past ; new prospocis rise.

And drop a veil eternal o'er her tomb.
Far other views our contemplation claim,
Views that o'erpay the rigours of our life;
Views that suspend our agonies in death.
Wrapp'd in the thought of immortality,
Wrapp'd in the single, the triumphant thought!
Long life might lapse, age unperceived come on,
And find the soul unsated with her theme
Its Nature, Proof, Importance, fire my song.
O that my song could emulate my soul !
Like her immortal. No !-the soul disdains
A mark so mean; far nobler hope inflames :
If endless ages can outweigh an hour,
Let not the laurel, but the palm inspire.
Thy nature, Immortality! who knows?
And yet who knows it not? it is but life
In stronger thread of brighter colour spun,
And spun fur ever ; dipp'd by cruel Fate
In Stygian dye, how black, how brittle, here;
How short our correspondence with the Sun!
And while it lasts, inglorious ! our best deeds
How wanting in their weight! our highest joys
Small cordials to support us in our pain,
And give us strength to suffer. But how great 85
To mingle interests, converse, amities,
With all the sons of Reason, scatter'd wide
Through habitable space, wherever born,
Howe'er endow'd! to live free citizens
Of universal Nature! to lay hold,
By more than feeble faith, on the Supreme !
To call Heaven's rich unfathomable mines
(Mines which support archangels in their state)
Our own! to rise in science as in bliss,
Initiate in the secrets of the skies!
To read Creation; read its mighty plan.
In the bare bosom of the Deity !
The plan and execution to collate!
To see, before each glance of piercing thought;

All cloud, all shadow, blown remote ; and leave 10.0 No mystery-but that of Love Divine, Which lifts us on the seraph's flaming wing, From Earth's aceldama, this field of blood, Of inward anguish, and of outward ill, From darkness and from dust, to such a scene ! Love's element! true joy's illustrious home ! From Earth's sad contrast (now deplored) more fair ! What exquisits vicissitude of Fate ! Bless'd absolution of our blackest hour !

Lorenzo! these are thoughts that make man man. The wise illumine, aggrandize the great.
How great, ( . hile yet we tread the kindred clod, And every moment tear to sink beneath The clod we tread, soon trodden by our sons) How great, in the wild whirl of Time's pursuits, 115 T'o stop, and pause ; involved in high presage, Through the long vista of a thousand years, To stand contemplating our distant selves, As in a magnifying mirror seen, Enlarged, ennobled, elevate, divine !

120 To prophesy our own futurities !
To gaze in thought on what all thought transcends !
To talk, with feilow-candidates, of joys
As far beyond conception as desert, Ourselves the' astonished talkers and the tale!

Lorenzo! swells thy bosom at the thought? The swell becomes thee: 'tis an honest pride! Revere thyself;-and yet thyself despise. His nature no man can o'errate, and none Can underrate his merit. Take good hoed, 130 Nor there be modest where thou shouldst be proud; That almost universal error shun. How just our pride, when we behold those heights ! Not those Ambition paints in air, but those Reason points out, and ardent Virtue gains, And angels emulate. Our pride how just ! When mount we? when these shackles cast? when quit

This cell of the creation? this small nest, Stuck in a corner of the universe,
Wrapp'd up in fleecy cloud and finc-spun air ?
Fine-spun to sense, but gross and feculent
To souls celestial; souls ordain'd to breathe
Ambrosial gales, and drink a purer sky;
Greatly triumphant on Time's farther shore,
Where Virtue reigns, enrich'd with full arrears,
While Pomp imperial begs an alms of Peace.
In empire high, or in proud science deep,
Ye born of Earth! on what can you confer,
With half the dignity, with half the gain,
The gust, the glow, of ational delight,
As on this theme, which angels praise and share?
Man's fates and favours are a theme in Heaven.
What wretched repetition cloys us here!
What periodic potions for the sick !
Distemper'd bodies and distemper'd minds !
In an eternity what scenes shall strike !
Adventures thicken! novelties surprise !
What webs of wonder shall unravel there!
What full day pour on all the paths of Heaven,
And light the' Almighty footsteps in the deep!
How shall the blessed day of our discharge
Unwind, at once, the labyrinths of Fate,
And straighten its inextricable maze !
If inextinguishable thirst in man
To know ; how rich, how full, our banquet there! 165
There, not the moral world alone unfolds ;
The world material, lately seen in shades,
And in those shades by fragments only seen,
And seen those fragments by the labouring eye,
Unbroken, then, illustrious and entire,
Its ample sphere, its universal frame,
In full dimensions, swells to the survey,
And enters, at one glance, the ravish'd sight.
From some superior point (where, who can tell ?
Suffice it, 'tis a point, where gods reside,

THE INFIDEL RECLAIMED.

How shall the stranger-man's illumined eye, In the vast ocean of unbounded space, Behold an infinite of floating worlds Divide the crystal waves of ether pure, In endless voyage without port? The least
Of these disseminated orbs how great!
Great as they are, what numbers these surpass,
Huge as leviathan to that small race,
Those twinkling multitudes of little life,
He swallows unperceived! Stupendous these?
Yet what are these stupendous to the whole?
As particles, as atoms ill perceived;
As circulating globules in our veins;
So vast the plan. Fecundity divine !
Exuberant Source ! perhaps I wrong thee still. 190
If admiration is a source of joy,
What transport hence? yet this the least in Heaven.
What this to that illustrious robe He wears, Who toss'd this mass of wonders from his hand, A specimen, an earnest, of his power?
'Tis to that glory, whence all glory flows, As the mead's meanest floweret to the Sun, Which gave it birth. But what this Sun of Heaven? This bliss supreme of the supremely bless'd ? Death, only death, the question can resolve. The bare ideas! solid happiness So distant from its shadow chased below.
'And chase we still the phantom through the fire, O'er bog, and brake, and precipice, till death ?
And toil we still for sublunary pay?
Defy the dangers of the field and flood, Or, spiderlike, spin out our precious all, Our more than vitals spin (if no regard To great futurity,) in curious webs
Of subtle thought and exquisite design, (Fine network of the brain!) to catch a fly!

The momentary buzz of vain renown!
A name! a mortal immortality !
Or (meaner still) instead of grasping air,
For sordid lucre plunge we in the mire ?
Drudge, sweat, through every siname, for every gain :
For vile contaminating trash! throw up
Our hope in Heaven, our dignity with man,
And deify the dirt matured to gold ?
Ambition, Avarice, the two demons these
Which goad through every slough our human herd,
Hard-travel'd from the cradle to the grave.
How low the wretches stoop! how steep they climb!
These demons burn mankind, but most possess 295
Lorenzo's bosom, and turn out the skies.
Is it in time to hide eternity ?
And why not in an atom on the shore
To cover ocean? or a mote, the San?
Glory and wealth! have they this blinding power? 230
What if to them I prove Lorenzo blind?
Would it surprise thee ? be thou then surprised ;
Thou neither know'st : their nature learn from mc.
Mark well, as foreign as these subjects seem,
What close connexion ties them to my theme.
First, what is true ambition ? The pursuit
Of glory nothing less than man can share.
Were they as vain as gaudy-minded man,
As flatulent with fumes of self-applause,
Their arts and conquests animals might boast, 240
And claim their laurel-crowns as well as we ;
But not celestial. Here we stand alone,
As in our form distinct, preeminent:
If prone in thought, our stature is our shame ;
And man should blush, his forehead meets the skies.
The visible and present are for brutes:
A slender portion, and a narrow bound!
These Reason, with an energy divine,
Oierleaps, and claims the future and unseen,

THE INFIDEL RECLAIMED.

The vast unseen! the fuiure fathomless! ..... 250

When the great soul bus s up to this high point, Leaving gross Nature'ssediments below, Then, and then only, Adam's offspring quits The sage and hero of the fields and woods, Asserts his rank, and rises into man.

This is ambition ; this is human fire!

Can parts or place (two bold pretenders) make Lorenzo great, and pluck him from the throng ? Genius and art, ambition's boasted wings, Our boast but ill'deserve : a feeble aid ! Dedalian enginery ! If these alone Assist our flight, Fame's flight is Glory's fall. Heart merit wauting, nount we ne'er so high, Our height is but the gibbet of our name. A celebrated wretch when I behold,
When I behold a genius bright and base, Of towering talents and terrestrial aims, Methinks I see, as thrown from her high sphere, The glorious fragments of a soul immortal, With rubbish mix'd, and glittering in the dust: Struck at the splendid melancholy sight, At once compassion soft and envy riseBut wherefore cnvy? Talents angel-bright, If wanting worth, are shining instruments In false Ambition's hand, to finish faults Illustrious, and give Infamy renown.

Great ill is an achievement of great powers. Plain sense but rarely leads us far astray. Reason the moans, Affections choose our end. Means have no merit, if our end amiss.
If wrong our hearts, our heads are right in vain. What is a Pelham's head to Pelham's heart ? Ilearts are proprietors of all applause.
Right ends and means make wisdom, worldly-wise Is but half witted at its highest praise.

Let genius, then, despair to make thee great ; Nor flatter station. What is station high?
*Tis a proud mendicant : it boasts and begs ;
It begs an alms of homage from the throng, And oft the throng denies its charity.
Monarchs and ministers are awful names!
Whoever wear them challenge our devoir.
Religion, public Order, both exact
External homage and a supple knee,
To beings pompously set up, to serve
The meanest slave : all more is Merit's due,
Her sacred and inviolable right;
Nor ever paid the monarch, but the man.
Our hearts ne'er bow but to superior worth;
Nor over fail of their allegiance there.
Fools, indeed, drop the man in their account,
And vote the mantle into majesty.
Let the small savage boast his silver fur,
His royal robe unborrow'd, and unbought,
His own, descending fairly from his sires;
Shall man be proud to wear his livery,
And souls in ermine scorn a soul without?
Can place or lessen us or aggrandize?
Pigmies are pigmies still, though perch'd on Alps, And pyramids are pyramids in vales.
Each man makes his own stature, builds himself.
Virtue alone outbuilds the pyramids;
Her monuments shall last, when Egypt's fall.
Of these sure truths dost thou demand the cause ?
The cause is lodged in immortality.
Hear, and assent. Thy bosom burns for power ;
What station charms thee ? I'll install thee there ;
Tis thine. And art thou greater than before?
Then thou before wast something less than man.
Has thy new post betray'd thee into pride?
'That treacherous pride betrays thy dignity ;
That pride defames humanity, and calls
The being mean which staffs or strings can raise :
That pride, like hooded hawks, in darkness soars, From blindness bold, and towering to the skies.
'Tis born of Egnorance, which knows not man : An angel's second, nor his second long. A Nero, quitting his imperial throne, And courting glory from the tinkling string, But faintly shadows an immortal soul,
With empire's self to pride or rapture fired. If nobler motivas minister no cure, E'en vanity forbids thee to be vain.

High worth is elevated place : 'tis more, It makes the post stand candidate for thee ; Makes more than monarchs, makes an honest man. Though no Exchequer it commands, 'tis wealth; And though it wears no ribband, 'tis renown: Renown, that would not quit thee though disgraced, Nor leave thee pendent on a master's smile. 340 Other ambition Nature interdicts;
Nature proclaims it most absurd in man, By pointing at his origin and end; Mills and a swathe, at first, his whole demand; His whole domain, at last, a turf or stone;345 To whom, between, a world may seem too small.

Souls, truly great, dart forward on the wing Of just Ambition, to the grand result, The curtain's fall ; there see the buskin'd chief Unshod behind this momentary scene, Reduced to his own stature, low or high, As vice or virtue sinks him, or sublimes; And laugh at this fantastic mummery, This antic prelude of grotesque events, Where dwarfs are often stilted, and betray
A littleness of soul by worlds o'errun, And nations laid in blood. Dread sacrifice To Christian pride! which had with horror shock'd The darkest Pagans, offer'd to their gods.

O thou Most Christian enemy to peace !
Again in arms ? again provoking Fate? That prince, and that alone, is truly great, Who draws the sword reluctant, gladly sheaths ;

On empire builds what empire far outweighs,
And makes his throne a scaffold to the skies !
Why this so rare ?-because, forgot of all
The day of death, that venerable day
Which sits as judge ; that day, which shall pronounce
On all our days, absolve them, or condemn.
Lorenzo! never shut thy thought against it :
370
Be levees ne'er so full, afford it room ;
And give it audience in the eabinet.
That friend consulted, flatteries apart,
Will tell thee fair if thou art great or mean.
To dote on aught may leave us, or be left,
$3 \% 5$
Is that ambition ? then let flames descend, Point to the centre their inverted spires,
And learn humiliation from a soul
Which boasts her lineage from celestial fire.
Yet these are they the world pronounces wise ; 380
The world, which cancels Nature's right and wrong,
And casts new wisdom: ecn the grave man lends
His solemn face to countenance the coin.
Wisdom for parts is madness for the whole.
This stamps the paradox, and gives us leave
To call the wisest weak, the richest poor,
The most ambitious unambitious, mean,
In triumph mean, and abject on a throne.
Nothing can make it luss than mad in man
To put forth all his ardour, all his art,
And give his soul her full unbounded flight,
But reaching Him who gave her wings to fly.
When blind Ambition quite mistakes her road,
And downward pores for that which shines above,
Substantial happiness and true renown ;
Then, like an idiot gazing on the brook,
We leap at stars, and fasten in the mud;
At glory grasp, and sink in infamy.
Ambition ! powerful source of good and ill!
Thy strength in man, like length of wing in birds 400
When disengaged from earth with greater ease,

And swifter flight, transporis us to the skies:
By toys entangled, or in guilt bemired, It turns a curse ; it is our chain and scaurge, In this dark dungeon, where confined we lie,
Close-grated by the sordid bars of sense, All prospect of eternity shut out ; And, but for execution, ne'er set free.

With error in ambition justly charged, Find we Lorenzo wiser in his wealth? An inventory new to set thee right?
Where thy true treasure? Gold says, ' Not in me :'
And, ' Not in me,' the Diamond. Gold is poor ;
India's insolvent: seek it in thiyself;
Seek in thy naked self, and find it there ;
In being so descended, form'd, endow'd; Sky-born, sky-guided, sky-returning race ! Erect, immortal, rational, divine ! In senses, which inherit earth and heavens: Enjoy the various riches Nature yields? Far nobler! give the riches they enjoy ; Give taste to fruits, and harmony to groves; Their radiant beams to gold, and gold's bright sire ; Take in, at once, the landscape of the world, At a small inlet, which a grain might close, And half create the wondrous world they see. Our senses, as our reason, are divine. But for the magic organ's powerful charm, Earth were a rude uncolour'd chaos still.
Objects are but the' occasion, ours the exploit; Ours is the cloth, the pencil, and the paint, Which Natr e's admirable picture draws, And beautifies Creation's ample dome.
Like Milton's Eve, when gazing on the lake,
Man makes the matchless image man admires.
Say then, shall man, his thoughts all sent abroad,
Superior wonders in himself forgot,
His admiration waste on objects round,

When Heaven makes him the soul of all he sees? 440
Absurd! not rare! so great, so mean, is man.
What wealth in senses such as these! what wealth
In fancy, fired to form a fairer scene
Than sense surveys! in Memory's firm record,
Which, should it perish, could this world recal
From the dark shadows of o'erwhelming years !
In colours fresh, originally bright,
Preserve its portrait, and report its fate !
What wealth in intellect, that sovereign power!
Which sense and fancy summons to the bar:
Interrogates, approves, or reprehends ;
And from the mass those underlings import,
From their materials sifted and refined,
And in Truth's balance accurately weigh'd,
Forms art and science, government and law,
The solid basis, and the beauteous frame, -
The vitals, and the grace of civil life!
And manners (sad exception!) set aside,
Strikes out, with master-hand, a copy fair
Of his idea, whose indulgent thought
Long, long ere Chaos teem'd, plann'd human bliss.
What wealth in souls that soar, dive, range around
Disdaining limit or from place or time;
And hear at once, in thought extensive, hear
The' Almighty Fiat, and the trumpet's sound ' 465
Bold, on Creation's outside walk, and view
What was, and is, and more than c'er slall be ;
Commanding with omnipotence of thought,
Creations new, in Fancy's field to rise !
Souls that can grasp whate'er the' Almighty made, 470 And wander wild through things impossible!
What wealth in faculties of endless growth,
In quenchless passions violent to crave,
In liberty to choose, in power to reach,
And in duration (how thy riches rise!)
Duration to perpetuate-boundless bliss !
Ask you what power resides in feeble man,

That bliss to gain? Is Virtue's then, unknown? Virtue : our present peace, our future prize. Man's unprecarious, natural estate, Improveable at will, in virtue lies ; Its tenure sure, its income is divine.

High built abundance, heap on heap ! for what?
To breed new wants, and beggar us the more; Then make a richer scramble for the throng ? Soon as this feeble pulse, which leaps so long, Almost by miracle, is tired with play, Like rubbish, from disploding engines thrown, Our magazines of hoarded trifles fly ; Fly diverse ; fly to foreigners, to foes;
New masters court, and call the former fool, (How justly!) for dependence on their stay. Wide scatter, first, our playthings ! then, our dust.

Dost court abundance for the sake of peace?
Learn, and lament thy self-defeated scheme.
Riches enable to be richer still, And richer still what mortal can resist ? Thus Wealth (a cruel task-master !) enjoins New toils, succeeding toils, an endless train ! And murders Peace, which taught it first to shine. 500 The poor are half as wretched as the rich, Whose proud and painful privilege it is At once to bear a double load of woe, To feel the stings of envy and of want, Outrageous want! both Indies cannot cure.

A competence is vital to Content ;
Much wealth is corpulence, if not disease: Sick, or encumber'd, is our happiness.
A competence is all we can enjoy.
O be content, where Heaven can give no more!
510 More, like a flash of water from a lock, Quickéns our spirit's movement for an hour, But soon its force is spent ; nor rise our joys Above our native temper's common stream. Hence Disappointment lurks in every prize,

The rich man, who denies it, proudly feigns, Nor knows the wise are privy to the lie. Much learning shows how little mortals know; Much wealth, how little worldlings can enjoy:
At best it babies us with endless toys,
And keeps us children till we drop to dust.
As monkeys at a mirror stand amazed,
They fail to find what they so plainly see :
Thus men, in shining riches, see the face
Of Happiness, nor know it is a shade ;
But gaze, and touch, and peep, and peep again,
And wish, and wonder it is absent still.
How few can rescue opulence from want !
Who lives to nature rarely can be poor ;
Who lives to fancy never ean be rich.
Poor is the man in debt ; the man of gold,
In debt to Fortune, trembles at her power:
The man of reason smiles at her and death.
O what a patrimony this! a being
Of such inherent strength and majesty,
Not worlds possuss'd can raise it ; worlds destroy'd
Can't injure ; which holds on its glorious course,
When thine, O Nature! ends : too bless'd to mourn
Creation's obsequies. What treasure this! 540
The monarch is a beggar to the man.
Immortal! ages pass'd, yet nothing gone!
Morn without eve! a race without a goal !
Unshorten'd by progression infinite '
Futurity for ever future! life
Beginning still where computation ends !
'Tis the description of a deity !
'Tis the description of the meanest slave !
The meanest slave dares then Lorenzo scorn?
The meanest slave thy sovereign glory shares. 550
Proud youth! fastidious of the lower world!
Man's lawful pride includes humility;
Stoops to the lowest ; is too great to find
Inferiors; all immortal! brothers all!
Praprietors eternal of thy love!

Immortal! what can strike the sense so strong, As this the soul? it thunders to the thought, Reason amazes, gratitude o'erwhelms: No more we slumber on the brink of Fate; Roused at the sound, the' exulting soul ascends, 500 And breathes her native air, an air that feeds Ambitions high, and fans ethereal fires; Quick kindles all that is divine within us, Nor leave one loitering thought beneath the stars.

Has not Lorenzo's bosom caught the flame? 565 Immortal! were but one immortal, how Would others envy! how would thrones adore! Because 'tis common, is the blessing lost? How this ties up the bounteous hand of Heaven ! O vain, vain, vain, all else! Eternity!
A glorious and a ncedful refuge that,
From vile imprisonment in abject views.
'Tis Immortality, 'tis that alone,
Amid life's pains, abasements, emptiness,
The soul can comfort, elevate, and fill:
That only, and that amply, this performs ;
Lifts us above life's pains, her joys above ;
Their terror those, and these their lustre lose ;
Eternity depending covers all ;
Eternity depending all achieves;
Sets earth at distance ; casts her into sliades ; Blends her distinctions ; abrogates her powers ; The low, the lofty, joyous, and severe, Fortune's dread frowns and fascinating smiles, Make one promiscuous and neglected heap;
The man bencath; if I may call him man,
Whom Immortality's full force inspires.
Nothing terrestrial touches his high thought;
Suns shine unseen, and thunders roll unheard, By minds quite conscious of their high descent, 590 Their present province, and their future prize;
Divizely darting upward exery wish,
Warm on the wing, in glorious absence lost!

Doubt you this truth? why labours your belief?
If earth's whole orb, by some due-distant eye
595
Were seen at once, her towering Alps would sink, And level'd Atlas leave an even sphere.
Thus earth, and all that earthly minds admire,
Is swallow'd in Eternity's vast round.
To that stupendous view, when souls awake,
600
So large of late, so mountainous to man,
Time's toys subside, and equal all below.
Enthusiastic this?-then all are weak
But rank enthusiasts. To this godlike height Some souls have soar'd, or martyrs ne'er had bled : 605
And all may do what has by man been done.
Who, beaten by these sublunary storms,
Boundless, interminable joys can weigh
Unraptured, unexalted, uninflamed?
What slave unbless'd, who from to-morrow's dawn 610 Expects an empire? he forgets his chain, And, throned in thought, his absent sceptre waves.
And what a sceptre waits us! what a throne!
Her own immense appointments to compute,
Or comprehend her high prerogatives,
In this her dark minority, how toils,
How vainly pants, the human soul divine!
Too great the bounty seems for earthly joy :
What heart but trembles at so strange a bliss?
In spite of all the truths the Muse has sung,
Ne'er to be prized enough! enough revolved!
Are there who wrap the world so close about them,
They see no farther than the clouds, and dance
On heedless Vanity's fantastic toe,
Till, stumbling at a straw, in their career, $62 \overline{5}$
Headlong they plunge, where end both dance and song?
Are there, Lorenzo ? Is it possible ?
Are there on earth (let me not call them men)
Who lodge a soul immortal in their breasts,
Unconscious as the mountain of its cre,
Or rock of its inestimable gem?

When rocks shall melt, and mountains vanish, these Shall know their treasure; treasure them no more.

Are there (still more amazing !) who resist The rising thought? who smother, in its birth, The glorious truth? who struggle to be brutes! Who through this bosom-barrier burst their way, And, with reversed ambition, strive to sink ?
Who labour downwards through the' opposing powers Of instinct, reason, and the world against them, 640 To dismal hopes, and shelter in the shock Of endless night? night darker than the grave's? Who fight the proofs of Immortality ?
With horrid zeal, and execrable arts, Work all their engines, level their black fires, 645 To blot from man this attribute divine, (Than vital blood far dearer to the wise) Blasphemers and rank atheists to themselves?

To contradict them, see all Nature rise ! What object, what event, the moon beneath, 650 But argues, or endears, an after-scene ? To reason proves, or weds it to desire ? All things proclaim it needful; some advance One precious step beyond, and prove it sure.
A thousand arguments swarm round my pen, From Heaven, and earth, and man. Indulge a few, By Nature, as her common habit, worn; So pressing Providence, a truth to teach, Which truth untaught, all other truths were vain.
Thou! whose all-providential eye surveys,

Creation, and holds empire far beyond '
Eternity's Inhabitant august !
Of two eternities, amazing Lord!
One pass'd, ere man's or angel's had begun ;
Aid! while I rescue from the foe's assanlt .
Thy glorious immortality in man;
A theme for ever, and for all, of weight,
Of moment, infinite! but relish'd most
By those who love thee most, who most adore.

Nature, thy daughter, ever-changing birth
Of thee the great Immutable, to man
Speaks wisdom ; is his oracle supreme ;
And he who most consults her is most wise. Lorenzo! to this heavenly Delphos haste,
$0 \%$ And come back all immortal, all divine. Look Nature through, 'tis revolution all; All change, no death : day follows night, and night The dying day : stars rise, and set, and rise : Earth takes the' example. See, the Summer gay, 680 With her green chaplet and ambrosial flowers,
Droops into pallid Autumn : Winter gray, Horrid with frost, and turbulent with storm, Blows Autumn and his golden fruits away, Then melts into the Spring : soft Spring, with breath Favonian, from warm chambers of the south, 686 Recals the first. All, to reflourish, fades : As in a wheel, all sinks to reascend: Emblems of man, who passes, not expires. With this minute distinction, emblems just,
Nature revolves, but man advances ; both Eternal: that a circle, this a line: That gravitates, this soars. 'The' aspiring soul, Ardent and tremulous, like flame, ascends, Zeal and humility her wings, to Heaven.
The world of matter, with its various forms, All dies into new life. Life born from Death Rolls the vast mass, and shall for ever roll. No single atom, once in being, lost, With ehange of counsel charges the Most High. 700

What hence infers Lorenzo ? Can it be ?
Matter immortal ? and shall spirit die ?
Above the nobler shall less noble rise?
Shall man alone, for whom all else revives, No resurrection know ? shall man alone, Imperial man! be sown in barren ground, Less privileged than grain on which he feeds ? Is man, in whom alone is power to prize The bliss of being, or, with previous pain,

1) eplore its period, by the spleen of Fate, 710

 Severely doom'd Death's single unredeem'd?If Nature's revolution speaks aloud In her gradation, hear her louder still. Look Nature through, 'tis neat gradation all. By what minute degrees her scale ascends !
Each middle nature joind at each extreme ; To that above it join'd, to that bencath. Parts into parts reciprocally shot, Abhor divorce. What love of union reigns ! Here dormant matter waits a call to life; Half-life, half-death, join there : here life and sense, There sense fiom reason steals a glimmering ray ; Reason shines out in man. But how preserved The chain unbroken upward, to the realms Of incorporeal life ? those realms of bliss, Where Death hath no dominion? Grant a make Half-mortal, half imniortal ; earthy part, And part ethereal : grant the soul of man Eternal, or in man the series ends.
Wide yawns the gap; connexion is no more ;
730
Check'd Reason halts; her next step wants support ; Striving to climb, she tumbles from her scheme, A schems Analogy pronounced so true; Analogy ! man's surest guide below.

Thus far all Nature calls on thy belief;
And will Lorenzo, careless of the call, False attestation on all Nature charge, Rather than violate his league with Death ? Renounce his reason, rather than renounce The dust beloved, and run the risk of Heaven?
O what indignity to deathless souls !
What treason to the majesty of man!
Of man immortal! hear the lofty style :
'If su decreed, the' Almighty Will be done.
Let earth dissolve, yon ponderous orbs descend,
And grind us into dust. The soul is safe;
The man emerges ; mounts above the wreck,

As towering flame from Nature's functal pyre:
O'er devastation, as a gainer, smiles;
His charter his inviolable rights,

- Well pleased to learn from Thunder's impotence, Death's pointless darts, and Hell's defeated storms.'

But these chimeras touch not thee, Lorenzo!
The glories of the world thy sevenfold shield.
Other ambition than of crowns in air,
mon
And superlunary felicities,
Thy bosom warms. I'll cool it, if I can;
And turn those glories that enchant, against thee.
What ties thee to this life proclaims the next.
If wise, the cause that wounds thee is thy cure. \%ito
Come, my Ambitious! let us mount together,
(To mount Lorenzo never can refuse !)
And from the clouds, where Pride delights to dwell,
Look down on carth.-What seest thou? wondrous things !
Terrestrial wonders, that eclipse the skies. $\quad$ TCu
What lengths of labourdd lands ; what loaded seas !
Loaded by man for pleasure, wealth, or war!
Seas, winds, and plapets, into service brought, His art acknowledge, and promote his ends.
Nor can the' eternal rocks his will withstand:
What level'd mountains! and what lifted vales!
O'er vales and mountains sumptuous cities swell,
And gild our landseape with their glittering spires.
Some mid the wondering waves majestic rise,
And Neptune holds a mirror to their charms.
Far greater still! (what cannot mortal might?)
Sce, wide dominions ravish'd from the deep!
The narrow'd deep with indignation foams.
Or southward turn, to delicate and grand,
The finer arts there ripen in the Sun.
How the tall temples, as to meet their gods, Ascend the skies! the proud triumphal arch Shows us half heaven beneath its ample bend.
High through mid air, here streams are taught to flow,

Whole rivers there, laid by in basons, sleep. 785 Here plains turn oceans ; there vast oceans join, Through kingdoms channel'd deep from shore to shore, And changed Creation takes its face from man. Beats thy brave breast for formidable scenes, Where fame and empire wait upon the sword?
See fields in blood; hear naval thunders rise ; Britannia's voice! that awes the world to peace. How yon enormous mole projecting breaks The mid-sca, furious waves! their roar amidst Outspeaks the Deity, and says, 'O Main! Thus far, nor farther ; new restraints obey.' Larth's disembowel'd! measured are the skies !
Stars are detected in their deep recess ! Creation widens! vanquish'd Nature yields ! Har secrets are extorted ! Art prevails ! What monument of genius, spirit, power!

And now, Lorenzo! raptured at this scene, Whose glories render heaven superfuous! say, Whose fentsteps these ?-Immortals have been here Could less than souls immortal this have done?
Sarth's cover'd o'er with proofs of souls immortal, And proofs of Immortality forgot.

To flatter thy grand foible, I confess
These are Ambition's works; and these are gecat:
But this, the least immortal souls can do, 810
Transconds them all.-But what can these transcend?
Dost ask me what ?-one sigh for the distress'd.
What then for Infidels? a deeper sigh.
${ }^{\prime}$ Tis moral grandeur makes the mighty man!
How little they, who think aught great below! 815 All our ambitions Death defeats but one, And that it crowns.-Here cease we ; but ere long, More powerful proof shall take the field against thee, Stronger than death, and smiling at the tomb.

PART II.

I'HE INFIDEL RECLAIMED.

CONTAINING THE

NATURE, PROOF, AND IMPORTANCE OF IMMORTALITY

PREFACE.

As we are at war with the power, it were well if we were at war with the manners of France. A land of levity is a land of guilt. A serious mind is the native soil of every virtuc, and the single character that does true honour to mankind. 'The soul's immortality has been the favourite theme viith the scrious of all ages. Nor is it strange : it is a subject by far the most interesting and important that can enter the mind of man. Of highest moment this subject always was, and always will be : yet this its highest moment scems to admit of increase at this day; a scrt of occasional importance is superadded to the natural weight of $i t$, if that opinion which is advanced in the Preface to the preceding Night be just. It is there supposed that all our Infidels (whatever scheme, for argument's sake, and to keep themselves in countenance, they patronize) are betrayed into their deplorable error by some doubt of their immortality at the bottom : and the more I consider this point, the more I am persuaded of the truth of that opinion. - Though the distrust of a futurity is a strange error, yet it $s$ an error into which bad men may naturally be distressed; for it is impossible to bid dcfiance to final ruin, without some refuge in imagination, some presuniption of escape. And what presumption is there? there are but two in Nature ; but two within the compass of human thought ; and these are, -That either God will not or cannot punish. Considering the divine attributes, the first is ton gross to be digested by our strongest wiches; and, since Omnipotence is as much a divine attribute as Holiness, that God camot punish is as absurd a supposition as the former. God certainly can punish, as long as wicked men exist. In nonexistence, therefore, is their only refuge ; and, consequently, nonexistence is their strongest wish; and strong wishes have a strange influence on onv opinions ; they bias the judg:uent in a manner almost ineredible. And since, on this member of their alternative there are some rery small apnearances in their favour, and none at all on the other, they cateh at this reed, they lay hold on this chimera, to save themselves from the shock and horror of an immediate and absolute despair.

On reviewing my subject, by the light which this argument, and others of like tendency, threw upon it, I was more inclined than ever to pursue it, as it appeared to mo to strike directly at the main root of all our infidelity. In the following pages it is, accordingly, pursued at large, and some arguments for immortality, new at least to me, are ventured on in them. There also, the writer has made an attempt to set the gross absurdities and horrors of amihilation in a fuller and more affecting view than is (I think) to be met with elsewhere.
The gentlemen for whose sake this attempt was chiefly made, profes, great admiration for the wisdom of heathen antiquity: what pity it is they are not sincere! If they were sincere, how would it mortify them to consider with what contempt and abhorrence their ndtions would have been received by those whom they so much admire. What degree of contempt and abhorrence would fall to their share, may be conjectured by the following matter of fact (in my opinion,) extremely memorable. Of all their heathen worthies, Socrates (it is well known) was the most guarded, dispassionate, and composed; yet this great master of temper was angry, and argry at his last hour; and angry with lis friend; and angry for what deserved acknowledgment; angry for a right and tender instance of true friendship towards him. Is not this surprising? what could be the cause ?-The cause was for his honour: It was a truly noble, though, perhaps, a too punctilious regard for Immortality : for his friend asking him, with such an affectionate concern as became a friend, ' Where he should deposit his remains?" it was resented by Socrateq, as implying a dishonourable supposition, that he could be so mean as to have regard for any thing, even in himself, that was not Yimmortal.

This fact, well considered, would make our infidels withdraw their admiration from Sterates, or make them endeavour, by their imitation of his illustrícus example, to share his ghory; and consequently, it would incline them to peruse the following with candour and impartiality : which is all I desireand that, for their sakes: for I am persuaded that an unprejudiced infidel must, necessarily, receive some advantageous impessions from them.

CONTENTS

OF THE SEVENTH NIGHT.

In the ivint Night, arguments were drawn from Nature in proof of Imis. tulity: here, others are drawn from Man; from his discontelle, nom his passions and powers; from the gradual growth of reasup, from his fear of death; from the nature of hope, and of virtuc; from knowledge and love, as being the most essential properties of the soul; from the order of creation; from the nature of ambition, avarice, pleasure.-A digression on the grandeur of the passions.-Immortality alone renders our present state intelligible.-An objection from the Stoics' disbelief of Immortality answered.-Endless questions unresolvable, but on supposition of our immortality.-The natural, most melancholy, and pathetic complaint of a worthy man, under the persuasion of no futurity. -The gross absurdities and horrors of annililation urged home on Lorenzo.-The soul's vast importance; from whence it arises, &c.-The difficulty of being an Infidel; the infamy ; the cause; and the character of an infidel state. What true free-thinking is; the necessary punishment of the false.Man's ruin is from himself.-An Infidel accuses himself of guilt and hypocrisy, and that of the worst sort; his obligations to Christians: what danger he incurs by virtue; vice recommended to him; his high pretences to virtue and benevolence exploded -The conclusion, on the nature of faith, reason, and hope; with an apology for this attempt.

THE INFIDEL RECLAIMED.

PART THE SECOSD.

Heaven gives the needful, but neglected call. What day, what hour, but knocks at human hearts, To wake the soul to sense of future scenes?
Deaths stand, like Mercuries, in every way, And kindly point us to our journey's end. Pope, who couldst make immortals ! art thou dead? I give thee joy ; nor will I take my leave, So soon to follow. Man but dives in death, Dives from the sun, in fairer day to rise ; The grave, his subterranean road to bliss.
Yes, infinite indulgence plann'd it so; Through various parts our glorious story runs; Time gives the preface, endless age unrolls The volume (ne'er unroll'd) of human fate.

This, earth and skies* already have proclaim'd. 15 The world's a prophecy of worlds to come, And who, what God foretels (who speaks in things Still louder than in words) shall dare deny? If Nature's arguments appear too weak, Turn a new leaf, and stronger read in man. If man sleeps on, untaught by what he sees, Can he prove infidel to what he feels? He, whose blind thought futurity denies, Unconscious bears, Bellerophon ! like thee, His own indictment ; he condemns himself:
Who reads his bosom, reads immortal life ; Or Nature there, imposing on her sons, Has written fabies : man was made a lie.

[^0]Why discontent for ever harbour'd there ?
Incurable consumption of our peace !
Resolve me why the cottager and king,
He whom sea-sever'd realms obey, and he
Who steals his whole dominion from the waste,
Repelling winter blasts with mud and straw,
Disquieted alike, draw sigh for sigh,
In fate so distant, in complaint so near?
Is it that things terrestrial can't content?
Deep in rich pasture, will thy flocks complain?
Not so ; but to their master is denied
To share their sweet serene. Man, ill at ease
In this, not his own place, this foreign field,
Where Nature fodders him with other food
Than was ordain'd his cravings to suffice,
Poor in abundance, famish'd at a feast,
Sighs on for something more, when most enjoy'd. $4 \overline{5}$
Is Heaven then kinder to thy flocks than thee?
Not sc ; thy pasture richer, but remote;
In part remote; for that remoter part
Man bleats from instinct, though, perhaps, debauch'd
By sense, his reason sleeps, nor dreams the causc. 50
The cause how obvious, when his reason wakes!
His grief is but his grandeur in disguise,
And-discontent is immortality!
Shall sons of Ether, shall the blood of IIeaven,
Set up their hopes on earth, and stable here,
With brutal acquiescence in the mire ?
Lorenzo! no ; they shall be nobly pain'd :
The glorious foreigners, distress'd, shall sigh
On thrones, and thou congratulate the sigh.
Man's misery declares him born for bliss ;
His anxious heart asserts the truth I sing,
And gives the sceptic in his head-the lie.
Our heads, our hearts, our passions, and our powers,
Speak the same language; call us to the skies:
Unripen'd these, in this inclement clime,
Scarce rise above conjecture and mistake;

THE INFIDEL RECLAIMED.

And for this land of trifles those too strong Tumultuous rise, and tempest human life. What prize on earth can pay us for the storm? Meet objects for our passions Heaven ordain'd,
Objects that challenge all their fire, and leave No fault but in defect. Bless'd Heaven! avert
A bounded ardour for unbounded bliss !
O for a bliss unbounded! far beneath
A soul immortal is a mortal joy.
Nor are our powers to perish immature;
But after feeble effort here, beneath
A brighter sun, and in a nobler soil,
Transplanted from this sublunary bed,
Shall flourish fair, and put forth all their blcom.
Reason progressive, instinct is complete ;
Swift Instinct leaps ; slow Reason feebly climbs Brutes soon their zenith reach; their little all Flows in at once ; in ages they no more Could know, or do, or covet, or enjoy.
Were man to live coeval with the Sun, The patriarch-pupil would be learning still, Yet, dying, leave his lesson half-unlearn'd. Men perish in advance, as if the Sun Should set ere noon, in eastern oceans drown'd;

Or if, abortively, poor man must die,
Nor reach what reach he might, why die in dread ?
Why cursed with foresight? wise to misery?
Why of his proud prerogative the prey?
Why less preeminent in rank than pain?
His immortality alone can tell;
Full ample fund to balance all amiss,
And turn the scale in favour of the just !
His immortality alone can solve

That darkest of enigmas, human hope;
Of all the darkest, if at death we die.
Hope, eager Hope, the' assassin of our joy,
All present blessings treading under foot,
Is scarce a milder tyrant than Despair.
With no past toils content, still planning new;
110
Hope turns us o'er to Death alone for ease.
Possession, why more tasteless than pursuit?
Why is a wish far dearer than a crown?
That wish accomplish'd, why the grave of bliss?-
Because in the great future buried deep,
Beyond our plans of empire and renown,
Lies all that man with ardour should pursue;
And He who made him bent him to the right.
Man's heart the' Almighty to the future sets,
By secret and inviolable springs;
And makes his hope his sublunary joy.
Man's heart eats all things, and is hungry still ;
' More, more!' the glutton cries : for something new
So rages appetite ; if man can't mount,
He will descend. He starves on the possess'd;
Hence, the world's master, from Ambition's spire,
In Caprea plunged, and dived bencath the brute.
In that rank sty why wallow'd Empire's son
Supreme?-Because he could no higher fly :
His riot was Ambition in despair.
Old Rome consulted birds : Lorenzo ! thou
With more success the flight of Hope survey,
Of restless Hope for ever on the wing.
High perch'd o'er every thought that falcon sits,
To fly at all that rises in her sight:
And never stooping, but to mount again
Next moment, she betrays her aim's mistake,
And owns her quarry lodged beyond the grave
There should it fail us, (it must fail us there,
If being fails) more mournful riddles rise,
And virtue vies with hope in mystery.
Why virtue? where its praisc, its being, fled?

Virtue is true self-interest pursued ; What true self-interest of quite mortal man? To close with all that makes him happy here. If vice (as sometimes) is our friend on earth, Then vice is virtue ; 'tis our sovereign good. In self-applause is virtue's golden prize ? No self applause attends it on thy scheme Whence self-applause? from conscience of the right ; And what is right, but means of happiness? 151. No means of happiness when virtue yields ; That basis failing falls the building too, And lays in ruin every virtuous joy.

The rigid guardian of a blameless heart, 155 So long revered, so long reputed wise, Is weak, with rank knight-errantries o'errun. Why beats thy bosom with illustrious dreams Of self-exposure, laudable and great? Of gallant enterprise, and glorious death? Die for thy country ?-thou romantic fool! Seize, seize the plank thyself, and let her sink. Thy country! what to thee ?-the Godhead, what! (I speak with awe!) though He should bid thee bleed? If, with thy blood, thy final hope is spilt?
Nor can Omnipotence reward the blow :
Be deaf; preserve thy being; disobey.
Nor is it disobedience. Know, Lorenzo!
Whate'er the' Almighty's subsequent command,
His first command is this :-' Man, love thyself.' 170
In this alone free agents are not free.
Existence is the basis, bliss the prize ;
If virtue costs existence, 'tis a crime ;
Bold violation of our law supreme ; .
Black suicide ; though nations, which consult
Their gain at thy expense, resound applause.
Since Virtue's recompense is doubtful herc,
If man dies wholly; well may we demand
Why is man suffer'd to be good, in vain?
Why to be grod in vain, is man enjoin'd?

Why to be good in vain is man betray'd ?
Betray'd by traitors lodged in his own breast, By sweet complacencjes from virtue felt ?
Why whispers Nature lies on Virtue's part?
Or if blind Instinct (which assumes the name
Of sacred Conscience) plays the fool in man,
Why Reason made accomplice in the cheat?
Why are the wisest loudest in her praise ?
Can man by Reason's beam be led astray?
Or, at his peril, imitate his God?
Since virtue sometimes ruins us on earth, Or both are true, or man survives the grave.

Or man survives the grave ; or own, Lorenzo,

- Thy boast supreme a wild absurdity.

Dauntless thy spirit, cowards are thy scorn :
Grant man immortal, and thy scorn is just.
The man immortal, rationally brave,
Dares rush on death-because he cannot die!
But if man loses all when life is lost,
He lives a coward, or a fool expires.
A daring Infidel (and such there are, From pride, example, lucre, rage, revenge,
Or pure heroical defect of thought)
Of all earth's madmen most deserves a chain.

- When to the grave we follow the renown'd

For valour, virtue, science, all we love,
And all we praise ; for worth, whose noontide beam,
Enabling us to think in higher style,
Mends our ideas of ethereal powers;
Dream we, that lustre of the moral world
Goes out in stench, and rottenness the close?
Why was he wise to know, and warm to praise,
And strenuous to transcribe, in human life,
The Mind Almighty ? Could it be that Fate,
Just when the lineaments began to shine,
And dawn the Deity, should snatch the draught,
With night eternal blot it out, and give
The skies alarm, lest angels too might die?

If human souls why not angelic too, Extinguish'd; and a solitary God,
O'er ghastly ruin frowning from his throne?
Shall we this moment gaze on God in man, The next lose man for ever in the dust? Fron dust we disengage, or man mistakes ; And there, where least his judgment fears a flaw. 225 Wisdom and worth how boldly he commends !
Wisdom and worth are sacred names; revered
Where not embraced; applauded ! deified!
Why not compassion'd too? if spirits die, Both are calamities, inflicted both

230
To make us but more wretched. Wisdom's eye Acute, for what? to spy more miseries;
And worth, so recompensed, new points their stings.
Or man surmounts the grave, or gain is loss,
And worth exalted humbles us the more.
235
Thou wilt not patronize a scheme that makes
Weakness and vice the refuge of mankind.
'Has virtue, then, no joys?'-Yes, joys dear bought. Talk ne'er so long in this imperfect state, Virtue and vice are at eternal war.
Virtue's a combat ; and who fights for nought, Or for precarious, or for small reward ? Who Virtue's self-reward so loud resound, Would take degrees angelic here below, And virtue, while they compliment, betray, By feeble motives and unfaithful guards.
The crown, the' unfading crown, her soul inspires;
'Tis that and that alone can countervail
The body's treacheries and the world's assaults. On earth's poor pay our famish'd virtue dies ;
Truth incontestable! in spite of all
A Bayle has preach'd, or a Voitaire believed.
In man the more we dive, the more we see Heaven's signet stamping an immortal make. Dive to the bottom of his soul, the base Sustaining all, what find we ? knowledge, love !

As light and heat, essential to the Sum,
These to the soul: and why, if souls expire?
How little lovely here? how little known?
Small knowledge we dig up with endless toil,
And love unfeign'd may purchase perfect hate.
Why starved, on earth, our angel appetites ;
While brutal are indulged their fulsome fill?
Were then capacities divine conferr'd,
As a mock diadem, in savage sport,
25
Rank insult of our pompous poverty,
Which reaps but pain from seeming claims so fair?
In future age lies no redress? and shuts
Eternity the door on our complaint?
If so, for what strange ends were mortals made !
$2 \% 0$
The worst to wallow, and the best to weep;
The man who merits most must most complain :
Can we conceeive a disregard in.Heaven,
What the worst perpetrate, or best endure ?
This cannot be. To love and know, in man 275
Is oundless appetite and boundless power.
And these demonstrate boundless objects too.
Objects, powers, appetites, Heaven suits in all,
Nor, Nature through, e'er violates this sweet
Eternal concord on her tuncful string.
Is man the sole exception from her laws?
Eternity struck off from human hope,
(I speak with truth, but veneration toa)
Man is a monster, the reproach of Heaven,
A stain, a dark impenetrable cloud
On Nature's beauteots aspect, and deforms, (Amazing blot!) deforms her with her lord.
If such is man's allotment, what is Heaven ?
Or own the soul immortal, or blaspheme.
Or own the soul immortal; or invert
All order. Go, mock majesty! go, man!
And bow to thy superiors of the stall, Through every scene of sense superior far
They graze the turf untill'd, they drink the stream

Unbrew'd, and ever full, and unimbitter'd 295

With doubts, fears, fruitless hopes, regrets, despairs, Mankind's peculiar! Reason's precious dower!
No foreign clime they ransack for their robes,
Nor brothers cite to the litigious bar ;
Their good is good entire, unmix'd, unmarr'd; 300 They find a paradise in every field,
On boughs forbidden where no curses hang:
Their ill no more than strikes the sense, unstretch'd By previous dread, or murmur in the rear: When the worst comes, it comes unfear'd ; one stroke Begins and ends their woe: they die but once; 306 Bless'd, incommunicable privilege! for which Proud man, who rules the globe and reads the stars, Philosopher or hero, sighs in vain.

Account for this prerogative in brutes. 310
No day, no glimpse of day, to solve the knot, But what beams on it from Eternity. O sole and sweet solution! that unties The difficult, and softens the severe ; The cloud on Nature's beauteous face dispels; 315 Restores bright order ; casts the brute beneath, And reinthrones us in supremacy Of joy, e'en here. Admit inmortal life, And virtue is knight-errantry no more ; Each virtue brings in hand a golden dower, 320 Far richer in reversion : Hope exults, And though much bitter in our cup is thrown, Predominates, and gives the taste of Heaven.
O wherefore is the Deity so kind ?
Astonishing beyond astonishment!
Heaven our reward-for heaven enjoy'd below.
Still unsubdued thy stubborn heart ?-for there The traitor lurks who doubts the truth I sing : Reason is guiltless; Will alone rebels.What, in that stubborn heart, if I should find 330 New, unexpected witnesses against thee? Ambition, Pleasure, and the Love of Gain !

Canst thou suspect that these, which make the soul The slave of earth, should own her heir of Heaven? Canst thou suspect what makes us disbelieve
Our immortality should prove it sure ?
First, then, Ambition summon to the bar.
Ambition's shame, extravagance, disgust,
And inextinguishable nature, speak:
Each much deposes; hear them in their turn. 340
The soul, how passionately fond of fame!
How anxious that fond passion to conceal!
We blush, detected in designs on praise,
Though for best deeds, and from the best of men;
And why? because immortal. Art divine
Has made the body tutor to the soul;
Heaven kindly gives our blood a moral flow,
Bids it ascend the glowing cheek, and there
Upbraid that little heart's inglorious aim,
Which stoops to court a character from man; 350
While o'er us, in tremendous judgment, sit
Far more than man, with endless praise and blame.
Ambition's boundless appetite outspeaks
The verdict of its shame: When souls take fire
At. high presumptions of their own desert,
355
One age is poor applause : the mighty shout,
The thunder by the living few begun,
Jate Time must echo, worlds unborn resound.
We wish our names eternally to live ;
Wild dream ! which ne'er had haunted human thought,
Had not our natures been eternal too. 361
Instinct points out an interest in hereafter,
But our blind reason sees not where it lies.
Or, seeing, gives the substance for the shade.
Fame is the shade of Immortality,
And in itself a shadow; soon as caught.
Contemn'd, it shrinks to nothing in the grasp.
Consult the' ambitious, 'tis Ambition's cure
'And is thís all ?' cried Cæsar, at his height,
Disgusted. This thirl proof Ambition brings

Of immortality. The first in fame,
Observe him near, your envy will abate : Shamed at the disproportion vast between The passion and the purchase, he will sigh At such success, and blush at his renown. And why? because far richer prize invites His heart ; far more illustrious glory calls; It calls in whispers, yet the deafest hear.

And can Ambition a fourth proof supply ? It can, and stronger than the former three; Yet quite o'erlook'd by some reputed wise. Though disappointments in ambition pain, And though success disgusts, yet still, Lorenzo! In vain we strive to pluck it from our hearts, By Nature planted for the noblest ends.
Absurd the famed advice to Pyrrhus given, More praised than ponder'd ; specious, but unsound: Sooner that hero's sword the world had quell'd, Than reason his ambition. Man must soar ; An obstinate activity within,
An insuppressive spring, will toss him up • In spite of Fortune's load. Not kings alone, Each villager has his ambition too : No sultan prouder than his fetter'd slave. Slaves build their little Babylons of straw,
Echo the proud Assyrian in their hearts, And cry,-' Behold the wonders of my might!' And why? because immortal as their lord; And souls immortal must for ever heave At something great; the glitter or the gold; 400 The praise of mortals, or the praise of Heaven !

Nor absolutely vain is human praise,
When human is supported by divine.
I'll introduce Lorenzo to himself;
Pleasure and Pride (bad masters!) share our hearts. 405
As love of pleasure is ordain'd to guard
And feed our bodies, and extend our race;
The love of praise is planted to protect

And propagate-the glories of the mind!
What is it, but the love of praise, inspires,
Matures, refines, embellishes, exalts,
Earth's happiness? from that the delicate,
The grand, the marvellous, of civil life,
Want and convenience, under-workers, lay
The basis on which love of glory builds.
Nor is thy life, O Virtue! less in debt To praise, thy seeret stimulating friend.
Were men not proud, what merit should we miss !
Pride made the virtues of the Pagan world.
Praise is the salt that seasons right to man,
And whets his appetite for moral good.
Thirst of applause is Virtue's second guard,
Reason her first ; but Reason wants an aid ;
Our private Reason is a flatterer ;
Thirst of applause calls public judgment in
To poise our own, to keep an even scale,
And give endanger'd Virtue fairer play.
Here a fifth proof arises, stronger still.
Why this so nice construction of our hearts?
These delicate moralities of sense,
This constitutional reserve of aid
To succour Virtue when our Reason fails ;
If Virtue, kept alive by eare and toil,
And oft the mark of injuries on earth,
When labour'd to maturity (its bill
Of disciplines and pains unpaid) must die ?
Why freighted rich to dash against a rock ?
Were man to perish when most fit to live,
O how mispent were all these stratagems,
By skill divine inwoven in our frame!
Where are Heaven's holiness and mercy fled ?
Laughs Heaven, at once, at virtue and at man ?
If not, why that discouraged, this destroy'd ?-
Thus far Ambition: what says Avarice?
This her chief maxim, which lias long been thine : $44 \overline{3}$ ${ }^{6}$ The wise and wealthy are the same '-I grant it.

To store up treasure with incessant toil, This is man's province, this his highest praise : To this great end keen Instinct stiugs him on: To guide that instinct, Reason! is thy charge;
'Tis thine to tell us where true treasure lies ;
But Reason, failing to discharge her trust, Or to the deaf discharging it in vain, A blunder follows ; and blind Industry, Gall'd by the spur, but stranger to the course, 455 (The course where stakes of more than gold are won) O'erloading with the cares of distant age The jaded spirits of the present hour, Provides for an eternity below.
' Thou shalt not covet,' is a wise command, 460 But bounded to the wealth the Sun surveys. Look farther, the command stands quite reversed, And avarice is a virtue most divinc.
Is Faith a refuge for our happiness? Most sure ; and is it not for reason too? Nothing this world unriddles but the next. Whence inextinguishable thirst of gain ? From inextinguishable life in man: Man, if not meant, by worth, to reach the skies, Had wanted wing to fly so far in guilt. Sour grapes, I grant, ambition, avarice ; Yet still their root is immortality : These its wild growths, so bitter and so base, (Pain and reproach!) religion can reclaim. Refine, exalt, throw down their poisonous lee, And make them sparkle in the bowl of bliss.

See, the third witness laughs at bliss remote, And falsely promises an Eden here : Truth she shall speak for once, though prone to lie, A common cheat, and Pleasure is her name.
To Pleasure never was Lorenzo deaf;
Then liear her now, now first thy real friend.
Since Nature made us not more fond than proud Of happiaess, (whence hypocrites in joy !

Makers of mirth ! artificers of smiles!)
Why should the joy most poignant sense affords
Burn us with blushes, and rebuke our pride? -
Those heaven-born blushes tell us man descens's,
E'en in the zenith of his earthly bliss :
Should Reason take her infidel repose,
This honest instinct speaks our lineage high ;
This instinct calls on darkness to conceal
Our rapturous relation to the stalls.
Our glory covers us with noble shame,
And he that's unconfounded is unmann'd.
The man that blushes is not quite a brute.
Thus far with thee, Lorenzo! will I close,-
Pleasure is good, and man for pleasure made ;
But pleasure, full of glory as of joy ;
Pleàsure, which neither blushes nor expires.
TYre witnesses are heard, the cause is o'er ;
Let Conscience file the sentence in her court:
Dearer than deeds that half a realm convey,
Thus, seal'd by Truth, the' authentic record runs.
' Know all ; know, Infidels,-unapt to know! 505
Tis immortality your nature solves;
'Tis immortality deciphers man,
And opens all the mysteries of his make:
Without it, half his instincts are a riddle ;
Without it, all his virtues are a dream :
His very crimes attest his dignity;
His sateless thirst of pleasure, gold, and fame,
Declares him born for blessings infinite.
What less than infinite makes unabsurd
Passions, which all on earth but more inflames? 515
Fierce passions, so mismeasured to this scene,
Stretch'd out, like eagles' wings, beyond our nest,
Far, far beyond the worth of all below,
For earth too large, presage a nobler flight,
And evidence our title to the skies.'
Ye fentle theologues of calmer kind !
Whose constitution dictates to your peu,

Who, cold yourselves, think ardour comes from Hell ! Think not our passions from corruption sprung, Though to corruption now they lend their wings : 525 That is their mistress, not their mother. All (And justly) Reason deem divine: I see, I feel a grandeur in the passions too, Which speaks their high descent and glorious end ; Which speaks them rays of an eternal fire:
In Paradise itself they burn'd as strong,
Ere Adam fell; though wiser in their aim.
Like the proud Eastern, struck by Providence,
What though our passions are run mad, and stoop,
With low terrestrial appetite, to graze
On trash, on toys, dethroned from high desire ?
Yet still, through their disgrace, a feeble ray Of greatness shines, and tells us whence they fell: But these (like that fallen monarch when reclaim'd) When Reason moderates the reign aright, Shall reascend, remount their former sphere, Where once they soar'd illustrious, ere seduced, By wanton Eve's debauch, to stroll on earth, And set the sublunary world on fire.

But grant their frenzy lasts; their frenzy fails 545 To disappoint one providential end, For which Heaven blew up ardour in our hearts Were Reason silent, boundless Passion speaks
A future scene of boundless objects too, And brings glad tidings of eternal day.
Eternal day!'tis that enlightens all; And all, by that enlighten'd, proves it sure.
Consider man as an immortal being, Intelligible all, and all is great ;
A crystalline transparency prevails,
555 And strikes full lustre through the human sphere:
Cor der man as mortal, all is dark
A nd ivretched; Reason weeps at the survey.

> The learn'd Lorenzo cries, 'And let her weep; modern Reason : zncient tines were wise. 560

Authority, that venerable guide,
Stands on my part ; the famed Athenian Porch
(And who for wisdom so renown'd as they ?)
Denied this immortality to man.'
I grant it; but affirm, they proved it too.
'A riddle this ?'-Have patience ; I'll explain.
What noble vanities, what moral flights,
Glittering tirrough their romantic Wisdom's page,
Make us, at once, despise them and admire !
Fable is flat to these high-season'd sires;
They leave the' extravagance of song below.

- Flesh shall not feel, or, feeling, shall enjoy

The dagger or the rack; to them, alike
A bed of roses, or the burning bull.'
In men exploding all beyond the grave, 575
Strange doctrine this! as doctrine it was strange,
But not as prophecy ; for such it proved,
And, to their own amazement, was fulfilled:
They feign'd a firmness Christians need not feign.
The Christian truly triumph'd in the flame;
The Stoic saw, in double wonder lost,
Wonder at them, and wonder at himself,
To find the bold adventures of his thought
Not bold, and that he strove to lie in vain.
Whence, then, those thoughts? those towering thoughts, that flew 585
Such monstrous heights?-From instinct and from pride.
The glorious instinct of a deathless soul.
Confusedly conscious of her dignity,
Suggested truths they could not understand.
In Lust's dominion, and in Passion's storm,
Truth's syst em broken, scatter'd fragments lay
As light in chaos, glimmering through the gloc
Smit with the pomp of lofty sentiments,
Pleased Pride proclaim'd what Reason disbeliev
Pride, like the Delphic priestess, with a swell,
Raved nonsense, destined to be future sense,
When life inmortal, in full day should shine;

And Death's dark shadows fly the gospel-sun. They spoke what nothing but immortal souls Could speak: and thus the truth they question'd proved.
' Can, then, absurdities, as well as crimes, 'Speak man immortal?' All things speak him so. Much has been urged ; and dost thou call for more? Call, and with endless questions be distress'd, All unresolvable, if earth is all.
' Why life, a moment ? infinite, desire ? Our wish, eternity? our home, the grave? Heaven's promise dormant lies in human hope ; Who wishes life immortal proves it too. Why happiness pursued, though never found!
Man's thirst of happiness declares it is (For Nature never gravitates to nought); That thirst unquench'd, deolares It is not here. My Lucia, thy Clarissa, call to thought; Why cordial friendship rivet so deep,
As hearts to pierce at first, at parting rend, If friend and friendship vanish in an hour? Is not this torment in the mask of joy? Why by reflection marr'd the joys of sense? Why past and future preying on our hearts,
And putting all our present joys to death?
Why labours Reason? Instinct were as well ; Instinct far better : what can choose can err.
O how infallible the thoughtless brute !
'Twere well his Holiness were half as sure.
Reason with Inclination why at war ?
Why sense of guilt? why conscience up in arms?
Conscience of guilt is prophecy of pain,
And boson-counsel to decline the blow.
Reason with Inclination ne'er had jarr'd,
If nothing future paid forbearance herc.
Thus on-these, and a thousand pleas uncall'd,
All promise', some insure, a second scene;
Which, were it doubtful, would be dearer far Than all things else most certain: were it false,

What trath on earth so precious as the lie?
This world it gives us, let what will ensue
This world it gives in that high cordial, hope ;
The future of the present is the soul.
How this life groans, when sever'd from the next! 640
Poor mutilated wretch, that disbelieves !
By dark distrust his being cut in two,
In both parts perishes ; life void of joy,
Sad prelude of eternity in pain!
Couldst thou persuade me the next life could fail 645
Our ardent wishes, how should I pour out
My bleeding heart in anguish, new as deep !
Oh! with what thoughts thy hope, and my despair
Abhorr'd Annihilation! blasts the soul,
And wide extends the bounds of human woe!
650
Could I believe Lorenzo's system true, In this black channel would my ravings run :-
' Grief from the future borrow'd peace, erewhile.
The future vanish'd! and the present pain'd?
Strange import of unprecedented ill!
655
Fall how profound! like Lucifer's the fall!
Unequal fate ! his fall, without his guilt!
From where fond Hope built her pavilion high,
The gods among, hurl'd headlong, hurl'd at once
To night ! to nothing ! darker still than night! 660:
If 'twas a drean, why wake me my worst foe,
Lorenzo! boastful of the name of friend!
O for delusien! O for error still !
Could vengeance strike much stronger than to plant
A thinking being in a world like this,
Not over rich before, now beggar'd quite,
More cursed than at the fall!-The Sun goes out!
The thorns shoot up! what thorns in every thought!
Why sense of better? it imbitters worse.
Why sense ? why life? if but to sigh, then sink 670
To what I was! twice nothing! and much woe!
Woe from Heaven's bounties! woe from what was wont
To flatter most, high intellectual powers.
'Thought, virtue, knowledge! blessings, by thy scheme,

All poison'd into pains. First, knowledge, once 675 My soul's ambition, now her greatest dread. To know myself, true wisdom ?-No, to shun That shocking science, parent of Despair ! Avert thy mirror ; if I see, I die.
' Know my Creator ? climb his bless'd abode By painful speculation, pierce the vail, Dive in his nature, read his attributes, And gaze in admiration-on a foe, Obtruding life, withholding happiness ! From the full rivers that surround his throne, Not letting fall one drop of joy on man ; Man gasping for one drop, that he might cease To curse his birth, nor envy reptiles more ! Ye sable clouds ! ye darkest, shades of night! Hide him, for ever hide him, from my thought,
Once all my comfort, source and soul of joy! Now leagued with furies, and with thee,* against me.
'Know his achievements? study his renown ?
Contemplate this amazing Universe,
Dropp'd from his hand with miracles replete!
695
For what? mid miracles of nobler name,
To find one miracle of misery?
To find the being, which alone can know
And praise his works, a blemish on his praise !
Through Nature's ample range, in thought to stroll,
And start at man, the single mourner there, $\quad 701$
Breathing high hope! chain'd down to pangs and death!
' Knowing is suffering : and shall Virtue share The sigh of Knowledge ? - Virtue shares the sigh. By straining up the steep of excellent, 705 By battles fought, and from temptation won, What gains she but the pang of seeing worth, Angelic worth, soon shuffled in the dark
With every vice, and swept to brutal dust ?
Merit is madness, virtue is a crime,
A crime to reason, if it costs us pain

[^1]Unpaid: what pain, amidst a thousand more,
To think the most abandon'd, after days
Of triumph $0^{\circ}$ er their betters, find in death
As soft a pillow, nor make fouler clay!
' Duty! religion !-these, our duty done,
Inply reward. Religion is mistake.
Duty !-there's none, but to repel the cheat.
Ye cheats! away : ye daughters of my pride,
Who feign yourselves the favourites of the skies, 720
Ye towering hopes! abortive energies !
That toss and struggle in my lying breast,
'To scale the skies, and build presumptions there,
As I were heir of an eternity.
Vain, vain ambitions! trouble me no more.
Why travel far in quest of sure defeat?
As bounded as my being be my wish.
All is inverted, Wisdom is a fool.
Sense! take the rein ; blind Passion! drive us on ;
And, Ignorance! befriend us on our way ;
Ye new, but truest patrons of our peace!
Yes, give the pulse full empire ; live the brute,
Since as the brute we die: the sum of man,
Of godlike man! to revel and to rot.
' But not on equal terms with other brutes; 735
Their revels a more poignant relish yield,
And safer too ; they never poisons choose.
Instinct than Roason makes more wholesome meals,
And sends all-marring Murmur far away.
For sensual life they best philosophize,
Theirs that serene the sages sought in vain:
'Tis man alone expostulates with Heaven;
His all the power and all the cause to mourn.
Shall human eyes alone dissolve in tears?
And bleed in anguish none but human hearts?
The wide-stretch'd realn of intellectual woe,
Surpassing sensual far, is all our own.
In life so fatally distinguish'd, why
Cast in one lot, confounded, lump'd in death ?

- Ere yet in being, was mankind in guilt? 750 Why thunderd this peculiar clause against us, "All-mortal, and all-wretched !"-Have the skies Reasons of state their subjects may not scan, Nor humbly reason when they sorely sigh ?-"All-mortal and all-wretched!"-'Tis too much, 755 Unparallel'd in Nature : 'tis too much, On being unrequested at thy hands, Omnipotent! for I see nought but power.
' And why see that? why thought! To toil and eat, Then make our bed in darkness, needs no thought. 760 What superfluities are reasoning souls! Oh! give eternity, or thought destroy.
But without thought our curse were half unfelt ; Its blunted edge would spare the throbbing heart, And therefore 'tis bestow'd. I thank thee, Reason!
For aiding Life's too small calamities, $\quad 766$ And giving being to the dread of death. Such are thy bounties!-Was it then too much For me to trespass on the brutal rights? Too much for Heaven to make one emmet more? 7\%0 Too much for Chaos to permit my mass A longer stay with essences unwrought, Unfashion'd, untormented into man?
Wretched preferment to this round of pains !
Wretched capacity of frenzy, thought !
Wretched capacity of dying, life !
Life, Thought, Worth, Wisdom, all (O foul revolt!)
Once friends to peace gone over to the foe.
' Death, then, has changed its nature too. O Death !
Come to my bosom, thou best gift of Heaven! 780 Best friend of man! since man is man no more.
Why in this thorny wilderness so long, Since there 's no promised land's ambrosial bower, To pay me with its honey for my stings? If needful to the selfish schemes of Heaven
To sting us sore, why mock'd our misery ?
Why this so sumptuous insult n'er our heads :

Why this illustrious canopy display'd?
Why so magnificently lodged, Despair ?
At stated periods, sure-returning, roll
'These glorious orbs, that mortals may compute
Their length of labours and of pains, nor lose
Their misery's full measure?- Smiles with flowers
And fruits, promiscuous, ever teeming earth,
That man may languish in luxurious scenes,
795
And in an Eden mourn his wither'd joys?
Claim earth and skies man's admiration, due
For such delights? bless'd animals! too wise
To wonder, and too happy to complain!
'Our doom decreed demands a mournful scene : 800
Why not a dungeon dark for the condemn'd?
Why not the dragon's subterranean den
For man to howl in? why not his abode If the same dismal colour with his fate ?
A Thebes, a Babylon, at vast expense
Of time, toil, treasure, art, for owls and adders
As congruous as for man this lofty dome,
Which prompts proud thought, and kindles high desire lf, from her humble chamber in the dust,
While proud thought swells, and high desire inflames, The poor worm calls us for her inmates there, 811
And round us Death's inexorable hand
Draws the dark curtain close, undrawn no more.
' Undrawn no more !-behind the cloud of death,
Once, I beheld a sun ; a sun which gilt
815
That sable cloud, and turn'd it all to gold.
How the grave's alter'd! fathomless as hell!
A real hell to those who dream'd of Heaven.
Annihilation! how it yawns before me ;
Next moment I may drop from thought, from sense,
The privilege of angels and of worms,
An outcast from existence! and this spirit,
This all-pervading, this all-conscious soul,
This particle of energy divine,
Which travels Nature, flies from star to star,

And visits gods, and emulates their powers, For ever is extinguish'd. Horror ! death ! Death of that death I fearless once survey'd !When horror universal shall descend, And Heaven's dark concave urn all human race, On that enormous, unrefunding tomb, How just this verse ; this monumental sigh !'"Beneath the lumber of demolish'd worlds, Deep in the rubbish of the general wreck, Swept ignominious to the common mass Of matter, never dignified with life, Here lie proud rationals ; the sons of Heaven ! The lords of Earth ! the property of worms ! Beings of yesterday, and no to-morrow ! Who lived in terror, and in pangs expired!
All gone to rot in chaos, or to make Their happy transit into blocks or brutes, Nor longer sully their Creator's name."

Lorenzo! hear, pause, ponder, and pronounce. Just is this history? if such is man,
Mankind's historian, though divine, might weep ; And dares Lorenzo smile?-I know thee proud! For once let pride befriend thee : Pride looks pale At such a scene, and sighs for something more. Amid thy boasts, presumptions, and displays, And art thou then a shadow ? less than shade? A nothing? less than nothing? To have been, And not to be, is lower than unborn.
Art thou ambitious? why then make the worm Thine equal ?-Runs thy taste of pleasure high ? 850 Why patronize sure death of every joy ?Charm riches? why choose beggary in the grave, Of every hope a bankrupt! and for ever? Ambition, Pleasure, Avarice persuade thee To make that world of glory, rapture, wealth, They lately proved,* thy soul's supreme desire !

What art thou made of? rather, how unmade ?

* In the Sixth Night.

Great Nature's master-appetite destroy'd,
Is endless life and happiness despised?
Or both wish'd here, where neither can be found. 865
Such man's perverse eternal war with Heaven!
Darest thou persist? and is there nought on earth
But a long train of transitory forms,
Rising and breaking millions in an hour?
Bubbles of a fantastic deity, blown up
In sport, and then in cruelty destroy'd?
Oh! for what crime, unmerciful Lorenzo !
Destroys thy scheme the whole of human race?
Kind is fell Lucifer compared to thec.
Oh ! spare this waste of being half divine,
And vindicate the' economy of Heaven.
Heaven is all love ; all joy in giving joy ;
It never had created but to bless;
And shall it then strike off the list of life
A being bless'd, or worthy so iu be ?
880
Heaven starts at an annihilating God.
Is that, all Nature starts at, thy desire?
Art such a clod to wish thyself all clay?
What is that dreadful wish?-the dying groan
Of Nature, murder'd by the blackest guilt.
What deadly poison has thy nature drunk?
To Nature undebaucl'd, no shock so great.
Nature's first wish is endless happiness ;
Annihilation is an afterthought,
A monstrous wish, unborn till Virtue dies, $\quad $ 90$
And, oh! what depth of horror lies enclosed!
For nonexistence no man ever wish'd,
But first he wish'd the Deity destroy'd.
If so: what words are dark enough to draw
Thy picture true? the darkest are too fair.
Beneath what baleful planct, in what hour
Of desperation, by what fury's aid,
In what infernal posture of the soul,
All hell invited, and all hell in joy
At such a birth, a birth so near of kin,

Did thy foul fancy whelp so black a scheme
Of hopes abortive, faculties half-blown,
And deities begun, reduced to dust?

'There's nought (thou say'st) but one eternal flux Of feeble essences, tumultuous driven Say, in this rapid tide of human ruin, Is there no rock on which man's tossing thought Can rest from terror, dare his fate survey, And boldly think it something to be born?
Amid such hourly wrecks of being fair, Is there no central, all-sustaining base, All-realizing, all-connecting power, Which, as it call'd forth all things, can recal, And force Destruction to refund her spoil?
Command the grave restore her taken prey ?
Bid death's dark vale its human harvest yield? And Earth and Ocean pay their debt of man, True to the grand deposit trusted there? Is there no potentate, whose outstretch'd arm, 920 When ripening Time calls forth the' appointed hour, Mluck'd from foul Devastation's famish'd maw, Binds present, past, and future, to his throne? His throne how glorious ! thus divinely graced By germinating beings clustering round!
A garland worthy the Divinity !
A throne, by Heaven's Omnipotence in smiles, Built (like a Pharos towering in the waves) Amidst immense effusions of his love ! An ocean of communicated bliss !
An all-prolific, all-preserving God!
This were a God indeed.-And such is man, As here presumed; he rises from his fall. Think'st, thou Omnipotence a naked root, Each blossom fair of Deity destroy'd ? Nothing is dead : nay, nothing sleeps; each soul, That ever animated human clay,

Now wakes, is on the wing : and where, $O$ where Will the swarm settle?-When the trumpet's call, As sounding brass, collects us round Heaven's throng Conglobed, we bask in everlasting day,
(Paternal splendour !) and adhere for ever.
Had not the soul this outlet to the skies,
In this vast vessel of the universe
How should we gasp, as in an empty void!
945
How in the pangs of famish'd hope expire !
How bright my prospect shines! how gloomy thine !
A trembling world and a devouring God!
Earth but the shambles of Omnipotence!
Heaven's face all stain'd with causeless massacres 950
Of countless millions, born to feel the pang
Of being lost. Lorenzo! can it be ?
This bids us shudder at the thoughts of life!
Who would be born to such a phantom world,
Were nought substantial, but our misery?
Where joy (if joy) but heightens our distress
So soon to perish, and revive ne more!
The greater such a joy, the more it pains.
A world so far from great, (and yet how great
It shines to thee!) there's nothing real in it ;
960
Being, a shadow; consciousness, a dream :
A dream how dreadful! universal blank
Before it and behind! poor man, a spark
From nonexistence struck by wrath divine,
Glittering a moment, nor that moment sure,
Midst upper, nether, and surrounding night,
His sad ${ }_{3}$ sure, sudden, and eternal tomb !
Lorenzo ! dost thou feel these arguments?
Or is there nought but vengeance can be felt ?
How hast thou dared the Deity dethrone?
How dared indict him of a world like this?
If such the world, Creation was a cripe ;
For what is crime, but cause of misery ?
Retract, blasphemer ! and unriddle this,
©f endless arguments above, below, ..... 975 Without us, and within, the short resultIf man's immortal, there's a God in heaven!'
But wherefore such redundancy? such waste Of argument? one sets my soul at rest ; One obvious, and at hand, and, oh !-at heart. 980 So just the skies, Philander's life so pain'd, His heart so pure, that or succeeding scenes Have palms to give, or ne'er had he been born!
' What an old tale is this!' Lorenzo cries.-
I grant this argument is old; but truth 985
No years impair ; and had not this been true, Thou never hadst despised it for its age Truth is immortal as thy soul, and fable As fleeting as thy joys. Be wise, nor make Heaven's highest blessing vengeance. O be wise ! 990 Nor make a curse of immortality !

Say, know'st thou what it is, or what thou art? Know'st thou the' importance of a soul immoztal? Behold this midnight glory : worlds on worlds! Amazing pomp ; redouble this amaze! 995 Ten thousand add; add twice ten thousand more; Then weigh the whole ; one soul outweighs them all, And calls the' astonishing magnificence Of unintelligent creation poor.

For this, believe not me: no man believe; 1000 Trust not in words, but deeds; and deeds no less Than those of the Supreme, nor his a few . Consult them all ; consulted, all proclaim Thy soul's importance. Tremble at thyself, For whom Omnipotence has waked so long; $100 \breve{ }$ Has waked, and work'd for ages ; from the birth Of Nature to this unbelieving hour.

In this small province of his vast domain (All Nature bow while I pronounce his name!) What has God done, and not for this sole end, 1010 To rescue souls from death? The soul's high price Is writ in all the conduct of the skies

The soul's high price is the Creation's key,
Unlocks its mysteries, and naked lays The genuine cause of every deed divine :
That is the chain of ages which maintains
Their obvious correspondents, and unites
Most distant periods in one bless'd design :
That is the mighty hinge on which have turn'd
All revolutions, whether we regard
The natural, civil, or religious world ;
The former two, but servants to the third :
To that their duty done, they both expire,
Their mass new-east, forgot their deeds renown'd,
And angels ask, 'Where once they shone so fair ?'
To lift us from this abject, to sublime ;
1020
This flux, to permanent ; this darl, to dey;
This foul, to pure ; this turbid, to serene ;
This mean, to mighty !-for this glorious end
The' Almighty, rising, his long sabbath broke! 1030
'The world was made, was ruin'd, was restored;
Laws from the skies were publish'd, were repeal'd;
On earth kings, kingdoms, rose ; kings, kingdoms, fell,
I'amed sages lighted up the Pagan world ;
lrophets from Sion darted a keen glance 1035
Through distant age ; samts travel'd, martyrs bled;
By wonders sacred Nature stood control'd;
The living were translated; dead were raised;
Angels, and more than angels, came from Heaven;
And, oh! for this descended lower still:
1040
Gilt was Hell's gloom; astonish'd at his guest,
For one short moment Lucifer adored.
Lorenzo ! and wilt thou do less?-For this
That hallow'd page, fools scoff at, was inspired,
Of all these truths, thrice-venerable code !
1045
Deists! perform your quarantine; and then Fall prostrate, ere you touch it, lest you die.
Nor less intensely bent infernal powers
To mar, than those of light, this end to gain.
O what a scene is here !-Lorenzo! wake!

Rise to the thought ; exert, expand thy soul ${ }^{\text {T To }}$ Take the vast idea; it denies
All else the name of great. Two warring worlds, Not Europe against Afric! warring worlds, Of more than mortal, mounted on the wing! On ardent wings of energy and zeal, High hovering o'er this little brand of strife, This sublunary ball.-But strife, for what? In their own eause conflicting! no ; in thine, In man's. His single interest blows the flame; 1060 His the sole stake; his fate the trumpet sounds Which kindles war immortal. How it burns ! Tumultuous swarms of deities in arms; Force, force opposing, till the waves run high, And tempest Nature s universal sphore.

1065 Such opposites eternal, steadfast, stern, Such foes implacable are good and ill; Yet man, vain man, would mediate peace between them.

Think not this fiction: 'There was war in heaven.' From heaven's high crystal mountain, where it hung, The' Almighty's outstreteh'd arm took down his bow, And shot his indignation at the deep : Rethunder'd Hell, and darted all her fires.And seems the stake of little moment still! And slumbers man, who singly caused the storm? 10i5 He s'eeps.-And art thou shock'd at mysteries?
The greatest, thou. How dreadful to reflect What ardour, care, and counsel mortals cause In breasts divine! how little in their own!

Where'er I turn, how new proofs pour upon me ! How happily this wondrous view supports 1081 My former argument ! how strongly strikes Immortal life's full demonstration here ! Why this exertion? why this strange regard From Heaven's Omnipotent indulged to man ?- 1085 Because in man the glorious, dreadful power, Extremely to be pain'd, or bless'd for ever. Duration gives importance, swells the price.

An angel, if a creature of a day,
What would he be ? a trille of no weight ;
1090
Or stand or fall, no matter which, he's gone.
Because immortal, therefore is indulged
This strange regard of deities to dust.
Hence Heaven looks down on earth with all her eyes,
Hence, the soul's mighty moment in her sight; 1095
Hence, every soul has partisans above,
And every thought a critic in the skies :
Hence clay, vile clay! has angels for its guard,
And every guard a passion for his charge :
Hence, from all age, the cabinet divine
1100
Has held high counsel o'er the fate of man.
Nor have the clouds those gracious counsels hid
Angels undrew the curtain of the throne,
And Providence came forth to meet mankind :
In various modes of emphasis and awe
1105
He spoke his will, and trembling Nature heard
He spoke it loud, in thunder, and in storm :
Witness thou, Sinai! whose cloud-coverd height,
And shaken basis, own'd the present God:
Witness, ye billows! whose returning tide,
1110
Breaking the chain that fasten'd it in air,
Swept Egypt and her menaces to hell .
Witness, ye flames! the' Assyrian tyrant blew
To sevenfold rage, as impotent as strong :
And thou, Earth! witness, whose expanding jaws 1115
Closed o'er Presumption's sacrilegious sons :*
Has not each element, in turn, subscribed 'i'he soul's high price, and sworn it to the wise?
Has not flame, ocean, ether, earthquake, strove
To strike this truth through adamantine man? 1120
If not all adamant, Lorenzo ! hear ;
All is delusion ; Nature is wrapp'd up
In tenfold night, from Reason's keenest eye :
There's no consistence, meaning, plan er end.
In all beneath the sun, in all above,

* Korah, &e.
(As far as man can penetrate) or heaven
Is an immense, inestimable prize;
Or all is nothing, or that prize is all.-
And shall each toy be still a match for heaven,
And full equivalent for groans below ?
Who would not give a trifle to prevent
What he would give a thousand worlds to cure?
Lorenzo! thou last seen (if thine to see)
All Nature, and her God, (by Nature's course, And Nature's course control'd) declare for me.
The skies above proclaim ' immortal man!'
And ' man immortal!' all below resounds. The world's a system of theology,
Read by the greatest strangers to tho schools; If honest, learn'd; and sages o'er a plough.
Is not, Lorenzo! then, imposed on theo This hard alternative, or to renounce Thy reason and thy sense, or to belicre? What then is unbelief? 'tis an exploit, A strenuous cnterprise ; to gain it, man 114.5

Must burst through every bar of common sense, Of eommon shame, magnanimously wrong ; And what rewards the sturdy combatant? His prize, repentance ; infamy, his crown.

But wherefore infamy !-for want of faith
Down the steep precipica of wrong he slides;
There's nothing to support him in the right.
Faith in the future wanting is, at least
In embryo, every weakness, every guilt,
And strong temptation ripens it to birth.
If this life's gain invites him to the deed, Why not his country sold, his father slain?
'Tis virtue to pursue our good supreme,
And his supreme, his only good, is here!
Ambition, avarice, by the wise disdain'd,
Is perfect wisdom while mankind are fools, And think a turf or tombstone covers all:
These find employment, and provide for sense.

A richer pasture, and a larger range ;
And sense, by right divine, ascends the throne. 1165
When Virtue's prize and prospect are no more,
Virtue no more we think the will of Heaven.
Would Heaven quite beggar Virtue, if beloved ?
' Has Virtue charms ?'-I grant her heavenly fair ;
But if unportion'd, all will Interest wed, . 1170
Though that our admiration, this our choice.
The virtues grow on Immortality ;
That root destroy'd they wither and expire.
A Deity believed will nought avail;
Rewards and punishments make God adored, 11\%5
And hopes and fears give Conscience all her power.
As in the dying parent dies the child,
Virtue with Immortality expires.
Who tells me he denies his soul immortal,
Whate'er his boast, has told me he's a knave.
1180
His duty 'tis to love himself alone,
Nor care though mankind perish if he smiles.
Who thinks ere long the man shall wholly die
Is dead already; nought but brute survives.
And are there such? Such candidates there are
For more than death; for utter loss of being; 1186
Being, the basis of the Deity!
Ask you the cause ?-the cause they will not tell ;
Nor need they. Oh, the sorceries of sense !
They work this transformation on the soul,
1190
Dismount her like the serpent at the fall,
Dismount her from her native wing (which soar'd Erewhile ethereal heights,) and throw her down
To liek the dust, and crawl in such a thought.
Is it in words to paint you? O ye Falien! 1195
Fallen from the wings of reason and of hope !
Erect in stature, prone in appetite !
Patrons of pleasure, posting into pain!
Lovers of argument, averse to sense !
Boasters of liberty ! fast bound in chains !
Lords of the wide creation, and the shame!

More senseless than the' irrationals you scorn :
More base than those you rule ! than those you pity
Far more undone! O ye most infamous
Of beings, from superior dignity !
Deepest in woe, from means of boundless bliss!
Ye cursed by blessings infinite ! because Most highly favour'd, most profoundly lost ! Ye motley mass of contradiction strong !
And are you, too, convinced your souls fly off 1210 In exhalation soft, and die in air, From the full flood of evidence against you?
In the coarse drudgeries and sinks of sense, Your souls have quite worn out the make of Hearen, By vice new cast, and creatures of your own; 1215 But though you can deform, you can't destroy: To curse, not uncreate, is all your power.

Lorenzo! this black brotherhood renounce ; Renounce St. Evremond, and read St. Paul, Ere rapp'd by miracle, by reason wing'd, His mounting mind made long abode in Heaven. This is freethinking, unconfined to parts, To send the soul, on curious travel bent, Through all the provinces of human thought; To dart her flight through the whole sphere of man; Of this vast universe to make the tour;
In each recess of space and time at home, Familiar with their wonders; diving deep; And, like a prince of boundless interests there, Still most ambitious of the most remote ;
To look on truth unbroken and entire ;
Truth in the system, the full orb; where truths
By truths enlighten'd and sustain'd, afford An archlike strong foundation, to support The' incumbent weight of absolute complete
Conviction : here, the more we press, we stand More firm : who most examine, most believe. Parts, like half-sentences, confound ; the whole Conveys the sense, and God is understood;

Who not in fragments writes to liuman race :
Read his whole volume, sceptic! then reply.
This, this is thinking free, a thought that grasps
Beyond a grain, and looks beyond an hour.
'Turn up thine cye, survey this midaight scene;
What are earth's kingdoms to yon boundless orbs, 1245
Of human souls, one day, the destined range ?
And what yon boundless orbs to godlike man ?
Those numerous worlds that throng the firmament,
And ask more space in Heaven, can roll at large
In man's capacious thought, and still leave room 1850
For ampler orbs, for new creations there.
Can such a soul contract itself, to gripe
A point of no dimension, of no weight?
It can ; it does: the world is such a point ;
And of that point how small a part enslaves!
1255
How small a part-of nothing, shall I say ?
Why not?-Friends, our chief treasure, how they drop!
Lucia, Narcissa fair, Philander, gone !
The grave, like fabled Cerborus, has oped
A triple mouth, and in an awful voice
Loud calls my soul, and utters all I sing.
How the world falls to pieces round abuut us,
And leaves us in a ruin of our joy !
What says this transportation of my friends?
It bids me love the place where now they dwell, 120.3
And scorn this wretched spot they leave so poor.
Eternity's vast ocean lies before thee ;
There, there, Lorenzo! thy Clarissa sails.
Give thy mind sea-room ; keep it wide of earth,
That rock of souls immortal ; cut thy cord; 1970
Weigh anchor ; spread thy sails ; call every wind:
Eye thy great Pole-star ; make the land of Life '
Two kinds of life has double-natured man,
And two of death; the last far more severe.
Life animal is nurtured by the Sun,
Thrives on his bounties, triumphs in his beams :
Life rational subsists on higher foed,

Triumphant in His beams who made the day : When we leave that Sun, and are left by this (The fate of all who die in stubborn guint,) 'Tis utter darkness ; strictly double death. We sink by no judicial stroke of Heaven, But nature's course ; as sure as plummets fall. Since God or man must alter ere they meet, (Since light and darkness blend not in our sphere)' 128.5 'Tis manifest, Lorenzo, who must change.
If, then, that double death should prove thy lot, Blame not the bowels of the Deity; Man shall be bless'd, as far as man permits Not man alone, all rationals Heaven arms With an illustrious, but tremendous power, To counteract its own most gracious ends, And this of strict necessity, not choice ; That power denied, men, angels, were no more But passive engines, void of praise or blame.
A nature rational implies the power Of being bless'd or wretched, as we please ; Else idle Reason would have nought to do,
And he that would be barr'd capacity Of pain, courts incapacity of bliss.
Heavon wills our happiness, allows our doom ;
Invites us ardently, but not compels ;
Heaven but persuades, almighty man decrees.
Man is the maker of immortal fates.
Man falls by man, if finally he falls ;
1305
And fall he must, who learns from death alone The dreadful secret,-that he lives for ever.

Why this to thee ?-thee yet, perhaps, in doubt Of second life? but wherefore doubtful still ? Eternal life is Nature's ardent wish;
' Thus Infidelity' our guilt betrays.'
Nor that the sole detection! Blush, Lorenzo !
Blush for hypocrisy, if not for guilt.
The future fear'd ?-An infidel, and fear?
Fear what? a dream ? a fable ?-How thy dread, 1320
Unwilling evidence, and therefore strong,
Affords my cause an undesign'd support!
How Disbelief affirms what it denies !
' It, unawares, asserts immortal life.'-
Surprising !. Infidelity turns out
1325
A creed and a confession of our sins:
Apostates, thus, are orthodox divines.
Lorenzo ! with Lorenzo clash no more,
Nor longer a transparent vizor wear.
Think'st thou Religion only has her mask ?
1330
Our infidels are Satan's hypocrites,
Pretend the worst, and, at the bottom, fail.
When visited by thought (thought will intrude,) like him they serve, they tremble and believe.
Is there hypocrisy so foul as this?
So fatal to the welfare of the world ?
What detestation, what contempt, their due !
And, if unpaid, be thank'd for their escape,
That Christian candour they strive hard to scorn.
If not for that asyium, they might find
A hell on earth, nor scape a worse below.
With insolence and impotence of thought,
Instead of racking fancy to refute,
Reform thy manners, and the truth enjoy.-
But shall I dare confess the dire results' 1345
Can thy proud reason brook so black a brand ${ }^{\text {? }}$
From purer manners to sublimer faith,
Is Nature's unavoidable ascent.
An honest Deist, where the Gospel shines,
Matured to nobler, in the Christian ends. - 1350
When that bless'd change arrives, e'en cast aside
This song superfluous : life immortal strikes
Conviction in a flood of light divine.

A Christian dwells, like Uriel,* in the Sun; Meridian evidence puts doubt to flight, And ardent hope anticipates the skies, Of that bright Sun, Lorenzo! scale the sphere : 'Tis easy ; it invites thee ; it descends
From Heaven, to woo and waft thee whence it came. Read and revere the sacred page, a page

1360
Where triumphs immortality ; a page Which not the whole Creation could produce ; Which not the Conflagration shall destroy : 'Tis printed in the mind of gods for cver, In Nature's ruins not one letter lost.

In proud disdain of what e'en gods adore, Dost smile ?-Poor wretch ! thy guardian angel weeps. Angels and men assent to what I sing ;
Wits smile, and thank me for my midnight dream.
How vicious hearts fume frenzy to the brain! 1370 Parts push us on to pride, and pride to shame: Pert Infidelity is Wit's cockade, To grace the brazen brow that braves the skies, By loss of being dreadfully secure. Lorenzo! if thy doctrine wins the day,
And drives my dreams, defeated, from the field;
If this is all, if earth a final scene,
Take heed : stand fast; be sure to be a knave ;
A knave in grain! ne'er deviate to the right.
Shouldst thou be good-how infinite thy loss! 1380 Guilt only makes annihilation gain.
Bless'd scheme ! which life deprives of comfort, death
Of hope, and which vice only recommends.
If so, where, Infidels ! your bate thrown out To catch weak converts? where your lofty boast 1385 Of zeal for virtue, and of love to man?
Annihilation! I confess in these.
What can reclaim you? dare I hope profound
Philosophers the couverts of a song ?

* Millon's Paradise Lost

Yet know its title* flatters you, not me ;
Yours be the praise to make my title good;
Mine to bless Heaven, and triumph in your praise.
But since so pestilential your disease,
Though sovereign is the medicine I preseribe,
As yet I'll neither triumph nor despair,
1395
But hope, ere long, my midnight dream will wake
Your hearts, and teach your wisdom-to be wise:
For why should souls immortal, made for bliss,
E'er wish (and wish in vain!) that souls could die?
What ne'er can die, oh ! grant to live, and crown 1400
The wish, and aim, and labour of the skies;
Increase, and enter on the joys of Heaven:
Thus shall my title pass a sacred seal,
Receive an imprimatur from above,
While angels shout-an Infidel Reclaim'd! 140J
To close, Lorenzo! spite of all my pains,
Still seems it strange that thou shouldst live for ever?
Is it less strange that thou shouldst live at all ?
This is a miracle, and that no more.
Who gave beginning can exclude an end. 1410
Deny thou art ; then doubt if thou shalt be.
A miracle with miracles enclosed
Is man! and starts his faith at what is strange?
What less than wonders from the wonderful ?
What less than miracles from God can flow? 1415
Admit a God-that mystery supreme !
That cause uncaused! all other wonders cease :
Nothing is marvellous for him to do:
Deny him-all is mystery besides ;
Millions of mysteries ! each darker far
That that thy wisdom would, unwisely, shun.
If weak thy faith, why choose the harder side?
We nothing know but what is marvellous;
Yet what is marvellous we can't believe.
So weak our reason, and so great our God,

What most surprises in the sacred page, Or full as strange, or stranger, must be true. Faith is not reason's labour, but repose.

To faith and virtue why so backvard, man ? From hence;-the present strongly strikes us all; 1430 The future, faintly: can we, then, be men ? If men, Lorenzo ! the reverse is right.
Reason is man's peculiar ; sense the brute's. The present is the scanty realm of Sense ; The future, Reason's empire unconfined: On that expending all her godlike power, She plans, provides, expatiates, triumphs, there : There builds her blessings ! there expects her praise; And nothing asks of Fortune or of men. And what is Reason? be she thus defined; 1440 Reason is upright stature in the soul. Oh! be a man,- and strive to be a god.
' For what ?' (thou say'st) to damp the joys of life ? No ; to give heart and substance to thy joys. That tyrant, Hope, mark how she domineers ; 1445 She bids us quit realities for dreams, Safety and peace for hazard and alarm. That tyrant o'er the tyrants of the soul, She bids Ambition quit its taken prize, Spurn the luxuriant branch on which it sits, 1450 Though bearing crowns, to spring at distant game, And plunge in toils and dangers-for repose. If hope precarious, and of things, when gain'd, Of little moment and as little stay,
Can sweeten tolls and dangers into joys; 1455 What then that hope which nothing can defeat, Our leave unask'd ? rich hope of boundless bliss !
Bliss past man's power to paint it, Time's to close !
This hope is earth's most estimãole prize ; This is man's portion, while no more than man : 1460 Hope, of all passions, most befriends us here; Passions of prouder name befriends us less. Joy bas her tears, and transport has her death:

Hope, like a cordial, innocent though strong,
Man's heart, at once, inspirits and serenes, 1465
Nor makes him pay his wisciom for his joys:
Tis all our present state can safely bear,
Health to the frame! and vigour to the mind !
A joy attemper'd! a chastised delight !
Like the fair summer evening, mild and sweet! 1470
'Tis man's full cup, his paradise below !
A bless'd hereafter, then, or hoped or gain'd,
Is all,-our whole of happiness ! full proof
I chose no trivial or inglorious theme.
And know, ye foes to song ! (well meaning men, 1475
Though quite forgotten* half your Bible's praise!)
Important truths, in spite of verse, may please :
Grave minds you praise, nor can you praise too much If there is weight in an eternity,
Let the grave listen,-and be graver still. 1480

NIGHT VIII.

Virtuc's $\mathfrak{A p o l o w u : ~}$

> OR,

THE MAN OF THE WORLD ANSWERED.

IN WHICH ARE CONSIDERED,

the love of this life; the ambition and pleasure, with the wit and wisdom, OF TIIE WORLD.

Asd has all Nature, then, espoused my part?
Have I bribed Heaven and Earth to plead against thee?
And is thy soul immortal ?-What remains?
All, all, Lorenzo !-make immortal bless'd.
Unbless'd immortals !-what can shock us more ? And yet Lorenzo still affects the world; There stows his treasure ; thence his title draws, Man of the world! (for such wouldst thou be call'd) And art thou proud of that inglorious style? Yroud of reproach ? for a reproach it was, In ancient days, and Christian,-in an age When men were men, and not ashamed of Heaven,Fired their ambition, as it crown'd their joy ! Sprinkled with dews from the Castalian font, Fain would I rebaptize thee, and confer

A purer spirit, and a nobler name.

Thy fond attachments, fatal and inflamed, Point out my path, and dictate to my song. To thee the world how fair! how strongly strikes Ambition ! and gay Pleasure stronger still!
Thy triple bane! the triple bolt, that lays Thy virtue dead; be these my triple theme; Nor shall thy wit or wisdom be forgot.

Common the theme; not so the scag, if she

My song invokes, Urania! deigns to smile.
The charm that chains us to the world, her foe,
If she dissolves, the man of earth, at once,
Starts from his trance, and sighs for other scenes ;
Scenes, where these sparks of night, these stars, shall shine
Unnumber'd suns (for all things, as they are,
'The hless'd behold,) and, in one glory, pour
Their blended blaze on man's astonish'd sight ;
A blaze-the least illustrious object there.
Lorenzo! since Eternal is at hand,
To swallow Time's ambitions; as the vast
Leviathan the bubbles vain that ride
High on the foaming billow ; what avail
High titles, high descent, attainments high,
If unattain'd our highest? O Lorenzo !
What lofty thoughts, these elements above,
What towering hopes, what sallies from the Sun,
What grand surveys of destiny divine,
And pompous presage of unfathom'd fate,
Should roll in bosoms where a spirit burns,
Bound for Eternity! in bosoms read
By Him, who foibles in archangels sees !
On human hearts he bends a jealous eye,
And marks, and in Heaven's register enrols,
The rise and progress of each option there ;
Sacred to Doomsday! that the page unfolds,
And spreads us to the gaze of gods and men.
And what an option, O Lorenzo! thine!
This world ! and this, unrival'd by the skies !
A world where lust of pleasure, grandeur, gold,
Three demons that divide its realms between them, 55
With strokes alternate buffet to and fro
Man's restless heart, their sport, their flying ball;
Till, with the giddy circle sick and tired,
It pants for peace, and drops into despair.
Such is the world Lorenzo sets above
That glorious promise angels were esteem'd

VIRTUE'S APOLOGY.

Too mean to bring ; a promise their Adored Descended to communicate, and press, By counsel, miracle, life, death, on man. Such is the world Lorenzo's wisdom woos,
And on its thorny pillow seeks repose ;
A pillow which, like opiates ill prepared, Intoxicates, but not composes ; fills The visionary mind with gay chimeras, All the wild trash of sleep, without the rest: What unfeign'd travel, end what dreams of joy !

How frail men, things ! how momentary, both !
Fantastic chase, of shadows hunting shades!
The gay, the busy, equal, though unlike; Equal in wisdom, difforently wise !
Through flowery meadows, and through dreary wastes, One bustling, and one daneing, into death. There's not a day but, to the man of thought, Betrays some secret that throws new reproach On life, and makes him sick of seeing more. The scenes of business tell us-' What are men;' The scenes of pleasure-' What is all beside :' There others we despise ; and here ourselves. Amid disgust eternal dwells delight ? 'Tis approbation strikes the string of joy.

What wondrous prize has kindled this career, Stuns with the din, and chokes us with the dust, On Life's gay stage, one inch above the grave? The proud run up and down in quest of eyes ; The sensual, in pursuit of something worse ; The grave, of gold ; the politic, of power; And all, of other butterflies as vain! As eddies draw things frivolous and light, How is man's heart by vanity drawn in ! On the swift circle of returning toys Whirl'd, strawlike, round and round, and then ingulf'd, Where gay delusion darkens to despair !
' This is a beaten track.'-Is this a track Should not be beaten? never beat enough,

Till enough learn'd the truth it would inspire.
Shall Truth be silent because Folly frowns?
Turn the world's history, what find we there
But Fortune's sports, or Nature's cruel claims,
Or woman's artifice, or man's revenge,
And endless inhumanities on man?
Fame's trumpet seldom sounds but, like the knell,
It brings bad tidings : how it hourly blows
Man's misadventures round the listening world !
Man is the tale of narrative old Time:
Sad tale! Which high as Paradise begins; 110
As if, the toil of travel to dciude,
From stage to stage, in his eternal round,
The Days, his daughters, as they spin our hours
On Fortune's wheel, where accident unthought
Oft, in a moment, snaps life's strongest thread, 115
Each, in her turn, some tragic story tells
With, now and then, a wretched farce between,
And fills his chronicle with human woes.
Time's daughiers, true as those of men, deceive us;
Not one but puts some cheat on all mankind. $\quad 120$
While in their father's bosom, not yet ours,
They flatter our fond hopes, and promise much
Of amiable, but hold him not o'er wise
Who dares to trust them, and laugh round the year,
At still confiding, still confounded, man,
Confiding though confounded ; hoping on,
Untaught by trial, unconvinced by proof,
And ever looking for the never seen.
Life to the last, like harden'd felons, lies,
Nor owns itself a cheat till it expires:
Its little joys go out by one and one,
And leave poor man, at length, in perfect night,
Night darker than what now involves the pole.
O Thou, who dost permit these ills to fall
For gracious ends, and wouldst that man should mourn!
O Thou, whose hands this goodly fabric framed, 136
Who know'st it best, and wouldst that man should knew!

What is this sablunary world ? a vapour ; A vapour all it holds; itself, a vapour; From the damp bed of Chans, by the beam Exhaled, ordain'd to swim its destined hour In ambient air, then 'melt and disappear. Earth's days are number'd, nor remote her doom ; As mortal, though less transient, than her sons ; Yet they dote on her, as the world and they Were both eternal, solid; Thou a dream.

They dote, on what? immortal views apart, A region of outsides! a land of shadows! A fruitful field of flowery promises!
A wilderness of joys! perplex'd with doubts,
And sharp with thorns! a troubled ocean, spread With bold adventurers, their all on board; No second hope, if here their fortune frowns ; Frown soon it must. Of various rates they sail, Of ensigns various ; all alike in this,
All restless, anxious, toss'd with hopes and fears
In calmest skies ; obnoxious all to storm, And stormy the most general blast of life : All bound for Happiness ; yet few provide The chart of Knowledge, pointing where it hes. Or Virtue's helm, to shape the course design'd • All, more or less, capricious Fate lament, Now lifted by the tide, and now resorb'd, And farther from their wishes than before: All, more or less, against each other dash, To mutual hurt, by gusts of passion driven, And suffering more from folly than from fate.

Ocean! thou dreadful and tumultuous home Of dangers, at eternal war with man!
Death's capital, where most he domineers,
With all his chosen terrors frowning round. (Though lately foasted high at Albion's cost*) Wide opening, and loud roaring still for'more ' Too faithful mirror ! how dost thou reflect

* Admiral Balchen, &c

T'he melancholy face of human life!
The strong resemblance tempts me farther still:
And, haply, Britain niay be deeper struck
By moral truth, in such a mirror seen,
Which Nature holds for ever at her eyc.
Self-flatter'd, unexperienced, high in hope,
180
When young, with sanguine cheer and streamers gay,
We cut our cable, launch into the world,
And fondly dream each wind and star our friend;
All in some darling enterprise embark'd:
But where is he can fathom its event?
$18{ }^{\circ}$
Amid a multitude of artless hands,
Ruin's sure perquisite! her lawful prize !
Some steer aright, but the black blast blows hard,
And puffs them wide of Hope: with hearts of proof,
Full against wind and tide, some win their way, 190
And when strong Effort has deserved the port,
And tugg'd it into view, 'tis won! 'tis lost!
'Chough strong their oar, still stronger is their fate:
'l'hey strike! and, while they triumph, they expire.
In stress of weather most, some sink outright; 195
O'er them and o'er their names the billows close;
To-morrow knows not they were ever korn.
Others a short memorial leave behind,
Like a flag floating, when the bark's ingulf'd;
It floats a moment, and is seen no more.
One Cœsar lives; a thousand are forgot.
How few, beneath auspicious planets born,
(Darlings of Providence! fond Fate's elect!)
With swelling sails make good the promised port,
With all their wishes freighted! yet e'en these, 205
Freighted with all their wishes, soon complain;
Free from misfoztune, not from Nature free,
They still are men; and when is man secure?
As fatal time, as storm ! the rush of years
Beats down their strength; their numberless escapes
In ruin end. And now their proud success
But plants new terrors on the victor's brow :

VIRTUES APOLOGY.

What pain to quit the world, just made their own, Their nest so deeply down'd, and built so high ! Too low they build who build beneath the stars.

Woe then apart (if woe apart can be From mortal man,) and Fortune at our nod, The gay! rich! great! triumphant ! and august ! What are they ? -The most happy (strange to say) Convince me most of human misery.
What are they? smiling wretches of to-morrow ! More wretched, then, than e'er their slave can be, Their treacherous blessings, at the day of need, Like other faithless friends, unmask and sting :
Then what provoking indigence in wealth!
What aggravated impotence in power! High titles, then, what insult of their pain! If that sole anchor, equal to the waves, Immortal Hope! defies not the rude storm, Takes comfort from the foaming billow's rage,
And makes a welcome harkour of the tomb.
Is this a sketch of what thy soul admires? ' But here (thou sayest) the miseries of life Are huddled in a group : a more distinct Survey, perhaps, might bring thee better news.' $$ 35$ Look on life's stages ; they speak plainer still ; The plainer they, the deeper wilt thou sigh.
Look on thy lovely boy; in him behold The best that can befal the best on earth; The boy has virtue by his mother's side :
Yes, on Florello look : a father's heart Is tender, though the man's is made of stone; The truth, through such a medium seen, may make Impression deep, and fondness prove thy friend.

Florello! lately cast on this rude coast
A helpless infant, now a heedless child.
To poor Clarissa's throes thy care succeeds;
Care full of love, and yet severe as hate!
O'er thy soul's joy how of thy fondness frowns ' Needful austerities his will restrain,

As thorns fence in the tender plant from harm.
As yet, his Reason cannot go alone,
But asks a sterner nurse to lead it on.
His little heart is often terrified;
The blush of morning, in his cheek, turns pale ;
Its pearly dew-drop trembles in his eye,
His harmless eye! and drowns an angel there.
Ah! what avails his innocence? the task
Enjoin'd must discipline his early powers !
He learns to sigh, ere he is known to $\sin$;
Guiltless, and sad! a wretch before the fall!
How cruel this! more cruel to forbear.
Our nature such, with necessary pains
We purchase prospects of precarious peace :
Though not a father, this might steal a sigh.
Suppose him disciplined aright (if not,
'Twill sink our poor account to poorer still,)
Ripe from the tutor, proud of liberty,
He leaps enclosure, bounds into the world;
The world is taken, after ten years' toil,
Like ancient Troy, and all its joys his own.
Alas! the world's a tutor more severe,
Its lessons hard, and ill deserve his pains ;
Unteaching all his virtuous Nature taught,
Or books (fair Virtuc's advocates) inspired.
For who reccives him into public life?
Men of the world, the terre-filial breed,
Welcome the modest stranger to their sphere (Which glitter'd long, at distance, in his sight,)
And in their hospitable arms enclose;
Men who think nought so strong as the romance, So rank knight-errant, as a real friend ;
Men that act up to Reason's golden rule,
All weakness of affection quite subdued;
Men that would blush at being thought sincere, 285
And feign, for glory, the few faults they want;
That love a lie, where truth would pay as well,
As if, to them. Vice shown her own reward.

Lorenzo! canst thou bear a shocking sight? Such, for Florello's sake, 'twill now appear. See the steel'd files of season'd veterans, Train'd to the world, in burnish'd falsehood bright ; Deep in the fatal stratagems of peace, All soft sensation, in the throng, rubb'd off; All their keen purpose in politeness sheath'd; His friends eternal-during interest; His foes implacable-when worth their while; At war with every welfare but their own ; As wise as Lucifer, and half as good ; And by whom none, but Lucifer, can gainNaked through these, (so common Fate ordains) Naked of heart, his cruel course he runs, Stung out of all most amiable in life, Prompt truth; and open thought, and smiles unfeign'd ; Affection, as his species wide diffused, Ingenious trust, and confidence of love.

These claims to joy (if mortals joy might claim) Will cost him many a sigh, till time and pains, From the slow mistress of this school, Experience, 310 And her assistant, pausing, pale Distrust, Purchase a dear-bought clew to lead his youth Through serpentine obliquities of life, And the dark labyrinth of human hearts. And happy! if the clew shall come so cheap.
For while we learn to fence with public guilt, Full oft we feel its foul contagion too, If less than heavenly virtue is our guard. Thus a strange kind of cursed necessity Brings down the sterling temper of his soul, Below call'd Wisdom ; sinks him into safety, And brands him into credit with the world, Where specious titles dignify disgrace, And Nature's injuries are arts of life;

And heavenly talents make infernal hearts,
That unsurmountable extreme of guilt!
Poor Machiavel! who labour'd hard his plan,
Forgot that Genius need not go to school ;
Forgot that man, without a tutor wise, His plan had practised long before 'twas writ. The world's all title-page ; there's no contents.
The world's all face : the man who shows his heart Is hooted for his nudities, and scorn'd.
A man I knew, who lived upon a smile, And well it fed him; he lock'd plump and fair, While rankest venom foam'd through every vein.
(Loreuzo! what I tell thee take not ill ;)
Living, he fawn'd on every fool alive;
And, dying, cursed the friend on whom he lived.
To such proficients thou art half a saint!
In foreign realms (for thou hast travel'd far)
How curious to contemplate two state rooks,
Studious their nests to feather in a trice,
With all the necromanties of their art,
Playing the game of faces on each other,
Making court sweetmeats of their latent gall ${ }_{2}$
In foolish hope to steal each other's trust ;
Both cheating, both exulting, both deceived,
And, sometimes, both (let earth rejoice) undone!
Their parts we doubt not, but be that their shame.
Shall men of talents, fit to rule mankind,
Stoop to mean wiles that would disgrace a fool ;
And lose the thanks of those few friends they serve? 305
For who can thank the man he cannot see ?
Why so much cover? it defeats itself.
Ye that know all things! knowaye not men's hearts
Are therefore known, because they are conceald?
For why conceal'd?-the cause they need not tell. 360
I give him joy that's awkward at a lie ;
Whose feeble nature Truth keeps still in awe ;
His incapacity is his renown.
'Tis great, 'tis manly, to disdain disguise;

It shows our spirit, or it proves our strength.

Tho say'st 'tis needful ! is it therefore right ?Howe'er, l grant it some small sign of grace To strain at an excuse : and wouldst thou, then, Escape that cruel need? thou mayst with ease ; Think no post needful that demands a knave. When late our civil helm was shifting hands, So Pelham thought : think better if you can.

But this how rare! the public path of life Is dirty :-yet allow that dirt its due, It makes the noble mind more noble still. The world 's no neuter ; it will wound or sare ; Our virtue quench, or indignation fire. You say the world, well known, will make a man.The world, well known, will give our hearts to Heaven, Or make us demons, long before we die.

To show how fair the world, thy mistress, shines, Take either part ; sure ills attend the choice ; Sure, though not equal, detriment ensues. Not Virtue's self is deified on earth; Virtue has her relapses, conflicts, foes ; 385 Foes that ne'er fail to make her feel their hate. Virtue has her peculiar set of pains. True friends to virtue, last and least complain ; But if they sigh, ean others hope to smile ? If Wisdom has her miseries to mourn, How can poor Folly lead a happy life ? And if both suffer, what has earth to boast, Where he most happy who the least laments? Where much, much patience, the most envied state, And some forgiveness, needs, the best of friends? 395 For friend or hapny life, who looks not higher, Of neither shall he find the shadow here.

The world's sworn advocate, without a fee, Larenzo smartly, with a smile, replies: 'Thus far thy song is right, and all must own

If vice it is with Nature to comply :
If pride and sense are so predominant,
To check, not óvercome them, makes a saint,
405
Can Nature in a plainer voice proclaim
Pleasure and glory the chief good of man ?'
Can Pride and Sensuality rejoice?'
From purity of thought all pleasure springs,
And from an hụmble spirit all our peace.
Ambition, Pleasure! let us talk of these ;
Of these the Porch and Academy talk'd;
Of these each following age had much to say,
Yet unexhausted, still, the needful theme.
Who talks of these, to mankind all at once
He talks; for where the saint from either free?
Are these thy refuge ? $-N o$; these rush upon thee, Thy vitals seize, and, vulture like, devour :
I'll try if I can pluck thee from thy rock,
Prometheus ! from this barren ball of earth,
If Reason can unchain thee, thou art free.
And first, thy Caucasus, Ambition, calls;
Mountain of torments! eminence of woes !
Of courted woes ! and courted through mistake !
Tis not ambition charms thee ; 'tis a cheat
Will make thee start, as H- at his Moor.
Dost grasp at greatness? first know what it is.
Think'st thou thy greatness in distinction lies?
Not in the feather, wave it e'er so high,
By Fortune stuck, to mark us from the throng, 430
Is glory lodged : 'tis lodged in the reverse;
Is that which joins, in that which equals all,
The monarch and his slave,--' a deathless soul,
Unbounded prospect, and immortal kin,
A Father God, and brothers in the skies;
Elder, indeed, in time, but less remote
In excellence, perhaps, than thought by man.
Why greater what can fall than what can rise?
If still delirious, now, Lorenzo! go,
And, with thy full blown brothers of the world, 440
"Fhrow scorn around thee ; cast it on thy slaves, Thy slaves and equals. How scorn cast on them Rebounds on thee! If man is mean, as man, Art thou a god? if Fortune makes him so, Beware the consequence : a maxim that
Which draws a monstrous picture of mankind, Where, in the drapery, the man is lost ; Externals fluttering, and the soul forgot. Thy greatest glory, when disposed to boast, Boast that aloud in which thy servants share.

We wisely strip the steed we mean to buy. Judge we, in their comparisons, of men ? It nought avails thee where, but what, thou art. All the distinctions of this little life Are quite cutareous, foreign to the man.
When through Death's straits Earth's subtle serpents creep,

Which wriggle into wealth, or climb renown, As crooked Satan the forbidden tree, They leave their party-colour'd robe behind, All that now glitters, while they rear aloft
Their brazen crests, and hiss at us below. Of Fortune's fucus strip them, yet alive, Strip them of body too ; nay, closer still, Away with all but moral in their minds, And let what then remains impose their name, Pronounce them weak or worthy, great or mean How mean that snuff of glory Fortune lights, And Death puts out! Dost thou demand a test, A test, at once, infallible and short, Of real greatness? that man greatly lives, Whate'er his fate or fame, who greatly dies ; High flush'd with hope where heroes shall despair. If this a true criterion, many courts, Illustrious, might afford but few grandees.

The' Almighty, from his throne, on earth surveys
Nought greater than an honest, humble heart ; $4^{\sim}$ An humble heart, his residence! pronounced

His second seat, and rival to the skies.
The private path, the secret acts of men, If noble, far the noblest of cur lives !
How far above Lorenzo's glory sits
The' illustrions master of a name unknown?
Whose worth, unrival'd and unwitness'd, loves
Life's sacred shades, where gods converse with men,
And peace, beyond the world's conceptions, smiles ;
As thou (now dark) before we part shalt see.
But thy great soul this skulking glory scorns:
Lorenzo's sick but when Lorenzo's seen,
And when he shrugs at public business lies.
Denied the public eye, the public voice,
As if he lived on others' breath, he dies.
Fain would he make the world his pedestal,
Mankind the gazers, the sole figure he.
Knows he, that mankind praise against their will,
And mix as much detraction as they can?
Knows he, that faithless Fame her whisper has,
As well as trumpet? that his vanity
Is so much tickled, from not hearing all ?
Knows this all knower, that from itch of praise,
Or from an itch more sordid, when he shines, 500
Taking his country by five hundred cars,
Sedates at once admire him and despise,
With modest laughter lining loud applause,
Which makes the smile more mortal to his fame?
His fame which (like the mighty Cæsar) crown'd 505
With laurels, in full senate, greatly falls,
By seeming friends, that honour and destroy.
We rise in glory as we sink in pride :
Where boasting ends, there dignity begins ;
And yet, mistaken beyond all mistake,
The blind Lorenzo's proud-of being proud,
And dreams himself ascending, in his fall.
An eminence, though fancied, turns the brain;
All vice wants hellebore; but of all vice
Pride loudest calls, and for the largest bowl ;

3ccause, unilike all other vice, it fies, In fact, the point in fancy most pursued.
Who court applause oblige the world in this ;
They gratify man's passion to refuse.
Superior honour, when assumed, is lost :
521)

E'en good men turn banditti, and rejoice, Like Kouli-Kan, in plunder of the proud.

Though somewhat disconcerted, steady still To the world's cause ; with half a face of joy, Lorenzo cries,- -Be , then, Ambition cast ;
Ambition's dearcr far stands unimpeach'd, Gay Pleasure! proud Ambition is her sleve; For her he soars at great, and hazards ill; For her he fights, and bleeds, or overcomes, And paves his way, with crowns, to reach her smile. Who can resist her charms ?"-Or should? Lorenzo ! What mortal shall resist where angels yield ? Pleasure's the mistress of ethereal powers ; For her contend the rival gods above; Pleasure's the mistress of the world below, And well it is fur man that Pleasure charms, How would all stagnate but for Pleasure's ray ! How would the frozen stream of action cease! What is the pulse of this so busy world? The love of pleasure : that, through every vein, 540 Throws motion, warmth, and shuts out death from life.

Though various are the tempers of mankind,
Pleasure's gay family holds all in chains.
Some most affect the black, and some the fair ; Some honest pleasure court, and some obscene. 545 Pleasures obscene are various, as the throng Of passions that can err in human hearts Mistake their objects, or transgress their unds. Think you there's but one whoredom? whoredom a.. But when our reason licenses delight. Dost doubt, Lorenzo ?-thou shalt doubt no more. Thy father chides thy gallantries, yet hugs An ugly, common harlot in the durl ${ }_{2}$

A rank adulterer with others' gold ; And that hag, Vengeance, in a corner charms
Hatred her brother has, as well as Love,
Where horrid epicures debauch in blood.
Whate'er the motive, Pleasure is the mark :
For her the black assassin draws his sword;
For her dark statesmen trim their midnight lamp, 560 'To which no single sacrifice may fall;
For her the saint abstains, the miser starves;
The stoic proud, for Pleasure, pleasure scorn'd;
For her Affliction's daughters grief indulge,
And find, or hope, a luxury in tears;
For her guilt, shame, toil, danger, we defy,
And, with an aim voluptuous, rush on death :
Thus universal her despotic power!
And as her empire wide, her praise is just.
Patron of Pleasure! Doter on delight !
I am thy rival ; pieasure I profess ;
Pleasure the purpose of my gloomy song.
Pleasure is nought but Virtue's gayer name ;
I wrong her still, I rate her worth too low :
Virtue the root, and pleasure is the flower ;
And honest Epicurus' foes were fools.
But this sounds harsh, and gives the wise offence,
If o'erstrain'd wisdom still retains the name.
How knits Austerity her cloudy brow,
And blames, as bold and hazardous, the praise
Of pleasure, to mankind unpraised, too dear !
Ye modern stoics! hear my soft reply;
Their senses men will trust : we can't impose,
Or, if we could, is imposition right ?
Own honey sweet ; but, owning, add this sting, 58i
' When miर̀', with poison it is deadly too.'
Truth never was indebted to a lie.
Is nought but virtue to be praised as good?
Why then is health preferr'd before disease?
What Nature loves is good, without our leave ;
And where no future drawback cries, 'Beware,'

VIRTUE'S APOLOGY.

Pleasure, though not from virtue, should prevail:
'Tis balm to life, and gratitude to Heaven.
How cold our thanks for bounties unenjoy'd!
The love of pleasure is man's cldest born,
Born in his cradle, living to his tomb;
Wisdom, her younger sister, though more grave,
Was meànt to minister, and not to mar,
Imperial Pleasure, queen of human hearts.
Lorenzo ! thou, her majesty's renown'd,
Though uncoift counsel, learned in the world!
Who think'st thyself a Murray, with disdain
Mayst look on me : yet, my Demosthenes !
Canst thou plead Pleasure's cause as well as I ?
Know'st thou her nature, purpose, parentage ?
Attend my song, and thou shalt know them all;
And know thyself; and know thyself to be
(Strange truth !) the most abstemious man alive.
Tell not Calista, she will laugh thee dead,
Or send thee to her hermitage with L -.
Absurd presumption ! thou, who never knew'st
A serious thought! shalt thou dare dream of joy?
No man e'er found a happy life by chance,
Or yawn'd it into being with a wish:
Or with a snout of grovelling Appetite
E'er smelt it out, and grubb'd it from the dirt. An art it is, and must be learn'd; and learn'd With unremitting effort, or be lost,
And leaves us perfect blockheads in our bliss.
The clouds may drop d wn titles ana estates ; 620 $\mathbf{W}$ zalth may seek us; but ${ }^{\text {Wisdon must be sought; }}$ Sought before all; but (how unlike all else
We seek on earth!) 'tis never sought in vain. [see :
First, Pleasure's birth, rise, strength, and grandeur, Brought forth by Wisdom, nursed by Discipline, 625 By Patience taught, by Perseverance crown'd, She rears her head majestic ; round her throne, Erected in the bosom of the just, Each virtue, listed, forms her manly guard.

For what are virtues? (formidable name !)
What but the fountain or defence of joy ?
Why then commanded? need mankind commands,
At once to merit and to make their bliss!-
Great Legislator ! scarce so great as kind
If men are rational, and love delight,
Thy gracious law but flatters human choice :
In the transgression lies the penalty;
And they the most indulge who most obey.
Of Pleasure, next, the final cause explore ;
Its mighty purpose, its impertant end.
Not to turn human brutal, but to build
Divine on human, Pleasure came from Heaven:
In aid to Reason was the goddess sent, To call up all its strength by such a charm.
Pleasure, first, succours Virtue ; in return,
Virtue gives Pleasure an eternal reign.
What but the pleasure of food; friendship, faith,
Supports life natural, civil, and divine?
'Tis from the pleasure of repast we live;
'Tis from the pleasure of applause we please ;
'Tis from the pleasure of belief we pray
(All prayer would cease, if unbelieved the prize ;)
It serves ourselves, our species, and our God;
And to serve more is past the sphere of man.
Glide then, for ever, Pleasure's sacred stream! $65 \%$
Through Eden, as Euphrates ran, it runs,
And fosters every growth of happy life ;
Makes a new Eden where it flows,-but such
As must be lost, Lorenzo! by thy fall.
' What mean I by thy fall ?'-Thou'lt shortly see 660
While Pleasure's nature is at large display'd,
Already sung her origin and ends :
Those glorious ends by kind, or by degree,
When Pleasure violates, 'tis then a vice,
And vengeance too ; it hastens into pain.
From due refreshment life, health, reason, joy ;
From wild excess pain, grief, distraction, death;

Heaven's justice this proclaims, and that her love. What greater evil can I wish my foe, Than this full draught of pleasure from a cask
Unbroach'd by just authorily, ungaged By temperance, by reason unrefined ?
A thousand demons lurk within the lee. Heaven, others, and ourselves ! uninjured these,
Drink deep ; the deeper, then, the more divine: 675
Angels are angels from indulgence there.
'Tis unrepenting pleasure makes a god!
Dost think thyself a god from other joys?
A victim rather! shortly, sure to bleed.
The wrong must mourn. Can Heaven's appointments Can man outwit omnipotence? strike out 681 A self-wrought happiness, unmeant by Him Who made us, and the world we would enjoy? Who forms an instrument ordains from whence Its dissonance or harmony shall rise.
Heaven bid the soul this mortal frame inspire ;
Bid Virtue's ray divine inspire the soul
With unprecarious flows of vital joy ;
And without breathing man as well might hope
For life, as, without piety, for peace.
' Is virtue, then, and piety the same ?'No ; piety is more ; 'tis Virtue's source, Mother of every porth, as that of joy. Men of the world this doctrine ill digest ; They smile at piety, yet boast aloud
'Good will to men,' nor know they strive to part What Nature joins, and thus confute themselves. With piety begins all good on earth; 'Tis the first born of Rationality !
Conscience, her first law broken, wounded lies; 700 Enfeebled, lifeless, impotent to good.
A feign'd affection bounds her utmost power.
Some we can't love, but for the' Almighty's sake ;
A foe to God was ne'er true friend to man.

Some sinister intent taints all he does,
And in his kindest actions he's unkind.
On piety humanity is built,
And on humanity much happiness;
And yet still more on piety itself.
A soul in commerce with her God is heaven;
Feels not the tumults and the shocks of life,
The whirls of passions, and the strokes of heart.
A Deity believed, is joy begun:
A Deity adored, is joy advanced;
A Deity beloved, is joy matured!
Each branch of piety delight inspires;
Faith builds a bridge from this world to the next,
O'er Death's dark gulf, and all its horror hides:
Praise, the sweet exhalation of our joy,
That joy exalts, and makes it sweeter still :
Prayer ardent opens Heaven, lets down a stream
Of glory on the consecrated hour
Of man in audience with the Deity !
Who worships the great God, that instant joins
The first in heaven, and sets his foct on hell.
Lorenzo! when wast thou at church before?
Thou think'st the service long : but is it just ? -
Though just, unwelcome. Thou hadst rather tread
Unhallow'd ground : the Muse, to win thine ear,
Must take an air less solemn. She complies. 730
Good Conscience! at the sound the world retires;
Verse disaffects it, and Lorenzo smiles;
Yet has she her seraglio full of charms,
And such as age shall heighten, not impair.
Art thou dejected? is thy mind o'ercast ?
Amid her fair ones thou the fairest choose
To chase thy gloom.- Go, fix some weighty truth;
Chain down some passion; do some generous good;
Teach Ignorance to see, or Grief to smile ;
Correct thy friend ; befriend thy greatest foe ; 740
Or, with warm heart and confidence divine,

Sprag up, and lay strong hold on Him who made thee.' Thy gloom is scatter'd, sprightly spirits flow, Though wither'd is thy vine, and harp unstrung.

Dost call the bowl, the viol, and tne dance,
Loud mirth, and laughter? Wretched comforters!
Physicians ! more than half of thy disease !
Laughter, though never censured yet as sin,
(Pardon a thought that only seems severe)
Is half-immortal, is it much indulged.
By venting spleen, or dissipating thought,
It shows a scorner, or it makes a fool,
And sins; as hurting others, or ourselves. 'Tis pride, or emptiness, applies the straw That tickles little minds to mirth effuse ;
Of grief approaching the portentous sign! The house of laughter makes a house of woe
A man triumphant is a monstrous sight;
A man dejected is a sight as mean.
What cause for triumph, where such ills abound ? 760 What for dejection, where presides a Power Who call'd us into being-to be bless'd ? So grieve, as conscious grief may rise to joy So joy, as conscious joy to grief may fall. Most true, a wise man never will be sad; But neither will sonorous, bubbling mirth,
A shallow stream of happiness betray;
Too happy to be sportive, he's serene.
Yet wouldst thou laugh (but at thy own expense) This counsel strange should I presume to give- 770 'Retire, and read thy Bible, to be gay.'
There truths abound of sovereign aid to peace :
Ah! do not prize them less because inspired, As thou and thine are apt and proud to do. If not inspired, that pregnant page had stood, Time's treasure! and the wonder of the wise! Thou think'st, perhaps, thy soul alone at stake Alas !-should men mistake thee for a fool ;What man of taste for genius, wisdom truth $_{j}$

Though tender of thy fame, could interpose ? 780
Believe me, sense, here, acts a double part,
And the true critic is a Christian too.
But these, thou think'st, are gloomy paths to joy.
True joy in sunshine ne'er was found at first.
They first themselves offend who greatly please, 785
And travel only gives us sound repose.
Heaven sells all pleasure ; efiort is the price.
The joys of conquest are the joys of man ;
And Glory the victorious laurel spreads
O'er Pleasure's pure, perpetual, placid stream.
There is a time when toil must be preferr'd,
Or joy, by mistimed fondness, is undone.
A man of pleasure is a man of pains.
Thou wilt not take the trouble to be bless'd.
False joys, indeed, are born from want of thought ; 795
From thought's full bent and energy the true;
And that demands a mind in equal poise,
Remote from gloomy grief and glaring joy.
Much joy not only speaks small happiness,
But happiness that shortly must expire.
800
Can joy, unbottom'd in reflection, stand ?
And, in a tempest, can reflection live?
Can joy, like thine, secure itself an hour ?
Can joy, like thine, meet accident unshock'd ?
Or ope the door to honest Poverty ?
805
Or talk with threatening Death, and not turn pale?
In such a world, and such a nature, these
Are needful fundamentals of delight :
These fundamentals give delight indeed;
Delight pure, delicate, and durable ;
Delight unshaken, masculine, divine;
A constant and a sound, but serious joy.
Is Jcy the daughter of Severity ?
It is :-yet far my doctrine from severe.
' Rejoice for ever:' it becomes a man ;
Exalts, and sets him nearer to the gods.
' Rejoice for ever (Nature cries,) Rejoice !'

VIRTUE'S APOLOGY.

And drinks to man in her nectareous cup, Mix'd up of delicates for every sense, To the great Founder of the bounteous feast
Drinks glory, gratitude, eternal praise ;
And he that will not pledge her is a churl.
Ill firmly to support, good fully taste,
Is the whole science of felicity:
Yet, sparing, pledge ; her bowl is not the best
Mankind can boast.- A rational repast,
Exertion, vigilance, a mind in arms,
A military discipline of thought,
To foil temptation in the doubtful field,
And ever-waking ardour for the right.'
'Tis these first give, then guard a cheerful heart.
Nought, that is right, think little ; well aware
What Reason bids, God bids : by his command
How aggrandized the smallest thing we do!
Thus nothing is insipid to the wise;
835
To thee insipid all but what is mad,
Joys season'd high, and tasting strong of guilt.
' Mad! (thou reply'st, with indignation fired)
Of ancient sages proud to tread the steps, I follow Nature.'-Follow Nature still,
But look it be thine own. Is Conscience, then,
No part of Nature? is she not supreme?
Thou regicide! O raise her from the dead!
Then follow Nature, and resemble God.
When, spite of conscience, pleasure is pursued, 845
Man's nature is unnaturally pleased ;
And what's unnatural is painful too
At intervals, and must disgust e'en thee !
The fact thou know'st ; but not, perhaps, the cause.
Virtue's foundations with the world's were laid: 850
Heaven mix'd her with our make, and twisted close Her sacred interests with the strings of life:
Who breaks her awful mandate shocks himself,
His better self: and is it greater pain

Our soul should murmur, or our dust repine?
And one, in their eternal war, must bleed.
If one must suffer, which should least be spared ?
The pains of mind surpass the pains of sense:
Ask, then, the Gout, what torment is in guilt?-
The joys of cense to mental joys are mean:
Sense on the present only feeds : the soul
On past and future forages for joy :
'Tis hers, by retrospect, through time to range,
And forward Time's great sequel to survey.
Could human courts take vengeance on the mind, 865 Axes might rust, and racks and gibbets fall.
Guard then thy mind, and leave the rest to Fate!
Lorenzo! wilt thou never be a man?
The man is dead who for the body lives,
Lured by the beating of his pulse, to list
With every lust that wars against his peace,
And sets him quite at variance with himself.
Thyself first know, then love : a self there is,
Of virtue fond, that kindles at her charms:
A self there is, as fond of every vice,
While every virtue wounds it to the heart;
Humility degrades it, Justice robs,
Bless'd Bounty beggars it, fair Truth betrays,
And godlike Magnanimity destroys.
This self, when rival to the former, scorn;
When not in competition, kindly treat,
Defend it, feed it :-but when Virtue bids,
Toss it or to the fowls or to the flames.
And why? 'tis love of pleasure bids thee bleed:
Comply, or own self-love extinct, or blind.
For what is vice?-Self-love in a mistake:
A poor blind merchant buying joys too dear.
And virtue what? 'tis Self-love in her wits,
Quite skilful in the market of delight.
Self-love's good sense is love of that dread Power 890 From whom herself, and all she can enjoy.

VIRTUE'S APOLOGY.

Other self-love is but disguised self-hate, More mortal than the malice of our foes ;
A self-hate now scarce fel ${ }^{+}$, then felt full sore, When being cursed, extizction loud implored,
And every thing preferr'd to what we are.
Yet this self-love Lorenzo makes his choice, And, in this choice triumphant, boasts of joy, How is his want of happiness betray'd By disaffection to the present hour !
Imagination vanders far a-field;
The future pleases: why ? the present pains.-
' But that's a secret.-Yes, which all men know, And know from tlee, discover'd unawares. Thy ceaseless agitation restless rolls
From cheat to cheat, impatient of a pause. What is it ?--'Tis the cradle of the soul, From Instinct sent, to rock her in disease, Which her physician, Reason, will not cure. A poor expedient! yet thy best; and while
It mitigates thy pain, it owns it too.
Such are Lorenzo's wretched remedies!
The weak have remedies, the wise have joys. Superior wisdom is superior bliss.
And what sure mark distinguishes the wise ?
Consistent Wisdom ever wills the same ;
Thy fickle wish is ever on the wing.
Sick of herself is Folly's character, As Wisdom's is a modest self-applause. A change of evils is thy good supreme,
Nor but in motion canst thou find thy rest. Man's greatest strength is shown in standing still. The first sure symptom of a mind in health Is rest of heart, and pleasure felt at home. False Pleasure from abroad her joys imports ;
Rich from within, and self-sustain'd, the true.
The true is fix'd and solid as a rock;
Slippery the false, and tossing, as the wave.
This a wild wanderer on earth, like Cain;

That like the fabled, self-enamour'd boy,
Home contemplation her supreme delight:
She dreads an interruption from without,
Smit with her own condition, and the more
Intense she gazes, still it charms the more.
No man is happy till he thinks on earth 935
There breathes not a more happy than himself:
Then envy dies, and love o'erflows on all;
And love o'erflowing makes an angel here.
Such angels all, entitled to repose
939
On Him who governs fate. Though tempest frowns,
Though Nature shakes, how soft to lean on Heaven!
To lean on Him on whom archangels lean!
With inward eyes, and silent as the grave,
They stand collecting every beam of thought,
Till their hearts kindle with divine delight;
945
For all their thoughts, like angels, seen of old
In Israel's dream, come from, and go to heaven;
Hence are they studious of sequester'd scenes,
While noise and dissipation comfort thee.
Were all men happy, revellings would cease, 950
That opiate for inquietude within.
Lorenzo! never man was truly bless'd,
But it composed and gave him such a cast,
As Folly might mistake for want of joy:
A cast, unlike the triumph of the proud;
A modest aspect, and a smile at heart.
O for a joy from thy Plilander's spring !
A spring perennial, rising in the breast,
And permanent as pure! no turbid stream Of rapturous exultation, swelling high,
Which, like land-floods, impetuous pour a while,
Then sink at once, and leave us in the mire.
What does the man who transient joy prefers?
What, but prefer the bubbles to the stream ?
Vain are all sudden sallies of delight,
Convulsions of a weak distemper'd joy.
Joy's a fix'd state ; a telour, not a start.

Virtues apology.

Bliss there is none but unprecarious bliss:
That is the gem : sell all, and purchase that.
Why go a-begging to contingencies,
Not gain'd with ease, nor safely loved, if gain'd ?
At good fortuitous draw back, and pause ;
Suspect it ; what thou canst ensure, enjoy ;
And neught, but what thou givest thyself, is sure.
Reason perpetuates joy that Reason gives,
975
And makes it as immortal as herself:
To mortals, nought immortal, but their worth.
Worth, conscious Worth! should absolutely reign,
And other joys ask leave for their approach, Nor, unexamined, ever leave obtain.
Thou art all anarchy ; a mob of joys
Wage war, and perish in intestine broils;
Nor the least promise of internal peace !
No bosom-comfort ! or unborrow'd bliss !
Thy thoughts are vagabonds; all outward-bound, 985
Mid sands, and rocks, and storms, to cruise for pleasure;
If gain'd, dear-bought ; and better miss'd than gain'd.
Much pain must expiate what much pain procured,
Fancy and Sense, from an infected shore,
Thy cargo bring, and pestilence the prize,
900
Then such thy thirst, (insatiable thirst,
By fond indulgence but inflamed the more)
Fancy still cruises, when poor Sense is tired.
Imagination is the Paphian shop
Where feeble Happiness, like Vulcan, lame,
Bids foul ideas, in their dark recess,
And hot as hell (which kindled the black fires)
With wanton art, those fatal arrows form,
Which murder all thy time, health, wealth, and fame.
Wouldst thou receive them, other thoughts there are
On angel-wing, descending from above;
1001
Which these, with art divine, would counter-work,
And form celestial armour for thy peace.
In this is seen Imagination's guilt;

But who can count her follies? she betrays thee, $100{ }^{\circ}$ To think in grandeur there is something great. For works of curious art, and ancient fame,
Thy genius hungers, elegantly pain'd, And foreign climes must cater for thy taste.
Hence, what disaster!-Though the price was paid,
That persecuting priest, the Turk of Rome, 1011
Whose foot, (ye gods !) theugh cloven, must be kiss'd,
Detain'd thy dinner on the Latian shore ; (Such is the fate of honest Protestants!)
And poor Magnificence is starved to death.
Hence just resentment, indignation, ire !-
Be pacified; if outward things are great,
'Tis magnanimity great things to scorn;
Pompous expenses, and parades august,
And courts, that insalubrious soil to peace. 1020
True happiness ne'er enter'd at an eye ;
True happiness resides in things unseen.
No smiles of Fortune ever bless'd the bad,
Nor can her frowns rob Innocence of joys ;
That jewel wanting, triple crowns are poor :
So tell his Holiness, and be revenged.
Pleasure, we both agree, is man's chie? good;
Our only contest, what deserves the name.
Give Pleasure's namo to nought but what has pass'd The' authentic seal of Reason (which, like Yorke, 1030 Demurs on what it passes) and defies
The tooth of Time; when pass'd, a pleasure still ;
Dearer on trial, lovelier for its age,
And doubly to be prized, as it promotes
Our future, while it forms our present jey.
1035
Some joys the future overcast, and some
Throw all their beams that way, and gild the tomb.
Some joys endear eternity; some give
Abhorr'd Annihilation dreadful charms.
Are rival joys contending for thy choice?
Consult thy whole existence, and be safe ;

That oracle will put all doubt to flight. whort is the lesson, though my lecture long ;
'Be good'-and let Heaven answer for the rest!
Yet, with a sigh o'er all mankind, I grant,
1045
In this our day of proof, our land of hope,
The good man has his clouds that intervene ;
Clouds that obscure his sublunary day,
But never conquer : e'en the best must own, Patience and Resignation are the pillars 1050
Of human peace on earth: the pillars these,
But those of Seth not more remote from thee,
Till this heroic lesson thou hast learn'd,
To frown at pleasure, and to smile in pain.
Fired at the prospect of unclouded bliss,
1055
Heaven in reversion, like the Sun, as yet
Beneath the horizon, cheers us in this world;
It sheds, on souls susceptible of light,
The glorious dawn of our eternal day.
'This (says Lorenzo) is the fair harangue! 1060
But can harangues blow back strong Nature's stream, Or stem the tide Heaven pushes through our veins,
Which sweers away man'a impotent resolves, And lays his labour level with the world?'

Themselves men make their clament on mankind, And think nought is, but what they find at home : 1006 Thus weakness to chimera turns the truth.
Nothing romantic has the Muse prescribed. Above, ${ }^{*}$ Lorenzo saw the man of earth,
The mortal man, and wretched was the sight. 1070 'To balance that, to comfort and exalt, Now see the man immortal : him, I nean, Who lives as such ; whose heart, full bent on Heaven, Leans all that way, his bias to the stars. The world's dark shades, in contrast set, shall raise His lustre more ; though bright, without a foil : 10.0 Observe his awful portrait, and admire ; Nor stop at wonder ; imitate, and live.

* In a former Night.

Some angel guide my pencil, while I draw, What nothing less than angel can exceed,
A man on earth devoted to the skies ;
Like ships in seas, while in, above the world
With aspect mild, and elevated eye,
Behold him seated on a mount serene,
Above the fogs of Sense, and Passion's storm ; 1055
All the black cares and tumults of this life,
Like harmless thunders, breaking at his feet,
Excito his pity, not impair his peace.
Earth's genuine sons, the sceptred and the slave
A mingled mob! a wandering herd! he sees, 1001
Bewilder'd in the vale; in all unlike!
His full reverse in all! what higher praise?
What stronger demonstration of the right?
The present ail their care, the future his.
When public welfare calls, or private want,
They give to Fame; his bounty he conceals.
Their virtues varnish Nature, his exalt.
Mankind's esteem they court, and he his own.
Theirs the wild chase of false felicities;
His, the composed possession of the true.
1100
Alike throughout is his consistent peace,
All of one colour, and an even thread;
While party-colour'd shreds of happiness,
With hideous gaps between, patch up for them
A madman's rowe ; each puff of Fortune blows 1105
The tatters by, and shows their nakedness.
He sees with other eyes than theirs: where they
Behold a sun, he spies a Deity.
What makes them only smile, makes him adore.
Where they see mountains, he but atoms sees.
1110
An empire, in his balance, weighs a grain.
They things terrestrial worship as divine;
His hopes, immortal, blow them by as dust
That dims his sight, and shortens his survey,
Which longs, in infinite, to lose all bound.
Titles and honours (if tliey prove his fate)

Me lays aside to find his dignity ;
No dignity they find in aught besides.
They triumph in externals, (which conceal Man's real glory) proud of an eclipse: 1120 Hinself too much he prizes to be proud, And nothing thinks so great in man, as man. 'Foo dear he holds his interest to neglect Another's welfare, or his right invads Their interest, like a lior lives on prey. 1125
They kindle at the shadow of a wrong ; Wrong he suatains with temper, looks on Hezven, Nor stoops to think his injurer his foe: Nought but what wounds his virtue wounds his peace A cover'd heart their character defends ;
A cover'd heart denies him half his prais With nakedness his innocence agrees, While their broad foliage testifie their fall. Their no joys end where his full feast begins ; Ilis joys create, theirs murder, future bliss.
To triumph in existence his alone ;
And his alone triumphantly to think
His true existence is not yet begun.
His glorious course was, yesterday, complete ;
Death then was welcome ; yet life still is sweet. 1140
But nothing charms Lorenzo like the firm
Undaunted breast.-And whoso is that high praise?
They yield to pleasure, though they danger brave,
And show no fortitude but in the field;
If there they show it, 'tis for glory shown;
Nor will that cordial always man their hearts.
A cordial his sustains, that cannot fail :
By pleasure unsubdued, unbroke by pain,
He shares in that Omnipotence he trusts;
All bearing, ail attempting, till he fall;
1150.

And when he falis, writes Iici on his shield.
From magnanimity all fear above;
From nobler recompense above applause, Which owes to man's short outlook all its charms.

Backward to credit what he never felt,  1155

Lorenzo cries,-'Where shines this miracie?
From what root rises this immortal man ?'-
A root that grows not in Lorenzo's ground: The root dissect, nor wonder at the flower.

He follows Nature (not like thee)* and shows us
An uninverted system of a man.
1161
His appente wears Reason's golden chain,
And finds, in due restraint, its luxury.
His passion, like an eagle well reclaim'd,
Is taught to fly at nought but infinite.
1165
Patient his hope, unanxious is his care,
His caution fearless, and his grief (if grief
Tho gods ordain) a strange: to despair.
And why?-because afiection, more than meet,
His wisdom leaves not disengaged from Heaven. 11\%0
Those secondary goods that smile on earth,
He, loving in proportion, loves in peace.
They most the world enjoy who least admire.
His understanding scapes the common cloud
Of fumes arising from the boiling breast.
1175
His head is clear, because his heart is cool,
By worldly competitions uninflamed.
The moderate movements of his soul admit
Distinct ideas, and matured aebate,
An eye impartial, and an even scale ; 1180
Whence judgment sound and unrepenting choice.
Thus, in a double sense, the good are wise ;
On its own dunghill wiser than the world.
What, then, the world ? it must be doubly weak.
Strange truth! as soon would they believe their creed.
Yet thus it is, nor otherwise can be, 1186
So far from aught romantic what I sing ;
Bliss has no being, Virtue has no strength,
But from the prospect of immortal life.
Who think earth all, or (what weighs just the same)
Who care no farther, must prize what it yields, 1191

* See page 193, line 21.

Fond of its fancies, proud of its parades.
Who thinks earth nothing can't its charms admire ;
He can't 1 foe, though most malignant, hate,
Because chat hate would prove his greater foe. 1195
${ }^{3} T$ is hard for them (yet who so loudly boast Good will to men ?) to love their dearest friend; For may not he invade their good supreme, Where the least jealousy turns love to gall ? All slines to them, that for a season shines: 1200 Eachact, each thought he questions; 'What its weight, Its colour what, a thousand ages hence ?'And what it there appears, he deens it now ; Hence pure are the recesses of his soul. The godlike man has nothing to conceal ;
His tirtue, constitutionally deep,
Has Habit's firmness, and Affection's flame : Angels, allied, descend to feed the fire,
And Death, which others slays, makes him a god.
And now, Lorenzo ! bigot of this world!
Wont to disdain poor bigots, caught by Heaven !
Stand by thy scorn, and be reduced to nought!
For what art thou? -Thou boaster! while thy glare, Thy gaudy grandeur, and mere worldly worth, Like a broad mist, at distance, strikes us most, 1215 And, like a mist, is nothing when at hand; His merit, like a mountain, on approach, Swells more, and rises nearer to the skies ; By promise now, and by possession, soon (Too soon, too much, it cannot be) his own.

From this thy just annihilation rise, Lorenzo! rise to something, by reply. The world, thy client, listens and expects, And longs to crown thee with immortal praise. Canst thou be silent? no ; for wit is thine, And Wit talks most when least she has to say,
And Reason interrupts not her career. She 'll say-that mists above the mountains rise, And with a thousand pleasantries amuse;

She 'll sparkle, puzzle, flutter, raiso a dust, 1230
And fly conviction in the dust she raised.
Wit, how delicious to man's dainty taste!
'Tis precious as the vehicle of sense,
But, as its substitute, a dire disease.
Pernicious talent! flatter'd by the world, 1233
By the blind world, which thinks the talent rare,
Wisdom is rare, Lorenzo ! wit abounds ;
Passion can give it ; sometimes wine inspires
The lucky flash; and madness rarely fails.
Whatever cause the spirit strongly stirs
Confers the bays, and rivals thy renown.
For thy renown 'twere well was this the worst;
Chance often hits it ; and, to pique thee more,
See Dulness, blundering on vivacities,
Shakes her sage head at the calamity
Which has exposed, and let her down to thee.
But Wisdom, awful Wisdom! which inspects,
Discerns, compares, weighs, separate infers,
Scizes the right, and holds it to the last,
How rare ! in senates, synods, sought in vain; 1250
Or if there found, 'tis sacred to the few ;
While a lewd prostitute to multitudes,
Frequent, as fatal, Wit. In civil life
Wit makes an enterpriser, Sense a man.
Wit hates authority, commotion loves,
Aind thinks herself the fightning of the storm.
In states 'tis dangerous; in religion, death.
Shall Wit turn Christian when the dull believe?
Sense is our helmet, Wit is but the plume ;
The plume exposes, 'tis our helmet saves.
Sense is the diamond, weighty, solid, sound;
When cut by Wit it casts a brighter beam;
Yet Wit apart, it is a diamond still.
Wit, widow'd of good sense, is worse than nought ;
It hoists more sail to run against a rock.
1365
Thus a half Chesterfield is quite a fool,
Whom dull fools scora and bless their want of wit.

How ruinous the rock I warn thee shun, Where sirens sit, to sing thee to thy fate! A joy in which our reason bears no part, Is but a sorrow, tickling ere it stings. Let not the cooings of the world allure thee ; Which of her lovers ever found her true? Happy! of this bad world who little know :And yet, we much must know her, to be safe. To know the world, not love her, is thy point; She gives but little, nor that little long.
There is, I grant, a triumph of the pulse,
A dance of spirits, a mere froth of joy,
Our thoughtless agitation's idle child,
That mantles high, that sparkles, and expires, Leaving the soul more vapid than before;
An animal ovation! such as holds
No commerce with our reason, but subsists
On juices, through the well toned tubes, well strain'd; A nice machine! scarce ever tuned aright ;

Art thou yet dull enough despair to dread, And startle at destruction? if thou art, Accept a buckler, take it to the field; (A field of battle is this mortal life !) When danger threatens, lay it on thy heart, A single sentence proof against the world. 'Soul, body, fortune ; every good pertains To one of these ; but prize not all alike ; The goods of fortune to thy body's health, . Body to soul, and soul submit to God.'
Wouldst thou build lasting happiness? do this:
The' inverted pyramid can never stand.
Is this truth doubtful? it cutshines the Sun ;
Nay, the Sun shines not but to show us this,
The single lesson of mankind on earth:

And yet-yot what? No news! mankind is mad;
Such mighty numbers list against the right,
(And what can't numbers, when bewitch'd, achieve !)
They talk themselves to something like belief
That all earth's joys are theirs ; as Athens' fool 1310
Grinn drom the port, on every sail his own.
They grin, but wherefore ? and how long the laugh?
Half ignorance their mirth, and half a lie.
'Po cheat the world, and cheat themselves, they smile :
Hard either task! the most abandou'd own
1315
That others, if abandon'd, are undone:
Then for themselves, the moment Reason wakes,
(And Providence denies it long repose)
O how laborious is their gaiety !
They scarce can swallow their ebullient spleen, 1320
Scarce muster pationce to support the farco,
And pump sad laughter till the curtain falls.
Scarce did I say? some cannot sit it out ;
Oft their own daring hands the curtain draw,
And show us what their joy by their despair.
1325
The clotted hair! gored breast ! blaspheming eye!
Its impious fury still alive in death !
Shut, shut the shocking scene.-But Heaven denies
A cover to such guilt, and so should man.
Look round, Lorenzo! see the reeking blade, 1330
The' envenom'd phial, and the fatal ball;
The strangling cord, and suffocating stream;
The loathsome rottenness, and foul decays,
From raging riot, (slower suicides !)
And pride in these, more execrable still!
How horrid all to thought !-but horrors, these,
That vouch the truth, and aid my feeble song.
From vice, sense, fancy, no man can be bless'd .
Bliss is too great to lodge within an hour :
When an immortal being aims at bliss,
Duration is essential to the name.
O for a joy from reason ! joy from that
Which makes man man, and, exercised aright,

VIRTUE'S APOLOGY.

Will make him more: a bounteous joy! that gives And promises; that weaves, with art divine, 1343 The richest prospect into present peace:
A joy ambitious ! joy in common held
With thrones ethereal, and their greater far :
A joy high-privileged from chance, time, death !
A joy which death shall double, judgment crown !
Crown'd higher, and still higher, at each stage, 1351
'Through bless'd Eternity's long day, yet still
Not more remote from sorrow than from him,
Whose lavish hand, whose love stupendous, pours
So much of Deity on guilty dust.
1355
There, O my Lucia! may I meet thee there,
Where not thy presence can improve my bliss !
Affects not this the sages of the world?
Can nought affect them, but what fools them too?
Eternity, depending on an hour,
1360
Makes serious thought man's wisdom, joy, and praise. Nor need you blush (though sonetimes your designs May shun the light) at your designs on Heaven ; Sole point! where overbashful is your blame. Are you not wise?-you know you are : yet hear 1365 One truth, amid your numerous schemes mislaid, Or overlook'd, or thrown aside, if seen;
' Our schemes to plan by this world, of the next, Is the sole difference between wise and fool.'
All worthy men will weigh you in this scale: 1370
What wonder then, if they pronounce you light?
Is their esteem alone not worth your care?
Accept my simple scheme of common sense, Thus save your fame, and make two worlds your own.

The world replies not -but the world persists, 1375
And puts the cause off to the longest day,
Planning evasions for the day of doom :
So far, at that rehearing, from redress,
They then turn witnesses against themselves.
Hear that, Lorenzo! nor be wise to-morrow.
1380
Haste, haste! a man, by nature, is in haste;

For who shall answer for another hour?
'Tis highly prudent to make one sure friend,
And that thou canst not do, this side the skies.
Ye sons of Earth! (nor willing to be more!) 1385
Since verse you think from priestcraft somewhat free,
Thus, in an age so gay, the Muse plain truths
(Truths which, at ehurch, you might have heard in prose)
Has ventured into light, well pleased the verse
Should be forgot, if you the truths retain,
1390
And crown her with your welfare, not your praise.
But praise she need not fear: I see my fate,
And headlong leap, like Curtius, down the gulf.
Since many an ample volume, mighty tome,
Must die, and die unwept ; O thou minute
1395
Devoted page! go forth among thy foes;
Go, nobly proud of martyrdom for truth,
And die a double death : mankind, incensed,
Denies thee long to live; nor shalt thou rest
When thou art dead ; in Stygian shades arraign'd
By Lucifer, as traitor to his throne,
And bold blasphemer of his friend,-the World!
The world, whose legions cost him slender pay,
And volunteers around his banner swarm;
Prudent, as Prussia in her zeal for Gaul.
1405
'Are all, then, fools?' Lorenzo cries.-Yes, all
But such as hold this doctrine (new to thee,)
' The mother of true wisdom is the will:'
The noblest intellect, a fool without it.
World-wisdom much has done, and more may do, 1410
In arts and sciences, in wars and peace ;
But art and science, like thy wealth, will leave thee,
And make thee twice a beggar at thy death.
This is the most indulgence can afford,-
'Thy wisdom all can do but-make thee wise.' 1415
or think this censure is severe on thee :
Satan, thy master, I dare call a dunce.

THE CONSOLATION.

NIGHT IX.

CONTAINING, AMONG OTHER THINGS,
I. A KORAL SURVEY OF THE NOCTURNAL HEAVENS.
II. A NIGHT ADDRESS TO THE DEITY.

HUMBLY INSCRIBED
TO HIS GRACE THE DUKE OF NEWCAS'TLE.
-Fatis contraria fata rependens. Virg.

As when a traveller, a long day pass'd
In painful search of what he cannot find,
At night's approach, content with the next cot,
There ruminates a while his labour lost ;
Then, cheers his heart with what his fate affords, 5
And chants his sonnet to deceive the time,
Till the due season calls him to repose;
Thus I, long travel'd in the ways of men,
And dancing, with the rest, the giddy maze,
Where Disappointment smiles at Hope's career,
Warn'd by the languor of life's evening ray,
At length have housed me in an humble shed,
Where, future wandering banish'd from my thought,
And waiting, patient, the sweet hour of rest,
I chase the moments with a serious song.
Song sooths our pains, and age has pains to sooth.
When age, care, crime, and friends embraced at heart,
'Torn from my bleeding breast, and death's dark shade, Which hovers o'er me, quench the' etherial fire, Canst thou, O Night! indulge one labour more?20

One labour more indulge ! then sleep, my strain !
Till, haply, waked by Raphael's golden lyre,
Where night, death, age, care, crime, and sorrow cease,
To bear a part in everlasting lays;
Though far, far higher set ; in aim, I trust,
Symphonious to this humble prelude here.
Has not the Muse assented pleasures pure,
Like those above, exploding other joys?
Weigh what was urged, Lorenzo ; fairly weigh,
And tell me, hast thou cause to triumph still?
I think thou wilt forbear a boast so bold :
But if, beneath the favour of mistake,
Thy smile's sincere ; not more sincere can be
Lorenzo's smile, than my compassion for him.
The sick in body call for aid ; the sick
in mind are covetous of more disease ;
And, when at worst, they dream themselves quite well. To know ourselves diseased is half our cure. When Nature's blush by custom is wiped off, And Conscience, deaden'd by repeated strokes, 40 Has into manners naturalized our crimes, The curse of curses is our curse to love ; To triumph in the blackness of our guilt (As Indians glory in the deepest jet,)

And throw aside our senses with our peace.

But, grant no guilt, no shame, no least alloy ;
Grant joy and glory quite unsullied shone ;
Yet, still, it ili deserves Lorenzo's heart.
No joy, no glory glitters in thy sight,
But, through the thin partition of an hour,
I see its sables wove by Destiny ;
And that in sorrow buried, this in shame;
While howling furies ring the doleful knell,
And Conscience, now so soft thou scarce canst hear
Her whisper, echoes her eternal peal.

Where the prime actors of the last year's scene; Their port so proud, their buskin, and their plume ? How many sleep, who kept the world awake With lustre and with noise ! Has Death proclaim'd A truce, and hung his sated lance on high ?
'Tis brandish'd still, nor shall the present year Be more tenacious of her human leaf, Or spread, of feeble life, a thinner fall.
Put needless monuments to wake the thought ; Life's gayest scenes speak man's mortality, Though in a style more florid, full as plain As mausoleums, pyramids, and tombs.
What are our noblest ornaments, but Deaths Turn'd flatterers of Life, in paint or marble, The well stain'd canvass, or the featured stone ?
Our fathers grace, or rather haunt, the scene: Joy peoples her pavilion from the dead.
' Profess'd diversions ! cannot these escape ?' Far from it: these present us with a shroud, And talk of death, like garlands o'er a grave.
As some bold plunderers for buried wealth, We ransack tombs for pastime ; from' the dust Call up the sleeping hero; bid him tread The scene for our amusement. How like gods We sit ; and, wrapp'd in immortality,
Shed generous tears on wretches born to die ; Their fate deploring, to forget our own!

What all the pomps and triumphs of our lives But legacies in blossom ? Our lean soil, suxuriant grown, and rank in vanities, 85 From friends interr'd beneath, a rich manure? Like other worms, we banquet on the dead; Like other worms, shall we crawl on, nor know Our present frailties, or approaching fate?

Lorenzo! such the glories of the world!
What is the world itself? thy world ?-a grave. Where is the dust that has not been alive? The spade, the plough disturb our ancestors.

From human mould we reap our daily bread.
The globe around earth's hollow surface shakes, 25
And is the ceiling of her sleeping sons.
O'er devastation we blind revels keep :
Whole buried towns support the dancer's heel.
The moist of human frame the Sun exhales;
Winds scatter, through the inighty void, the dry :
Earth repossesses part of what she gave,
And the freed spirit mounts on wings of fire :
Each element partakes our scatter'd spoils,
As Nature wide our ruins spread. Man's death
Inhabits all things, but the thought of man.
Nor man alone ; his breathing bust expires;
His tomb is mortal ; empires die : where, now,
The Roman? Greek ? they stalk, an empty name !
Yet few regard them in this useful light,
Though half our learning is their epitaph.
When down thy vale, unlock'd by midnight thought,
That loves to wander in thy sunless realms,
O Death! I stretch my view, what visions rise !
What triumphs! toils imperial! arts divine!
In wither'd laurels glide before my sight !
What lengths of far famed ages, billowed high
With human agitadon, roll along
In unsubstantial images of air !
The melancholy ghosts of dead Renown,
Whispering faint echoes of the world's applause, 120
With penitential aspect, as they pass,
All point at earth, and hiss at human pride ;
The wisdon of the wise, and prancings of the great.
But, O Lorenzo! far the rest above,
Of ghastly nature, and enormous size, 125
One form assaults my sight, and chills my blood,
And slakes my frame. Of one departed World
I see the mighty shadow : oozy wreath
And dismal sea-weed crown her : o'er her urn
Reclined, she weeps her desolated realms,
And bloated sons ; and, weeping, prophesies

Another's dissolution, soon, in flames:
But, like Cassandra, prophesies in vain : In vain to many; not, I trust, to thee.

For, know'st thou not, or art thou loath to know, The great decree, the counsel of the skies?
Deluge and Conflagration, dreadful powers !
Prime ministers of vengeance! chain'd in caves Distinct, apart, the giant furies roar ; Apart, or such their horrid rage for ruin,
In mutual conflict would they rise, and wage
Eternal war, till one was quite devour'd.
But not for this ordain'd their boundless rag ${ }^{3}$
When Heaven's inferior instruments of wrą:-,
War, famine, pestilence, are 'yund too weak
To scourge a world for her e sormous crimes, These are let loose alternate : down they rush, Swift and tempestuous, from the' eternal throne, With irresistible commission arm'd, The world, in vain corrected, to destroy;
And ease Creation of the shocking scene.
Seest thou, Lorenzo! what depends on man?
The fate of Nature, as for man her birth.
Earth's actors change Earth's transitory scenes, And make Creation groan with -human guilt. How must it groan, in a new deluge whelm'd, But not of waters! At the destined hour, By the loud trumpet summon'd to the charge, See all the formidable sons of fire, Eruptions, earthquakes, cornets, lightnings, play 160 Their various engines : all at once disgorge Their blazing magazines; and take, by storm, 'This poor terrestrial citadel of man.

Amazing period! when each mountain height Outburns Vesuvius; rocks eternal pour 'Their melted mass, as rivers once they pour'd; Stars rush, and final Ruin fiercely drives Her ploughshare o'er Creation !-while aloft, More than astonishment : if more can be '

Far other firmment than e'er was seen,
170
Than e'er was thought by man! far other stars!
Stars animate, that govern these of fire;
Far other sun!-a Sun, O how unlike
The Babe at Bethlehem! how unlike the Man
That groan'd on Calvary !-yet He it is;
175
That Man of sorrows! O how changed! what pomp
In grandeur terrible all Heaven descends !
And gods, ambitious, triumph in his train.
A swift archangel, with his golden wing,
As blots and clouds that darken and disgrace
180
The scene divine, sweeps stars and suns aside.
And now, all dross removed, Heaven's own pure day,
Full on the confines of our ether flames,
While (dreadful contrast !) far, how far beneath !
Hell, bursting, belches forth her blazing seas
185
And storms sulphureous; her voracious jaws
Expanding wide, and roaring for her prey.
Lorenzo! welcome to this scene ; the last
In Nature's course, the first in Wisdom's thought.
This strikes, if aught can strike thee; this awakes 190
The most supine; this snatches man from death.
Rouse, rouse, Lorenzo ' then, and follow me,
Where truth, the most momentous man can hear,
Loud calls my soul, and ardour wings her flight.
I find my inspiration in my theme:
The grandeur of my subject is my Muse.
At midnight, when mankind is wrapp'd in peace,
And worldly Fancy feeds on golden dreams,
To give more dread to man's most dreadful hour ;
At midnight, 'tis presumed, this pomp will burst 200
From tenfold darkness, sudden as the spark
From smitten steel ; from nitrous grain the blaze.
Man, starting from his couch, shall sleep no more !
The day is broke, which never more shall close!
Above, around, beneath, amazement all!
205
Terror and glory join'd in their extremes !
forr God in grandeur, and our world on fire :

TIE CONSOLATION.

All Natere struggling in the pangs of death! Dost thou not hear her? dost thou not deplore Her strong convulsions, and her final groan? Provide more firm support, or sink for ever! Where ? how ? from whence? Vain hope! it is too late ! Where, where, for shelter, shall the guilty fly, 215 When consternation turns the good man pale!

Great day! for which all other days were made ; For which earth rose from Chaos, man from earth, And an eternity, the date of gods, Descended on poor earth-created man!
Great day of dread, decision, and despair ! At thought of thee each sublunary wish Lets go its eager grasp, and drops the world, And catches at each reed of hope in Heaven. At thought of thee !-and art thou absent then? Lorenzo! no ; 'tis here ;-it is begun:Already is begun the grand assize, In thee, in all: deputed Conscience scales The dread tribunal, and forestals our dnom ; Forestals, and, by forestalling, proves it sure. Why on himself should man void judgment pass?
Is idle Nature laughing at her sons?
Who Conscience sent, her sentence will support,
And God above assert that God in man.
Thrice happy they ! that enter now the court 233 Heaven opens in their bosoms : but how rare, Ah me! that magnanimity, how rare!
What hero, like the man who stands himself;
Who dares to meet his naked heart alone ; Who hears intrepid the full charge it brings,
Resolved to silence future murmurs there !
The coward flies, and, flying, is undone.
(Art thou a coward? no :) the coward flies ; Thinks, but thinks slightly ; asks, but fears to know Asks 'What is truth ?' with Pilate, and retires ; 210.

 THE CONSOLATION.Dissolves the court, and mingles with the throng :
Asylum sad! from Reason, Hope, and Heaven.
Shall all but man look out with ardent eye
For that great day which was ordain'd for man ?
O day of consummation! mark supreme 250
(If men are wise) of human thought ! nor least
Or in the sight of angels, or their King !
Angels, whose radiant circles, height o'er height,
Order o'er order rising, blaze o'er blaze,
As in a theatre, surround this scene,
Intent ors man, and anxious for his fate.
Angels look out for thee ; for thee, their Lord,
To vindicate his glory ; and for thee
Creation universal calls aloud
To disinvolve the moral world, and give
To Nature's renovation brighter charms.
Shall man alone, whose fate, whose final fate,
Hangs on that hour, exclude it from his thought?
I think of nothing else; I see ! I feel it !
All Nature, like an earthquake, trembling round ! 26'5
All deities, l:ke summer's swarms, on wing '
All basking in the full meridian blaze!
I see the judge enthroned! the flaming guard!
The volues open'd! open'd every heart!
A sunbean, pointing out each secret thought !
No patron! intercessor mone ' now pass'd The sweet, the clement, mediatorial hour ! For guilt no plea! to pain no pause ! no bound! Inexorable all ! and all extreme!

Nor man alone ; the foe of God and man, $\quad 2 \%$ From his dark den, blaspheming, drags his chain, And rears his brazen front, with thunder scarr'd, Receives his sentence, and begins his hell.
All vengeance past, now, seems abundant grace.
Like meteors in a stormy sky, how roll
His baleful eyes ! he curses whom he dreads, And deems it the first moment of his fall.
'Tis present to my thought !-and yet where is it ?

Angels can't tell me ; angels cannot guess The period, from created beings lock'd In darkness ; but the process and the place Are less obscure ; for these may man inquire. Say, thou great close of human hopes and fears! Great key of hearts ! great finisher of fates !
Great end ! and great beginning! say, where art thou? Art thou in time, or in eternity?
Nor in eternity nor time I find thee :
These, as two monarchs, on their borders meet, (Monarchs of all elapsed or unarrived!)
As in debate, how best their powers allied
295
May swell the grandeur, or discharge the wrath
Of him, whom both their monarchies obey.
Time, this vast fabric for him built (and doom'd With him to fall) now bursting o'er his head, His lamp, the Sun, extinguish'd, from beneath 300 The frown of hideous darkness calls his sons From their long slumber, from earth's heaving womb, To second birth ' contemporary throng !
Roused at one call, upstarted from one bed,
Fiess'd in one crowd, appall'd with one amaze, 305 He turns them o'er, Eternity ! to thee : Then (as a king deposed disdains to live) He falls on his own scythe, nor falls alone ; His greatest foe falls with him; Time, and he Who murder'd all Time's offspring, Death, expire. 310 Time was! Eternity now reigns alone!
Awful Eternity! offended queen !
And her resentment to mankind how just !
With kind intent, soliciting access, How often has she knock'd at human hearts !
Rich to repay their hospitality,
How often call'd! and with the voice of God!
Yet bore repulse, excluded as a cheat!
A dream! while foulest foes found welcome there!
A dream, a cheat, now all things but her smile. 320
For, lo! her twice ten thousand gates thrown wide,

As thrice from Indus to the frozen pole, With banners streaming as the comet's blaze, And clarions louder than the deep in storms, Sonorous as immortal breath can blow,
Pour forth their myriads, potentates, and powers,
Of light, of darkness, in a middle field,
Wide as creation! populous as wide!
A neutral region! there to mark the' event
Of that great drama, whose preceding scenes
Detain'd them close spectators, through a length
Of ages, ripening to this grand result;
Ages as yet unnumberd but by God,
Who now, pronouncing sentence, vindicates
The rights of virtue, and his own renown.
Eternity, the various sentence pass'd,
Assigns the sever'd throng distinet abodes,
Sulphureous or ambrosial. What ensues?
The deed predominant! the deed of deeds !
Which makes a hell of hell, a heaven of heaven. 340
The goddess, with determined aspect, turns
Her adamantine key's enormous size
Through Destiny's inextricable wards,
Deep driving every bolt on both their fates;
Then, from the crystal battlements of heaven, $34 \bar{u}$
Down, down she hurls it through the dark profound,
Ten thousand thousand fathom, there to rust,
And ne'er unlock her resolution more.
The deep resounds, and hell, through all her glooms,
Returns, in groans, the melancholy roar.
O how unlike the chorus of the skies!
O how unlike those shouts of joy, that shake
The whole ethereal! how the concave rings !
Nor strange! when deities their voice exalt;
And louder far than when Creation rose,
To see Creation's godlike aim and end, So wel. accomplish'd! so divinely closed!
To see the mighty Dramatist's last act
(As meet) in glory rising o'er the rest,

-No fancied God ; a God, indeed, descends,

To solve all knots ; to strike the moral home ;
To throw full day on darkest scenes of time;
To clear, commend, exalt, and crown the whole.
Hence, in one peal of loud, eternal praise, The charm'd spectators thunder their applause, 365 And the vast void beyond applause resounds. What then am I?Amidst applauding worlds,
And worlds celestial, is there found on earth
A peevish, dissonant, rebellious string,
Which jars in the grand chorus, and complains? 370
Censure on thee, Lorenzo! I suspend,
And turn it on myself; how greatly due!
All, all is right, by God ordain'd or done ;
And who, but God, resumed the friends He gave?
And have I been complaining, then, so long ?
Complaining of his favours, pain and death ?
Who, without Pain's advice, would e'er be good?
Who, without Death, but would be good in vain?
Pain is to save from pain; all punishment
To make for peace; and death to save from death;
And second death to guard immortal life ;
381
To rouse the careless, the presumptuous awe,
And turn the tide of souls another way ;
By the same tenderness divine ordain'd
That planted Eden, and high-bloom'd for man 385
A fairer Eden, endless, in the skies.
Heaven gives us friends to bless the present scene:
Resumes them, to prepare us for the next.
All evils natural are moral goods;
All discipline indulgence, on the whole.
None are unhappy ; all have cause to smile,
But such as to themselves that cause deny,
Our faults are at the bottom of our pains :
Frror in act, or judgment, is the source
Of endless sighs. We sin, or we mistake;
And Nature tax, when false opinion stings.

Jet impious grief be banish'd, joy indulged ;
Put chiefly then, when Grief puts in her claim.
Joy from the joyous frequently betrays,
Oft lives in vanity, and dies in woe.
Joy amidst ills, corroborates, exalts ;
'Tis joy and conquest ; joy and virtue too.
A noble fortitude in ills delighis
Heaven, earth, ourselves ; 'tis duty, glory, peace!
Affliction is the good man's shining scene,
Prosperity conceals his brightest ray.
As night to stars, woe lustre gives to man.
Heroes in battle, pilots in the storm,
And virtue in calamities, admire.
The crown of manliood is a winter joy;
An evergreen that stands the northern blast,
And blossomsin the rigour of our fate.
'Tis a prime part of happiness, to know
How much unhappiness must prove our lot ;
A part which few possess ! I'll pay life's tax,
Without one rebel murmur, from this hour,
Nor think it misery to be a man ;
Who thinks it is, shall never be a god.
Some ills we wish for, when we wish to live.
What spoke proud Passion?- 'Wish my being lost?'*
Aresumptuous! blasphemous! absurd! and false! 421
The triuinph of my soul is,-that I am ;
And therefore that I may be-what? Lorenzo!
Look inward, and look deep; and deeper still;
Unfathomably deep our treasure runs,
In golden veins, through all eternity '
Ages, and ages, and succeeding still
New ages, where this phantom of an hour,
Which courts, each night, dull slumber for repair,
Shall wake, and wonder, and exult, and praise,
430
And fly through infinite, and all unlock;
And (if deserved) by Heaven's redundant love, Made half-adorable itself, adere ;

* Referring to the First Night.

And find, in adoration, endless joy!
Where thou, not master of a moment here,
Frail as the flower, and fleeting as the gale, Mayst boast a whole, eternity, enrich'd With all a kind Omnipotence er n pour. Since Adam fell, no mortal uninspired Has ever yet conceived, or ever shall, How kind is God, how great (if good) is man. No man too largely from Heaven's love can hope, If what is hoped he labours to secure. [Thee ;
Ills!-there are none: All gracious! none from From man full many ! Numerous is the race 445 Of blackest ills, and those immortal too, Begot by Madness on fair Liberty,
Heaven's daughter, hell-debauch'd ! her hand alone Unlocks destruction to the sons of men, Fast barr'd by thine ; high-wall'd with adamant, 450 Guarded with terrors reaching to this world, And ecver'd with the thunders of thy law, Whose threats are mercies, whose injunctions guides, Assisting, not restraining Reason's choice ; Whose sanctions, unavoidable results
Fróm Nature's course, indulgently reveal'd; If unreveal'd, more dangerous, nor less sure.
Thus an indulgent father warns his sons,
'Do this, fly that;'-nor always tells the cause ; Pleased to reward, as duty to his will,
A conduct needful to their own repose.
Great God of wonders ! (if, thy love survey'd, Aught else the name of wonderful retains)
What rocks are these on which to build our trust!
Thy ways admit no blemish; none I find;
Or this alone,-That none is to be found: Not one, to soften Censure's hardy crime ; Not one, to palliate peevish Grief's complaini, Who, like a demon, murmuring from the dust, Dares into judgment call her judge.-Supreme! 470 For all I bless Thee ; most for the severe;

Her death*-my own at hand-the fiery gulf.
That flaming bound of wrath omnipotent !
It thunders ;-but it thunders to preserve ;
It strengthens what it strikes ; its wholesome dread
Averts the dreaded pain: its hideous groans
Join heaven's sweet hallelujahs in thy praise,
Great Source of good alone! how kind in all!
In vengeance kind! pain, death, Gehena, save!
Thus, in thy world material, mighty Mind !
Not that alone which solaces and shines,
The rough and gloomy, challenges our praise.
The winter is as needful as the spring ;
The thunder as the sun. A stagnate mass
Of vapours breeds a pestilential air .
Nor more propitious the Favonian breeze
'To Nature's health, than purifying storms.
The dread volcano ministers to good;
Its smother'd flames might undermine the world.
Loud $\mathbb{E}$ tnas fulminate in love to man:
Comets good omens are, when duly scann'd ;
And, in their use, eclipses learn to shine.
Man is responsible for ills received;
Those we call wretched are a chosen band,
Compell'd to refuge in the right, for peace.
Amid my list of blessings infinite
Stand this the foremost, 'That my heart has bled.'
'Tis Heaven's last effort of good will to man.
When pain can't bless, Heaven quits us in despair!
Who fails to grieve, when just occasion calls,
Or grieves too much, deserves not to be bless'd;
Inhurnan, or effeminate, his heart.
Reason absolves the grief which reason ends. May Heaven ne'er trust my friend with happiness, Till it has taught him how to bear it well
By previous pain, and made it safe to smile ! Such smiles are mine, and such may they remain, Nor hazard their extinction from excess.

* Lucia.

My change of heart a change of style demands ;
The Consolation cancels the Complaint,
And makes a convert of my guilty song.
As when o'erlabour'd, and inclined to breathe,
A panting traveller some rising ground,
Some small ascent, has gain'd, he turns him round,
And measures with his eye the various vale, 515
The fields, woods, meads, and rivers, he has pass'd,
And, satiate of his journey, thinks of home,
Endear'd by distance, nor affects more toil ;
Thus I, though small, indeed, is that ascent
The Muse has gain'd, review the paths she trod, 500
Various, extensive, beaten but by few;
And, conscious of her prudence in repose,
Pause, and with pleasure meditate an end,
Though still remote ; so fruitful is my theme.
Through many a field of moral and divine
The Muse has stray'd, and much of sorrow seen
In human ways, and much of false and vain,
Which none who travel this bad road can miss.
O'er friends deceased full heartily she wept ;
()f love divine the wonders she display'd;

I'roved man immortal ; show'd the source of joy ;
The grand tribunal raised; assign'd the bounds Of human grief. In few, to close the whole, The moral Muse has shadow'd out a sketeh, Though not in form, nor with a Raphael stroke, 535 Of most our weakness needs believe or do, In this our land of travail and of hope, For peace on earth, or prospect of the skies.

What then remains? much! much! a mighty debt To be discharged. These thoughts, O Night ! are thine ; From thee they came, like lovers' secret sighs, While others siept. So Cynthia (poets feign,) In shadows veil'd, soft-sliding from her sphere,
Her shepherd cheer'd ; of her enamour'd less Than I of thee.-And art thou still unsung,
Beneath whose brow, and by whose aid, I sing

Immortal Silence! where shall I begin?
Where end? or how steal music from the spheres
To sooth their goddess ?

> O majestic Night

Nature's great ancestor! Day's elder-born '
And fated to survive the transient Sun' By mortals and immortals seen with awe!
A starry crown thy raven brow adorns,
An azure zone thy waist ; clouds, in heaven's loom
Wrought through varicties of shape and shade, 555 In ample folds of drapery divine,
Thy flowing mantle form, and, heaven throughout, Voluminously pour thy pompous train :
Thy gloomy grandeurs (Nature's most august, Inspiring aspect!) claim a grateful verse ;
And, like a sable curtain starr'd with gold, Drawn o'er my labours past, shall close the seene.

And what, O man! so worthy to be sung?
What more prepares us for the songs of heaven?
Creation of archangels is the theme!
dVhat to be sung so needful, what so well
Celestial joys prepare us to sustain?
The soul of man, His face design'd to see
Who gave these wonders to be seen by man,
Has licre a previous scene of objects great
On which to dwell ; to streteh to that expanse
Of thought, to rise to that exalted height
Of admiration, to contract that awe,
And give her whole capacities that strength
Which best may qualify for final joy.
The more our spirits are enlarged on earth,
The deeper draught shall they receive of heaven. [oliss,
Heaven's King! whose face unveild consummates
Redundant bliss! which fills that mighty void The whole Creation leáves in human hearts!
Thou! who didst touch the lip of Jesse's son, Rapp'd in sweet contemplation of these fires, And set his harp in concert with the spheres,

While of thy works material the supreme I dare attempt, assist my daring song :
Loose me from Earth's enclosure ; frorn the Sun's Contracted circle set my heart at large ;
Eliminate my spirit, give it range
Through provinces of thought yet unexplored; Teach me, by this stupendous scaffolding,
Creation's golden steps, to climb to Thee : Teach me with art great Nature to control, And spread a lustre o'er the shades of night. Feel I thy kind assent? and shall the Sun Be seen at midnight, rising in my song ?

Lorenzo ! come, and warm thee : thou, whose heart, Whose little heart, is moor'd within a nook Of this obscure terrestrial, anchor weigh ; Another ocean calls, a nobler port ;
I am thy pilot, I thy prosperous gale:
Gainful thy voyage through yon azure main, Main without tempest, pirate, rock, or shore, And whence thou mayst import eternal wealth, And leave to beggar'd minds the pearl and gold. Thy travels dost thou boast o'er foreign realms !
Thou stranger to the world! thy tour begin;
Thy tour through Nature's universal orb.
Nature delineates her whole chart at large,
On soaring souls, that sail among the spheres; And man how purblind, if unknown the whole. Who circles spacious earth, then travels here, Shall own he never was from home before. Come, my Prometheus !* from thy pointed rock Of false ambition, if unchain'd, we'il mount ; We ll, innocently, steal celestial fire,
And kindle our devotion at the stars;
A theft that shall not chain, but set thee free.
Above our atmosphere's intestine wars,
Rain's fountain-head, the magazine of hail; Above the northern nests of feather'd snows,

The brew of thunders, and the flaming forge
That forms the crooked lightning: 'bove the eaves
Where infant tempests wait their growing wings,
And tune their tender voices to that roar,
Which soon, perhaps, shall shake a guilty world ; 625
Above misconstrued omens of the sky,
Far travel'd comets' calculated blaze,
Elance thy thought, and think of more than man:
Thy soul, till now contracted, wither'd, shrunk, Blighted by blasts of Earth's unwholesome air,

630
Will blossom here ; spread all her faculties
To these bright ardours; every power unfold,
And rise into sublimities of thought.
Stars teach, as well as shine. At Nature's birth
'Thus their commission ran.-'Be kind to man.' 635
Where art thou, poor benighted traveller!
The stars will light thee, though the moon should fail. Where art thou, more benighted! more astray!
In ways immoral? the stars call thee back,
And, if obey'd their counsel, set thee right.
640
This prospect vast, what is it ?-Weigh'd aright
'Tis Nature's systom of divinity,
And every student of the night inspires.
'Tis elder Scripture, writ by God's own hand ;
Scripture authentic! uncorrupt by man.
Lorenzo! with my radius (the rich gift Of thought nocturnal) Ill point out to thee Its various lessons; some that may surprise An unadept in mysteries of Night;
Little, perhaps, expected in her sehool,
Nor thought to grow on planet or on star ;
Bulls, lions, scorpions, monsters here we feign,
Ourselves more inonstrous, not to see what here
Exists, indeed,-a lecture to mankind!
What read we here ?- the' existence of a God ? 650
$\mp e s$ : and of other beings, man above;
Natives of ether! sons of higher climes!
And, what inay move Lorenzo's wonder more,

Eiernity is written in the skics.
And whose eternity ? -Lorenzo! thine ; 660 Mankind's eternity. Nor faith alone, Virtue grows here; here springs the sovereign cure Of almost every vice, but chiefly thine, Wrath, pride, ambition, and impure desire.

Lorenzo! thou canst wake at midnight too, 66J Though not on morals bent. Ambition, Pleasure :
Those tyrants I for thee so lately fought,*
Afford their harass'd slaves but slender rest.
Thou, to whom midnight is immoral noon,
And the sun's noontide blaze prime dawn of day, 670 Not by thy climate, but capricious crime, Commencing one of our antipodes ! In thy nocturnal rove one moment halt, 'Twixt stage and stage of riot and cabal, And lift thine eye (if bold an eye to lift, If bold te meet the face of injured Heaven) To yonder stars: for other ends they shine Than to light revellers from shame to shame, And thus be made accomplices in guilt.

Why from yon arch, that infinite of space, With infinite of lucid orbs replete, Which set the living firmament on fire, At the first glance, in such an overwhelm Of wonderful on man's astonish'd sight Rushes Omnipotence ?-To curb our pride, 685 Our reason rouse, and lead it to that Power Whose love lets down these silver chains of light ; 'To draw up man's ambition to himself, And bind our chaste affections to his throne. Thus the three virtues, least alive on earth, 690 And welcomed on heaven's coast with most applause; An humble, pure, and heavenly minded heart, Are here inspired ;-and canst thou gaze too long ?

Nor stands thy wrath deprived of its reprocf,

* In Night the Eighth.

Or unupbraided by this radiant choir.
The planets of each system represent
Kind neighbours; mutual amity prevails ;
Sweet interchange of rays, received, return'd,
Enlightening and enlighten'd! all, at once,
Attracting and attracted! patriot-like,
None sins against the welfare of the whole ;
But their reciprocal, unselfish aid,
Affords an emblem of millennial love.
Nothing in nature, much less conscious being,
Was e'er created solely for itself.
Thus man his sovercign duty learns in this Material picture of benevolence.

And know, of all our supercilious race,
Thou most inflammable! thou wasp of men !
Man's angry heart, inspected, would be found
As rightly set, as are the starry spheres:
'Tis Nature's structure broke, thy stubborn Will
Breeds all that uncelestial discord there.
Wilt thou not feel the bias Nature gave ?
Canst thou deseend from converse with the skies, 715
And seize thy brother's throat?-For what?-a clod?
An inch of earth ? The planets cry, 'Forbear.'
They chase our double darkness, Nature's gloom,
And (kinder still!) our intellectual night.
And see, Day's amiable sister sends
Her invitation, in the softest rays
Of mitigated lustre ; courts thy sight,
Which suffers from her tyrant brother's blaze.
Night grants thee the full freedom of the skies,
Nor rudely reprimands thy lifted eye ;
With gain and joy, she bribes thee to be wise.
Night opes the noblest scenes, and sheds an awe
Which gives those venerable scenes full weight,
And deep reception in the' entender'd heart ;
While light peeps through the darkness like a spy, 730
And darkness shows its grandeur by the light!

THE CONSOLATION.

Nor is the profit greater than the joy, If human hearts at glorious objects glow,
And admiration can inspire delight.
What speak I more than I this moment feel? 765
With pleasing stupor first the soul is struck, (Stupor ordain'd to make her truly wise !) Then into transport starting from her trance, With love and admiration how she glows ! This gorgeous apparatus! this display! This ostentation of creative power ! This theatre!-what eye can take it in? By what divine enchantment was it raised, For minds of the first magnitude to launch In endless speculation, and adore?
One Sun by day, by night ten thousand shine, And light us deep into the Deity ;
How boundless in magnificence and might!
O what a confluence of ethereal fires, From urns unnumber'd, down the steep of heaven 750 Streams to a point, and centres in my sight!
Nor tarries there ; I feel it at my heart :
My heart, at once, it humbles and exalts;
Lays it in dust, and calls it to the skies. .
Who sees it unexalted, or unawed?
Who sees it, and can stop at what is seen?
Material offspring of Omnipotence !
Inanimate, all animating birth!
Work worthy him who made it! worthy praise!
All praise ! praise more than human ! nor denied 760
Thy praise divine !-But though man, drown'd in sleep,
Withholds his homage, not alone I wake;
Bright legions swarm unseen, and sing unheard
By mortal ear, the glorious Arclitect,
In this his universal temple, hung
With lustres, with innumerable lights,
That shed religion on the soul ; at once
The temple and the preacher! O how loud It calls Devotion! genuine growth of Night!

An undevout astronomer is mad.
True; all things speak a God; but in the small,
Men trace out Him; in great, He seizes man ;
Seizes, and elevates, and raps, and fills
With new inquiries, mid associates new.
Tell me, ye stars ! ye planets! tell me, all
Ye starr d and planeted inhabitants ! what is it ?
What are these sons of wonder? Say, proud Arch,
(Within whose azure palaces they dwell)
Built with divine ambition! in disdain
Of limit, built! built in the taste of heaven !
Vast concave! ample dome ! wast thou design'd
A meet apartment for the Deity ? -
Not so ; that thought alone thy state impairs,
Thy lofty sinks, and shallows thy profound,
And strengthens thy diffusive ; dwarfs the whole,
And makes a Universe an orrery.
But when I drop mine eye, ard look on man,
Thy right regain'd thy grandeur is restored,
O Nature! wide flies off the' expanding round; 790
As when whole magazines, at once, are fired,
The smitten air is hollow'd by the blow,
The vast displosion dissipates the clouds,
Shock'd ether's biilows dash the distant skies ;
Thus (but far more) the' expanding round flies off,
And leaves a mighty void, a spacious womb,
Might teem with new creation ; reinflamed,
Thy luminaries triumph, and assume
Divinity themselves. Nor was it strange,
Matter high-wrought to such surprising pomp, 800
Such godlike glory, stole the style of gods,
From ages dark, obtuse, and steep'd in sense :
For sure to sense they truly are divine,
And half absolved idolatry from guilt,'
Nay, turn'd it into virtue. Such it was
In those, who put forth all they had of man
Unlost, to lift their thought, nor mounted higher -

But, weak of wing, on planets perch'd, and thought What was their highest must be their adored.

But they how weak, who could no higher mount? And are there, then, Lorenzo! those to whom 811 Unseen, and unexistent, are the same? And if incomprehersible is join'd, Who dare pronounce it madness to believe ? Why has the almighty Builder thrown aside All measure in his work? stretch'd out his line So far, and spread amazement o'er the whole ? Then (as he took delight in wide extremes) Deep in the bosom of his Universe Dropp'd down that reasoning mite, that insect, man ! To crawl, and gaze, and wonder at the seene?- 821 That man might ne'er presume to plead amazement For disbelief of wonders in himself.
Shall God be less miraculous than what
His hand has formed? shall mysteries descend
From unmysterious? things more elevate, Be more familiar? uncreated lie More obvious than created, to the grasp. Of human thought? The more of wonderful Is heard in Him, the more we should assent. Could we conceive him, God he could not be ; Or he not God, or we could not be men. A God alone can comprehend a God: Man's distance how immense ! On such a theme, Know this, Lorenzo! (seem it ne er so strange) 835 Nothing can satisfy, but what confounds ; Nothing but what astonishes, is true. The seene thou seest attests the truth I sing, And every star sheds light upon thy creed. These stars, this furniture, this cost of heaven, If but reported, thou hadst ne'er believed; But thine eye tells thee, the romance is true. The grand of Nature is the' Almighty's oath, In Reason's court, to silence Unbelief.

How my mipd, opening at this scene, imbibes $8 \pm$.

The moral emanations of the skies,
While nought, perhaps, Lorenzo less admires !
Has the Great Sovereign sent ten thousand worlds
To tell us, He resides above them all,
In glory's unapproachable recess?
And dare earth's bold inhabitants deny
The sumptuous, the magnific embassy,
A moment's audience? Turn we, nor will hear
From whom they come, or what they would impart
Cor man's emolument; sole cause that stoops 855.
Their grandeur to man's eye? Lorenzo! rouse ;
Let thought, awaken'd, take the lightning's wing,
And glance from east to west, from pole to pole.
Who sees, but is confounded or convinced?
Renounces reason, or a God adores?
Mankind was sent into the world to see :
Sight gives the science needful to their peace ;
That obvious science asks small learning's aid.
Wouldst thou on metaphysic pinions soar?
Or wound thy patience amid logic thorns?
Or travel history's enormous round?

- Nature no such hard task enjoins: she gave

A make to man directive of his thought ;
A make set upright, pointing to the stars,
As who shall say, 'Read thy chief lesson there.' 870 Too late to read this manuscript of heaven, When, like a parcliment scroll, shrunk up by flames, It folds Lorenzo's lesson from his sight.

Lesson how various! not the God alone, see his ministers; I see, diffused in radiant orders, essences sublime, Jf various offices, of various plume, n heavenly liveries distinctly clad, (zure, green, purple, pearl, or downy gold,
Ur all commix'd ; they stand, with wings outspread
ristening to catch the Master's least command, 881.
And fly through nature ere the moment ends;
Numbers innumerable !-Well conceived
By Pagan and by Christian: O'er each sphere Presides an_angel, to direct its course, ..... 885
And feed, or fan, its flames; or to dischargeOther high trusts unknown ; for who can seeSuch pomp of matter, and imagine mind(For which alone inanimate was made)
More sparingly dispensed? that nobler son, ..... 890Far liker the great Sire !-'Tis thus the skiesInform us of superiors numberless,As much, in excellence, above mankind,As above earth, in magnitude, the spheres.These, as a cloud of witnessès, hang o'er us : 895

In a throng'd theatre are all our deeds. Perhaps a thousand demigods descend On every beam we see, to walk with men. Awful reflection! strong restraint from ill!

Yet here, our virtue finds still stronger aid 900 From these ethereal glories sense surveys. Something, like magic, strikes from this blue vault :
With just attention is it view'd? we feel $\Lambda$ sudden suceour, unimplored, unthought. Nature herself does half the work of man.
Seas, rivers, mountains, forests, deserts, rocks, The promontory's height, the depth profound Of subterranoan excavated grots, Black-brow d, and vaulted high, and yawning wide, From Nature's structure, or the scoop of Time ; 910 If ample of dimension, vast of size, E'en these an aggrandizing impulse give ; Of solemn thought enthusiastic neights E'en these infuse.-But what of vast in these? Nothing-or we must own the skies forgot.
Much less in art.-Vain Art! thou pigmy power !
How dost thou swell, and strut, with human pride, To show thy littleness! What childish toys,
Thy watery columns squirted to the clouds!
Thy bason'd rivers and imprison'd seas !
Thy mountains moulded into forms of men!

Thy hundred-gated capitals! or those
Where three days' travel left us much to ride ;
Gazing on miracles by mortals wrought,
Arches triumphal, theatres immense,
Or nodding gardens pendent in mid air!
Or temples proud to meet their gods half-way!
Yet these affect us in no common kind:
What then the force of such superior scenes?
Enter a temple, it will strike an awe :
What awe from this the Deity has built ?
A good man seen, though silent, counsel gives:
The tough'd spectator wishes to be wise.
In a bright mirror His own hands have made,
Here we see something like the face of God.
Seems it not then enough to say, Lorenzo, To man abandon'd, 'Hast thou seen the skies ?'

And yet, so thwarted Nature's kind design
By daring man, he makes her sacred awe (That guard from ill) his shelter, his temptation
To more than common guilt, and quite inverts
Celestial Art's intent. The trembling stars See crimes gigantic, stalking through the gloom With front erect, that hide their head by day, And making night still darker by their deeds.
Slumbering in covert, till the shades descend,
Rapine and Murder, link'd, now prowl for prey.
The miser earths his treasure ; and the thief,
Watching the mole, half beggars him ere morn.
Now plots and foul conspiracies awake,
And, mufling up their horrors from the moon, Havock and devastation they prepare, And kingdoms tottering in the field of blood.
Now sons of riot in mid-revel rage.
What shall I do?-suppress it? or proclaim?-
Why sleeps the thunder? Now, Lorenzo! now
His best friend's couch the rank adulterer
Ascends secure, and laughs at gods and men.
Preposterous madmen, vnid of fear or shame,

Lay their crimes bare to these chaste eyes of heaven, Yet shrink and shudder at a mortal's sight. 961 Were moon and stars for villains only made, To guide, yet screen them, with tenebrious light?
No; they were made to fashion the sublime
Of human hearts, and wiser make the wise.
965
Those ends were answer'd oncc, when mortals lived
Of stronger wing, of aquiline ascent,
In theory sublime. O how unlike
Those vermin of the night, this moment sung,
Who crawl on earth, and cn her venom feed! 970
Those ancient sages, human stars! they met
Their brothers of the skies at midnight hour,
'Their counsel ask'd, and what they ask'd obey'd.
The Stagirite, and Plato, he who drank
The poisoned bowl, and he of Tusculum,
975
With him of Corduba, (immortal names!)
In these unbounded and Elysian walks,
An area fit for gods and godlike men, They took their nightly round, through radiant paths, By seraphs trod ; instructed, chiefly, thus,
To tread in their bright footsteps here below,
To walk in worth still brighter than the skies.
There they contracted their contempt of earth;
Of hopes eternal kindled there the fire ;
There, as in near approach, they glow'd, and grew 985 (Great visitants !) more intimate with God, More worth to men, more joyous to themselves.
Through various virtues they, with ardour, ran
The zodiac of their learn'd illustrious lives.
In Christian hearts, O for a Pagan zeal !
A needful, but opprobrious prayer! as much
Our ardour less, as greater is our light.
How monstrous this in mozals! Scarce more strange Would this phenomenon in nature strike,
A sun that froze us, or a star that warm'd.
What taught these heroes of the moral world ?
To these thou givest thy praise, give credit too.

These doctors ne'er were pension'd to deceive thee,
And Pagan tutors are thy taste.-They taught,
That narrow views betray to misery ;
1000
That wise it is to comprehend the whole;
That virtue rose from Nature ; ponder'd well,
The single base of virtue built to Heaven;
That God and Nature our attention claim ;
That Nature is the glass reflecting God,
As, by the sea, reflected is the sun,
Too glorious to be gazed on in his sphere;
That mind immortal loves immortal aims;
That boundless mind affects a boundless space;
That rast surveys, and the sublime of things,
1010
The soul assimilate, and make her great;
That, therefore, heaven ber glories, as a fund
Of inspiration, thus spreads out to man.
Such are their doctrines; such the Night inspired.
And what more true? what truth of greater weight?
The soul of man was made to walk the skies, 1016
Delightful outlet of her prison here!
There, disencumber'd from her chains, the ties
Of toys terrestzial, she can rove at large ;
There freely can respire, dilate, extend,
1020
In full proportion let loose all her powers,
And, undeluded, grasp at something great.
Nor as a stranger does slie wander there,
But, wonderful herself, through wonder strays;
Contemplating their grandeur, finds her own ;
1025
Dives deep in their economy divine,
Sits high in judgment on their various laws,
And, like a master, judges not amiss.
Hence greatly pleased, and justly proud, the soul
Grows conscious of her birth celestial ; breathes 1030
More life, more vigour, in her native air,
And feels herself at nome among the stars,
And, feeling, emulates her country's praise.
What call we, thers, the firmament, Lorenzo?-
As earth the bodv, sinca the skies sustain

The soul with food that gives immortal life, Call it the noble pasture of the mind, Which there expatiates, strengthens, and exults, And riots through the luxuries of thought. Call it the garden of the Deity, 1040 Blossom'd with stars, redundant in the growth Of fruit ambrosial, moral fruit to man. Call it the breast-plate of the true High-priest, Ardent with gems oracular, that give In points of highest moment, right response; 1045
And ill neglected, if we prize our peace. Thus have we found a true astrology;
Thus have we found a new and noble sense, In which alone stars govern human fates. O that the stars (as some have feigu'd) let fall 1050 Bloodshed and havoc on embattled realms, And rescued monarehs from so black a guilt! Bourbon! this wish how generous in a foe? Wouldst thou be great, wouldst thou become a god,
And stick thy deathless name among the stars, $105 \overline{5}$ For mighty conquests on a needle's point?
Instead of forging chains for foreigners; Bastile, thy tutor; grandeur, all thy aim? And yet thou know'st not what it is. How great, How glorious, then appears the mind of man, 1060 When in it all the stars and planets roll! And what it seems, it is. Great objects make Great minds, enlarging as their views enlarge ;
Those still more godlike as these more divine.
And more divine than these, thou canst not see.
Dazzled, o'erpower'd, with the delicious draught 1066
Of miscellaneous splendours, how I reel
From thought to thought, inebriate, without end!
An Eden this! a Paradise unlost !
I meet the Deity in every view,
And tremble at my nakeduess before him !
O that I could but reach the tree of life '
For here it grows unguarded from our taste;

No flaming sword denies our entrance here :
Would man but gather, he might live for ever. 1075
L.orenzo! much of moral hast thou seen :

Of curious arts art thou more fond? then mark
The mathematic glories of the skies,
In number, weight, and measure, all ordain'd.
Lorenzo's boasted builders, Chance and Fate,
1080
Are left to finish his aerial towers;
Wisdom and Choice, their well known characters
Here deep impress, and claim it for their own.
Though splendid all, no splendour void of use.
Use rivals beauty, art contends with power ;
1085
No wanton waste amid effuse expense,
The great Eemomist adjusting all
To prudent pomp, magnificently wise.
How rich the prospect! and for ever new ;
And newest, to the man that views it most ;
1090
For newer still in infinite suceeeds.
Then these aürial racers, O how swift!
How the shaft loiters from the strongest string ;
Spirit alone can distance the career,
Orb above orb ascending, without end!
Circle in cisele, without end, enclosed!
Wheel within wheel, Ezekiel, like to thine '
Like thine, it seems a vision or a dream ;
Though seen, we labour to believe it true!

- What involntion! what extent! what swarms

1100
Of worlds, that laugh at earth! immensely great!
Immensely distant from each other's spheres! [roll?
What, then, the wondrous space through which they
At once it quite ingulfs all human thought ;
'Tis Comprehension's absolute defeat.
Nor think thou seest a wild disorder here:
Through this illustrious chaos to the sight,
Arrangement neat and chastest order reign.
The path prescribed, inviolably kept,
Upbraids the lawless sallies of mankind.
1110
Worlds, ever thwarting, never interfere;

What knots are tied! how soon are they dissolved,
And set the seeming married planets free!
They rove for ever, without error rove ;
Confusion unconfused ! nor less admire.
1115
This tumult untumultuous ; all on wing ! In motion all! yet what profound repose ! What fervid action, yet no noise! as awed To silence by the presence of their Lord; Or hush'd by his command, in love to man,
And bid let fall soft beams on human rest, Restless themselves. On yon cerulean plain, In exultation to their God and thine, They dance, they sing eternal jubilee, Eternal celebration of his praise ! 1125
But since their song arrives not at our ear, Their dance perplex'd exhibits to the sight Fair hieroglyphic of his peerless power. Mark how the labyrinthian turns they take, The circles intricate, and mystic maze,
Weave the grand cipher of Omnipotence; To gods how great! how legible to man!

Leaves so much wonder greater wonder still!
Where are the pillars that support the skies?
What more than Atlantean shoulder props 1135 The' incumbent load? what magic, what strange art, In fluid air these ponderous orbs sustains? Who would not think them hung in-golden chains?And so they are ; in the ligh will of Heaven, Which fixes all ; makes adamant of air, Or air of adamant ; makes all of nought, Or nought of all, if such the dread decree.

Imagine from their deep foundations torn The most gigantic sons of earth, the bruad And towering Alps, all toss'd into the sea; And, light as down, or volatile as air, Their bulks enormous dancing on the waves, In time and measure exquisite; while all The winds, in emulation of the spheres,

Tune their sonorous instruments aloft
The concert swell, and animate the ball.
Would this appear amazing ?-what then worlds
In a far thinner element sustain'd,
And acting the same part with greater skill,
More rapid movement, and for noblest ends? 1153
More obvious ends to pass, are not these stars
The seats majestic, proud imperial thrones,
On which angelic delegates of Heaven,
At certain periods, as the Sovereign nods,
Discharge high trusts of vengeance or of love,
To clothe in outward grandeur grand design,
And acts more solemn still more solemnize?
Ye citizens of air! what ardent thanks,
What full effusion of the grateful heart,
Is due frem man, indulged in such a sig!tit '
A sight so noble! and a sight so kind!
It drops new truths at every new survey ${ }^{\prime}$
Feels not Lorenzo something stir within,
That sweeps away all period? As these spheres
Measure duration, they no less inspire
1170
The godlike hope of ages without end.
The boundless space, through which these rovers take
Their restless roam, suggests the sister thought
Of boundless time. Thus, by kind Nature's skill,
To man unlabour'd, that important guest,
Eternity, finds entranco at the sight;
And an eternity for man ordain'd,
Or these his destined midnight counsellors,
The stars had never whisper'd it to man.
Nature informs, but ne'er insults, her sons :
Could she, then, kindle the most ardent wish
To disappoint it ?-That is blasphemy !
Thus of thy creed a second article,
Momentous as the' existence of a God,
Is found (as I conceive) where rarely sought, $1183^{*}$
And thou mayst read thy soul immortal here.
IFere, then, Lorenzo! on these glories dwell;

THE CONSOLATION.

Nor want the gilt, illuminated roof, That calls the wretched gay to dark delights. Assemblies?-this is one divinely bright; Here, unendanger'd in health, wealth, or fame, Range through the fairest, and the Sultan scorn. He, wise as thou, no Crescent holds so fair As that which on his turban awes a world, And thinks the Moon is proud to copy him. 1195 Look on her, and gain more than worlds can give, A mind superior to the charms of power Thou, muffled in delusions of this life ! Can yonder moon turn Ocean in his bed From side to side in constant ebb and flow, And purify from stench his watery realms? And fails her moral influence? wants she power To turn Lorenzo's stubborn tide of thought From stagnating on earth's infected shore, And purge from nuisance his corrupted heart? 1205 Fails her attraction, when it draws to Heaven? Nay, and to what thou valuest more, earth's joy? Minds elevate, and panting for unseen, And defecate from sense, alone obtain Full relish of existence undeflower'd,
The life of life, the zest of worldly bliss; All else on earth amounts-to what? to this:
' Bad to be suffer'd. blessings to be left:' Earth's richest inventory boasts no more.

Of higher scenes be then the call obey'd.
O let me gaze !-of gazing there's no end.
O let me think!-thought, too, is wilder'd here;
In midway flight Imagination tires;
Yet soon reprunes her wing to soar anew, Her point unable to forbear or gain; So great the pleasure, so prufound the plan! A banquet this, where men and angels meet, Eat the same manna, mingle Earth and Heaven. How distant some of these nocturnal suns ! So distant (says the sage) 'twere uot absurd

To doubt if beams, set out at Nature's birth, Ara yet arrived at this so foreign worid, 'Though nothing half so rapid as their flight.
An eye of awe and wonder let me roll,
And roll for ever. Who can satiate sight
1230
In such a scene? in such an ocean wide
Of deep astonishment? where depth, height, breadth,
Are lost in their extremes; and where to count
The thick-sown glories in this field of fire,
Perhaps a seraph's computation fails.
1235
Now go, Ambition! boast thy boundless might
In conquest o'er the tenth part of a grain.
And yet Lorenzo calls for miracles,
To give his tottering faith a solid base.
Why call for less than is already thine?
1240
Thou art no novice in theology;
What is a miracle ?-'Tis a reproach,
'Tis an implicit satire on mankind,
And while it satisfics, it censures too.
'To common sense great Nature's course proclaims
A Deity: When mankind falls asleep,
1246
A miracle is sent as an alarm
To wake the world, and prove him o'er again;
By recent argument, but not more strong.
Say which imports more plenitude of power,
Or Nature's laws to fix, or to repeal ?
To make a Sun, or stop his mid career ?
To countermand his orders, and send back
The flaming courier to the frighted East,
Warm'd and astonislid at his evening ray ;
Or bid the Moon, as with her journey tired,
In Ajalon's soft flowery vale repose ?
Great things are these? still greater to create.
From Adam's bower look down through the whole train
Of niracles;-resistless is their power ?
1260
They do not, cannot, more amaze the mind,
'Than this, call'd unmiraculous survey,
If duly weigh'd, if rationally seen,

If seen with human eyes. The brute, indeed, Sees nought but spangles here ; the fool, no more.
Say'st thou, 'The course of Nature governs all ?' 1266
The course of Nature is the Art of God.
The miracles, thou call'st for, this attest ;
For say, could Nature Nature's course control ?
But, miracles apart, who sees him not
$12 \pi 0$
Nature's Controller, Author, Guide, and End ?
Who turns his eye on Nature's midnight face, But must inquire-' What hand behind the scene, What arm Almighty, put these wheeling globes
In motion, and wound up the vast machine? 12\%
Who rounded in his palm these spacious orbs?
Who bowl'd them flaming through the dark profound, Numerous as glittering gems of morning dew,
Or sparks from populous cities in a blaze,
And set the bosom of old Night on fire,
1283
Peopled her desert, and made Horror smile ?'
Or if the military style delights thee,
(For stars have fought their battles, leagued with man) 'Who marshals this bright host? enrols their names,' Appoints their post, their marches, and returns, 1835 Functual, at stated periods? who disbands These veteran troops, their final duty done, If e'er disbanded ?'-He, whose potent word, Like the loud trumpet, levied first their powers In Night's inglorious empire, where they slept 1290 In beds of darkness ; arm'd them with fierce flames ;
Arranged, and disciplined, and clothed in gold, And call'd them out of Chaos to the field, Where now they war with Vice and Unbelief. O let us join this army! joining these Will give us hearts intrepid, at that hour When brighter flamos shall cut a darker night ; When these strong demonstrations of a God Shall hide their heads, or tumble from their spheres, And one eternal curtain cover all!

Struck at that thought, as new-awakod, I lift

A more enlighten'd eye, and read the stars
To man still more propitious, and their aid
(Though guiltless of idolatry) implore,
Nor longer rob them of their noblest name.
0 ye dividers of my time! ye bright
Accomptants of my days, and months, and years,
In your fair calendar distinctly mark'd!
Since that authentic, radiant register,
1309
Though man inspects it not, stands good against him ;
Since you and years roll on, though man stands still,
Teach me my days to number, and apply
My trembling heart to wisdom, now beyond
All shadow of excuse for fooling on.
Age smootlis our path to prudence ; sweeps aside 1315
The snares keen appetite and passion spread
To catch stray souls; and woe to that gray head
Whose folly would undo what age has done!
Aid, then, aid, all ye Stars !-Much rather Thou,
Great Artist! Thou whose finger set aright
This exquisite machine, with all its wheels,
Though intervolved, exact; and pointing out
life's rapid and irrevocable flight,
With such an index fair as none can miss
Who lifts an eye, nor sleeps till it is closed.
Open mine eye, dread Deity ! to read
The tacit doctrine of thy works; to see
Things as they are, unalter'd through the glass
Of worldly wishes. Time, Eternity !
('Tis these, mismeasured, ruin all mankind)
Set them before me ; let me lay them both
In equal scale, and learn their various weight.
Let time appear a moment, as it is;
And let Eternity's full orb, at once,
Turn on my soul, and strike it into Heaven.
When shall I see far more than charms me now
Gaze on Creation's model in thy breast
Unveil'd, nor wonder at the transcript more
When this vile, foreign dust, which smothers all

That travel earth's deep vale, shall I shake off? 1348
Wher shall my soul her incarnation quit, And, readopted to thy bless'd embrace, Obtain her apotheosis in thee ?-

Dost think, Lorenzo, this is wandering wide?
No ; 'tis directly striking at the mark.
1345
To wake thy dead devotion was my point;
And how I bless Night's consecrating shades,
Which to a temple turn a universe ;
Fill us with great ideas, full of heaven,
And antidote the pestilential earth!
1350
In every storm, that either frowns or falls,
What an asylum has the soul in prayer!
And what a fane is this, in which to pray!
And what a God must dwell in such a fane!
O what a genius must inform the skies !
1355
And is Lorenzo's salamander heart
Cold, and untouch'd, amid these sacred fires?
O ye nocturnal sparks! ye glowing embers,
On Heaven's broad hearth! Who burn, or burn no more,
Who blaze, or die, as great Jehovah's breath
1360
Or blows you or forbears, assist my song !
Pour your whole influence ; exercise his heart, So long possess'd, and bring him back to man.

And is Lorenzo a demurrer still?
Pride in thy parts provokes thee to contest 1365
Truths which, contested, put thy parts to shame:
Nor shame they more Lorenzo's head than heart,
A faithless heart, how despicably small!
Too straight, aught great or generous to receive !
Fill'd with an atom! fill'd and foul'd with self! $13 \% 0$
And self-mistaken! self, that lasts an hour !
Instincts and passions of the nobler kind
Lie suffocated there ; or they alone,
Reason apart, would wake high hope, and open, 'To ravish'd thought, that intellectual sphere, Where Order, Wisdom, Goodness, Providence, Their endless miracles of love display,

And promise all the truly great desire.
The mind that would be happy must be great ;
Great in its wishes, great in its surveys.
Extended views a narrow mind extend,
Push out its corrugate, expansive make,
Which, ere long, more than planets shall embrace.
A man of compass makes a man of worth:
Divine contemplate, and become divine!
1385
As man was made for glory and for bliss, All littleness is an approach to woe.
Open thy bosom, set thy wishes wide, And let in manhood; let in happiness;
Admit the boundless theatre of thought
1390
From nothing, up to God; which makes a man.
Take God from Nature, nothing great is left;
Man's mind is in a pit, and nothing sees;
Man's heart is in a jakes, and loves the mire.
Emerge from thy profound; erect thine eye;
See thy distress! how close art thou besieged !
Besieged by Nature, the proud sceptic's foe!
Enclosed by these innumerable worlds, Sparkling conviction on the darkest mind, As in a golden net of Providence,
How art thou caught, sure captive of belief:
From this thy bless'd captivity what art,
What blasphemy to reason, sets thee free!
This scene is Heaven's indulgent violence;
Canst thou bear up against this tide of glory?
1405
What is earth, bosom'd in these ambient orbs,
But faith in God imposed, and press'd on man ?
Darest thou still litigate thy desperate cause,
Spite of these numerous, awful witnesses,
And doubt the deposition of the skies?
$O$ how laborious is thy way to ruin !
Laborious? 'tis impracticable quite :
To sink beyond a doubt in this debate,
With all his weight of wisdom and of will,
And crime flagitious, I defy a fool.

Some wish they did, but no man disbelieves. ${ }^{6}$ God is a Spirit ; spirit cannot strike
These gross material organs ; God by man
As much is seen, as man a God can see.
In these astonishing exploits of power,
What order, beauty, motion, distance, size !
Concertion of design, how exquisite !
How complicate in their divine police !
Apt means ! great ends ! consent to general grod !-
Each attribute of these material gods,
So long (and that with specious pleas) adored,
A separate conquest gains o'er rebel thought,
And leads in triumplı the whole mind of man.'
Lorenzo! this may seem harangue to thee;
Such all is apt to seem, that thwarts our will.
And dost thou, then, demand a simple proof Of this great master-moral of the skies,
Unskill'd, or disinclin'd, to read it there?
Since 'tis the basis, and all drops without it, Take it in one compact, unbroken chain.
Such proof insists on an attentive ear, 'Twill not make one amid a mob of thoughts,
And for thy notice struggle with the world.
Retire;-the world shut out;-thy thoughts call home;-Imagination's airy wing repress ;1440
Lock up thy senses ;-let no passion stir ;Wake all to Reason ;-let her reign alone ;Then in thy soul's deep silence, and the depth Of Nature's silence, midnight, thus inquire, As I have done, and shall inquire no more.
In Nature's channel thus the questions run:
' What am I ? and from whence ? -I nothing know But that I am ; and since I am, conclude Something eternal ; had there e'er been nought,
Nought still had been : eternal there must be.- 1450
But what eternal?-Why not human race?
And Adam's ancestors without arr end?-
That's hard to be conceived, since every link

Of that long-chain'd succession is so frail.
Can every part depend, and not the whole?
Yet grant it true, new difficulties rise ;
I'm still quite out at sea, nor see the shore.
Whence earth, and these bright orbs ?-Eternal too ?
Grant matter was eternal, still these orbs
Would want some other father ;-much design 1460
Is seen in all their motions, all their makes.
Design implies intelligence and art ;
That can't be from themselves-or man : that art Man scarce can comprehend, could man bestow?
And nothing greater yet allow'd, than man.- 1465
Who motion, foreign to the smallest grain,
Shot through vast masses of enormous weight ?
Who bid brute matter's restive lump assume
Such various forms, and gave it wings to fly?
Has matter innate motion? then each atom,
Asserting its indisputable right
To dance, would form a universe of dust :
Has matter none? then whence these glorious forms And boundless flights, from shapeless and reposed?
Has matter more than motion? has it thought, 1475
Judgment, and genius? is it deeply learn'd
In mathematics? has it framed such laws,
Which, but to guess, a Newton made immortal? -
If so, how each sage atom laughs at me,
Who think a clod inferior to a man!
1480
If art to form, and counsel to conduct,
And that with greater far than human skill,
Resides not in each block,-a Godhead reigns :-
Grant, then, invisible, eternal Mind ;
That granted, all is solved :-but granting that, 1485
Draw I not o'er me a still darker cloud?
Grant I not that which I can ne'er conceive ?
A being without origin or end !-
Hail, human Liberty! there is no God-
Tet why? on either scheme that not subsists; 1490
Subsist it must, in God or human race ;

If in the last, how many knots beside, Indissoluble all ?-why choose it there
Where, chosen, still subsist ten thousand more?
Reject it where, that chosen, all the rest
149\%
Dispersed, leave Reason's whole horizon clear? -
This is not Reason's dictate ; Reason says,
Close with the side where one grain turns the scale :
What vast preponderance is here! can Reason
With louder voice exclaim-"Believe a God ?" 1500
And Reason heard, is the sole mark of man.
What things impossible must man think true,
On any other system ! and how strange
To disbelieve, through mere credulity!'
If in this chain Lorenzo finds no flaw,
150
Let it for ever bind him to belief.
And where the link, in which a flaw he finds?
And if a God there is, that God how great!
How great that Power whose providential care
Through these bright orbs' dark centres darts a ray !
Of Nature universal threads the whole!
1511
And hangs Creation, like a precious gem, Though little, on the footstool of his throne !

That little gem, how large! A weight let fall
From a fix'd star, in ages can it reach
This distant earth ? Say, then, Lorenzo! where, Where ends this mighty building? where begin
The suburbs of Creation? where the wall
Whose battlements look o'er into the vale
Of nonexistence? Nothing's strange abode!
Say, at what point of space Jehovah dropp'd His slacken'd line, and laid his balance by ;
Weigh'd worlds, and measured infinite no more?
Where rears his terminating pillar high
Its extramundane head? and says to gods,
In characters illustrious as the Sun,
'I stand, the plan's proud period: I pronounce The work accomplish'd; the Creation closed: Shout, all ye Gods! ! nor shout, ye Gods, alone ;

Of all that lives, or, if devoid of life,
That rests, or rolls ; ye Heights and Depths, resound !
Resound ! resound ! ye Depths and Heights, resound!'
Hard are those questions?-answer harder still.
Is this the sole exploit, the single birth,
The solitary son of Power Divine?
1535
Or has the' Almighty Father, with a breath,
Impregnated the womb of distant Space?
Has he not bid, in various provinces,
Brother creations the dark bowels burst
Of Night primeval, barren now no more?
1540
And He, the central Sun, transpiercing all
Those giant generations, which disport
And dance, as motes, in his meridian ray ;
That ray withdrawn, benighted, or absorbd
In that abyss of horror whence they sprung ; $1545^{-}$
While Chaos triumphs, repossess'd of all
Rival Creation ravish'd from his throne?
Chaos! of Nature both the womb and grave! [wide? Think'st thou my scheme, Lorenzo, spreads too
Is this extravagant? $\mathbf{~ N o}$; this is just ; $\quad 1550-$
Just in conjecture, though 'twere false in fact.
If 'tis an error, 'tis an error sprung
From noble root, high thought of the Most High.
But wherefore error? who can prove it such ?-
He that can set Omnipotence a bound.
1555
Can man conceive beyond what God can do ?
Nothing, but quite impossible, is hard.
He summons into bcing, with like ease,
A whole creation, and a single grain.
Sipeaks he the word? a thousand worlỏs are born! 1500 A thousand worlds ! there's space for millions more; And in what space can his great fiat fail?
Condemn me not, cold critic! but indulge
The warm imagination: why condemn?
Why not indulge such thoughts as swell our hearts
With fuller admiration of that Power
Who gives our bearts with auch high thoughts to swall.

Why not indulge in his augmented praise?
Y)arts not his glory a still brighter ray,

The less is left to Chaos, and the realms
Of hideous Night, where Fancy strays aghast, And, though most talkative, makes no report ?

Still seems my thought enormous? think again ;-
Experience 'self shall aid thy lame belief.
Glasses, (that revelation to the sight!)
Have they not led us in the deep disclose
Of fine-spun Nature, exquisitely small,
And, though demonstrated, still ill conceived?
If, then, on the reverse the mind would mount
In magnitude, what mind can mount too far,
1580
To keep the balance, and creation poise ?
Defect alone can err on such a theme :
What is too great, if we the cause survey?
Stupendous Architect! Thou, Thou, art all!
My soul flies up and down in thoughts of Thee, 1585
And finds herself but at the centre still!
I AM, thy name' existence, all thine own !
Creation's nothing, flatter'd much, if styled
'The thin, the fleeting atmosphere of God.'
O for the voice-of what? of whom?-what voice
Can answer to my wants, in such ascent
1591
As dares to deem one universe too small?
Tell me, Lorenzo! (for now Fancy glows, Fired in the vortex of almighty power)
Is not this home-creation, in the map
Of universal Nature, as a spec̀k,
Like fair Britannia in our little ball;
Exceeding fair and glorious, for its size,
But, elsewhere, far outmeasured, far outshone?
In fancy (for the fact beyond us lies)
Canst thou not figure it, an isle, a'most Too small for nctice in the vast of being ;
Sever'd by mighty seas of unbuilt space
From other realms ; from ample continents
Of higher life, where nobler natives dwell ;

Less northern, less remote from Deity.
Glowing beneath the line of the Supreme,
Where souls in excellence make haste, put forth
Luxuriant growths, nor the late autumn wait
Of human worth, but ripen soon to gods?
Yet why drown Fancy in such depths as these?
Return, presumptuous rover! and confess
The bounds of man, nor blame them, as too small.
Enjoy we not full scope in what is seen ?
Full ample the dominions of the Sun!
Fuli glorious to behold! how far, how wide,
The matchless monarch from his flaming throne,
Lavish of lustre, throws his beams about him,
Farther and faster than a thought can fly,
And feeds his planets with eternal fires!
This Heliopolis by greater far
Than the proud tyrant of the Nile was built;
And He alone who built it can destroy.
Beyond this city why strays human thourht?
One wonderful, enough for man to know !
One infinite, enough for man to range!
One firmament, enough for man to read!
O what voluminous instruction here !
What page of wisdom is denied him ? none,
If learning his chief lesson makes him wise. 1630
Nor is instruction here our only gain :
There dwells a noble pathos in the skies,
Which warms our passions, proselytes our hearts.
How eloquently shines the glowing pole !
With what authority it gives its charge,
Remonstrating great truths in style sublime, Though silent, loud! heard earth around ; above
The planets heard ; and not unheard in Hell!
Hell has her wonde., though too proud to praise.
Is earth, then, more infernal? has she those
Who neither praise (Lorenzo!) nor admire ?
Lorenzo's admiration, preengaged,
Ne'er ask'd the Moon one question ? never held

Least correspondence with a single star;
Ne'er rear'd an altar to the queen of heaven
Walking in brightness, or her train adored.
Their sublunary rivals have long since
Engross'd his whole devotion; stars maliçn,
Which made the fond astronomer run mad,
Darken his intellect, corrupt his heart;
Cause him to sacrifice his fame and peace
'To momentary madness, call'd delight :
Idolater more gross, than ever kiss'd
The lifted hand to Luna, or pour'd out
The blood to Jove!-O Thou, to whom belongs 1655
All sacrifice! O Thou great Jove unfeign'd!
Divine Instructer! Thy first volume this
For man's perusal ; all in capitals !
In moon and stars (Heaven's golden alphabet!)
Emblazed to seize the siglit, who runs may read;
1660
Who reads can understand. 'Tis unconfined
To Christian land or Jewry ; fairly writ,
In language universal, to mankind;
A language lofty to the learn'd, yet plain
To those that feed the flock, or guide the plough, 1665
Or from its husk strike out the bounding grain:
A language worthy the great Mind that speaks!
Preface and comment to the sacred page !
Which oft refers its reader to the skies,
As presupposing his first lesson there,
And Scripture 'self a fragment, that unread.
Stupendous book of wisdon to the wise!
Stupendous book! and open'd, Night! by thee.
By thee much open'd, I confess, O Night!
Yet more I wish ; but how shall I prevail ? 1075
Say, gentle Night! whose modest, maiden beams
Give us a new Creation, and present
The world's great picture soften'd to the sight ;
Nay, kinder far, far more indulgent still,
Say, thou, whose mild dominion's silver key
1680
Unlocks our hemisphere, and sets to view

Worlds beyond number; worlds conceal'd by day Behind the proud and envious star of noon!
Canst thou not draw a deeper seene,-and show
The Mighty Potentate to whom belong
1683
These rich regalia, pompously display'd
To kindle that high hope : Like him of $\mathbb{U} z$,
I gaze around, I search on every side-
O for a glimpse of Him my soul adores !
As the chased hart, amid the desert waste, 1690
Pants for the living stream ; for Him who made her
So pants the thirsty soul, amid the blank
Of sublunary joys. Say, goddess ! where?
Where blazes his bright court ? where burns histhrone?
Thou know'st, for thou art near Him ; by thee, round
His grand pavilion, sacred Fame reports - 1696
The sable curtain drawn. If not, can none
Of thy fair daughter-train, so swift of wing,
Who travel far, discover where he dwells?
A star his dwelling pointed out below.
Ye PleYades! Arcturus! Mazaroth!
Aud thou, Orion! of still keener cye !
Say ye, who guide the wilder'd in the waves,
And bring them out of tempest into port!
On which hand must I bend my course to find him?
These courtiers keep the secret of their king; 1706

I wake, and, waking, climb Night's radiant scale From sphere to sphere, the steps by Nature set For man's ascent, at once to tempt and aid; $1: 10$ To tempt his eye, and aid his towering thought, Till it arrives at the great goal of all.

In ardent Contemplation's rapid car, From earth, as from my barrier, I set oub. How swift I mount ;'dininish'd earth gecedes: 17 Hz I pass the moon; and, from her farther side, Pierce Heaven's blue curtain; strike into rempte; Where, with his lifted tube, the subtle sage His artificial airy journey taker?

And to celestial lengthens human sight.
I pause at every planet on my road,
And ask for Him who gives their orbs to roll,
Their foreheads fair to shine. From Saturn's ring,
In which of earths an army might be lost,
With the bold comet take iny bolder flight,
1725
Amid those sovereign glories of the skies,
Of independent, native lustre proud;
The souls of systems! and the lords of life,
Through their wide empires!-What behold I now ?
A wilderness of wonder burning round,
1730
Where larger suns inhabit higher spheres;
Perhaps the villas of descending gods ;
Nor halt I here ; my toil is but begun;
Tis but the threshold of the Deity ;
Or, far beneath it, I am groveling still.
1735
Nor is it strange ; I built on a mistake :
The grandeur of his works, whence Folly sought
For aid, to Reason sets His glory higher ;
Who built thus high for worms (mere worms to Him)
$O$ where, Lorenzo, must the builder dwell ?
1740
Pause then, and, for a moment, here respire-
If human thought can keep its station here.
Where am I ?-where is earth ?-nay, where art thou,
O Sun ?-Is the Sun turn'd recluse ?-and are
His boasted expeditions short to mine?-
174,
To mine how short! On Nature's Alps I stand,
And see a thousand firmaments beneath!
A thousand systems! as a thousand grains!
So much a stranger, and so late arrived,
How can man's curious spirit not inquire
What are the natives of this world sublime, Of this so foreign, unterrestrial sphere, Where mortal, untranslated, never stray'd?
' $O$ ye, as distant from my little home As swiftest sunbeams in an age can fly;
Far from my native element I roam,
In quest of new and wonderful to man.

What province this, of his immense domain,
Whom all obeys? or mortals here, or gods?
Ye borderers on the coasts of bliss! what are you?
A colony from Heaven? or only raised,
1761

- By frequent visit from Heaven's neighbouring realme, To secondary gods, and half divine ?-
Whate'er your nature, this is past dispute,
Far other life you live, far other tongue
You talk, far other thought, perhaps, you think,
Than man. How various are the vorks of God!
But say, what thought? Is Reason here enthroned,
And absolute? or Sense in arms against her?
Have you two lights? or need you no reveal'd? 1770
Enjoy yqur happy realms their golden age?
And had your Eden an abstemious Eve?
Our Eve's fair daughters prove their pedigree, And ask their Adams-' Who would not be wise ?"
Or, if your mother fell, are you redeen'd?
17\%
And, if redeem'd-is your Redeemer scorn'd?
Is this your final residence? if not,
Change you your scene translated, or by death?
And if by death, what death ?-Know you disease?
Or horrid war ?-With war; this fatal hour, $\quad 1780$
Europa groans (so call we a small field
Where kings run mad.) In our world, Death deputes Intemperance to do the work of Age,
And, hanging up the quiver Nature gave him, As slow of cxecution, for despatch
Sends forth imperial butchers; bids them slay
Their sheep (the silly sheep they fleeced before,)
And toss him twice ten thousand at a meal.
Sit all your executioners on thrones?
With you, can rage for plunder make a god? 1790
And bloodshed wash out every other stain?-
But you, perhaps, can't bleed: from matter gross
Your spirits clean are delicately clad
In finespun ether, privileged to soar,
Unloaded, uninfected. How unlike

Thie lot of man! how few of human race
By their own mud unmurder'd! how we wage Self-war eternal !-Is your painful day Of hardy conflict o'er? or are you still
Raw candidates at school ? and have you those 1800 Who disaffect reversions, as with us? But what are we? you never heard of man, Or earth, the bedlam of the universe !
Where Reason (undiseased with you) runs mad.
And nurses Folly's children as her own,
1805 Fond of the foulest. In the sacred mount Of Heliness, where Reason is pronounced Infallible, and thunders like a god,
Len there, by saints the demons are outdone ; What these think wrong, our saints refine to right'; And kindly teach dull Hell her own black arts; 1811 Satan, instructed, o'er therr morals smiles.But this how strange to you, who know not man!
Has the least rumour of our race arrived? Call'd here Elijah in his flaming car? 1815
Pass'd by you the good Enoch, on his road To those fair fields whence Lucifer was hurl'd; Who brush'd, perhaps, your sphere in his descent, Stain'd your pure crystal ether, or let fall A short eclipse from his portentous shade? 1820
O that the fiend had lodged on some broad orb Athwart his way; nor reach'd his present home, Then blacken'd earth, with footsteps foul'd in Hell, Nor wasl'd in ocean, as from Rome he pass'd To Britain's isle ; too, too conspicuous there.' 1E25

But this is all digression: where is He
That o'er Heaven's battlements the felon hurl'd To groans, and chains, and darkness? where is He Who sees Creation's summit in a vale ?
Ife whom, wnile man is man, he can't but seek, 1830 And if he finds, commences more than man?
O for a telescope his throne to reach !
Tefl me, ye learn'd on earth! or bless'd aboves.

Ye searching, ye Newtonian angels! tell
Where your Great Master's orb ! his planets where?
Those conscious satellites, those morning stars, 1836.
First-born of Deity! from central love,
By veneration most profound, thrown off;
By sweet attraction no less strongly drawn;
Awed, and yet raptured ; raptured, yet serene; 1840
Past thought illustrious, but with borrow'd beams;
In still approaching circles still remote,
Revolving round the Sun's eternal Sire?
Or sent, in lines direct, on embassies
To nations-in what latitude ?-beyond . 1845.
'Terrestrial thought's horizon !-and on what
High errands sent ?-Here human effort ends,
And leaves me still a stranger to his throne.
Full well it might! I quite mistook my road;
Born in an age more curious than devout,
1.850

More fond to fix the place of heaven or hell,
Then studious this to shun, or that secure.
'Tis not the curious, but the pious, path
That leads me to my point. Lorenzo! know,
Without or star or angel for their guide,
Who worship God shall find him. Humble Love,
And not proud Reason, heeps the door of heaven ;
Love finds admission where proud Science fails.
Man's science is the culture of his heart,
And not to lose his plummet in the depths
1860
Of Nature, or the more profound of God:
Either to know, is an attempt that sets
The wisest on a level with the fool.
To fathom Nature (ill attempted here!)
Past doubt, is deep philosophy above;
186
Higher degrees in bliss archangels take,
As deeper learn'd, the deepest learning still.
For what a thunder of Omnipotence
(So might I dare to speak) is seen in all!
In man! in earth! in more amazing skies !
Teaching this lesson Pride is loath to learn-
"Not deeply to discern, not much to know, Mankind was born to wonder and adore!'

And is there cause for higher wonder still
Than that which struck us from our past surveys?-
Yes; and for deeper adoration too.
From my late airy travel unconfined,
Have I learn'd nothing ?-Yes, Lorenzo! this:
Each of these stars is a religious house ;
I saw their altars smoke, their incense rise,
And heard hosaunas ring through every sphere,

- A seminary fraught with future gods.

Nature all o'er is consecrated ground,
Teeming with growths immortal and divine.
The great Proprietor's all bounteous hand 1885
Leaves nothing waste, but sows these fiery fields
With seeds of Reason, which to virtues rise
Beneath his genial ray ; and, if escaped
The pestilential blasts of stubborn will,
When grown mature, are gather'd for the skies. 1890
And is devotion thought too much on earth,
When beings, so superior, homage boast,
And triumph in prostrations to the throne?
But wherefore more of planets or of stars?
Ethereal journeys, and, discover'd there, 1895
Ten thousand worlds, ten thousand ways devout,
All Nature sending incense to the throne, Except the bold Lorenzos of our sphere!
Opening the solemn sources of my soul,
Since I have pour'd, like feign'd Eridanus,
My flowing numbers o'er the flaming skies,
Nor see of fancy or of fact what more
Invites the Muse-here turn we, and review
Our pass'd noctural landscape wide ; then say,
Say, then, Lorènzo! with what burst of heart, 190\%
The whole, at once, revolving in his thought,
Must man exclaim, adoring and aghast ?
' O what a roos! O what a branch, is here!
0 what a Father! what a family !

Worlds! systems! and creations!-and creations, 1910
In one agglomerated cluster, hung,
Great Vine !* on thee ; on thee the cluster hangs,
The filial cluster! infinitely spread
In glowing globes, with various being fraught,
And drinks (nectareous draught!) immortal life. 1915
Or, shall I say (for who can say enough ?)
A constellation of ten thousand gems,
(And, 0 ! of what dimension! of what weight!)
Set in one signet, flames on the right. hand
Of Majesty divine! The blazing seal,
That deeply stamps, on all created mind,
Indelible, his sovereign altributes,
Omnipotence and Love! that passing bound,
And this surpassing that. Nor stop we here
For want of power in God, but thought in man. 1923
E'en this acknowledged, leaves us still in debt;
If greater aught, that greater all is thine,
Dread Sire!-Accept this miniature of Thee,
And pardon an attempt from mortal thought,
In which archangels might have fail'd, unblamed.'
How such ideas of the' Almighty's power, 1931
And such ideas of the' Almighty's plan,
(Ideas not absurd) distend the thought
Of feeble mortals ! nor of them alone !
The fulness of the Deity breaks forth
1935
In inconceivables, to men and gods.
Think, then, O think, nor ever drop the thought
How low must man descend when gods adore!
Have I not, then, accomplish'd my proud boast?
Did I not tell thee 'We would mount, Lorenzo! 1940 And kindle our devotion at the stars?'

And have I fail'd? and did I flatter thee?
And art all adamant? and dost confute,
All urged, with one irrefragable smile ?
Lorenzo! mirth how miserable here !
STrear by the stars, by Him who made them, swear, * John xr. 1 .

Thy heart, henceforth, shall be as pure as they;
Then thou, like them, shalt shine : like them, shalt rise From low to lofty, from obscure to bright, By due gradation, Nature's sacred law. 1950
The stars from whence ?-ask Chaos -he can tell.
Those bright temptations to idolatry
From darkness and confusion took their birth ;
Sons of deformity ! from fluid dregs
Tartarean, first they rose to masses rude,
And then to spheres opaque ; then dimly shone,
Then brighten'd; then blazed out in perfect day.
Nature delights in progress, in advance
From worse to better ; but when minds ascend,
Progress, in part, depends upon themselves.
1360
Heaven aids exertion : greater makes the great ;
The voluntary little lessens more.
O be a man! and thou shalt be a god!
And half self-made !-ambition how divine!
O thou, ambitions of disgrace alone !
1965
Still undevout ? ounkindled ?-though high taught,
School'd by the skies, and pupil of the stars,
Rank coward to the fáshionable world !
Art thou ashamed to bend thy knee to Heaven?
Cursed funne of pride, exhaled from deepest hell!
Pride in religion is man's highest praise.
1971
Bent on destruction! and in love with death!
Not all these luminaries, quench'd at onee,
Were half so sad as one benighted mind,
Which gropes for happiness, and meets despair. 1975
How like a widow in her weeds, the Night,
Amid her glimmering tapers, silent sits !
How sorrowful, how desolate, she weeps
Perpetual dews, and saddens Nature's scene !
A scene more sad Sin makes the darken'd soul, 1980
All comfort kills, nor leaves one spark alive.
Though blind of heart, still open is thine eye.
Why such magnificence in all thou seest?
Of matter's grandeur, know one end is this,

To tell the rational, who gazes on it,-

- Though that immensely great, still greater he

Whose breast capricious, can embrace and lodge,
Unburden'd, Nature's universal scheme;
Can grasp Creation with a single thought ;
Creation grasp, and not exclude its Sire,'-
1990
To tell him farther-' It behoves him much
'To guard the' important, yet depending fate
Of being brighter than a thousand suns;
One single ray of thought outshines them all.'
And if man hears obedient, soon he'll soar
Superior heights, and on his purple wing,
His purple wing bedropp'd with eyes of gold,
Rising, where thought is now denied to rise,
Look down triumphant on these dazzling spheres.
Why then persist ?-no mortal ever lived
But, dying, he pronounced (when words are true)
The whole that charms thee absolutely vain;
Vain, and far worse!-Think thou with dying men;
O condescend to think as angels think !
O tolerate a chance for happiness !
Our nature such, ill choice insures ill fate ;
And hell had been, though there had been no God,
Dost thou not know, my new Astronomer !
Earth, turning from the Sun, brings night to man?
Man, turning from his God, brings endless night ;
Where thou canst read no morals, find no friend, 2011
Amend no manners, and expect no peace.
How deep the darkness ! and the groan how loud !
And far, how far, from lambent are the flames!-
Such is Lorenzo's purchase ! such his praise! 2015
The proud, the politic Lorenzo's praise;
Though in his ear, and level'd at his heart, I've half read o'er the volume of the skies.

For think not thou hast heard all this from me; My song but echoes what great Nature speaks. 2020 What has she spoken?-Tl:us the goddess spoke, Thas speaks for ever:- Place, at Natare's head,

THE CONSOLATION.

A Sovereign which o'er all things rolls his eye, Extends his wing, promulgates his commands, But, above all, diffuses endless good;
To whom, for sure redress, the wrong'd may fly,
The vile for mercy, and the pain'd for peace ;
By whom the various tenants of these spheres,
Diversified in fortunes, place, and powers,
Raised in enjoyment, as in worth they rise, 2030
Arrive at length (if worthy such approach)
At that bless'd fountain-head from which they stream,
Where conflict past redoubles present joy,
And present joy looks forward on increase,
And that on more; no period! every step
2035
A double boon! a promise and a bliss.'
How easy sits this scheme on human hearts!
It suits their make, it sooths their vast desires ;
Passion is pleased, and Reason asks no more :
'Tis rational ; 'tis great !-but what is thine? 2040
It darkens! shocks! excruciates! and confounds !
Leaves us quite naked, both of help and hope,
Sinking from bad to worse; few years the sport
Of Fortune, then the morsel of despair.
Say, then, Lorenzo ! (for thou know'st it well) 2045 What's vice? mere want of compass in our thought.
Religion what?-the proof of common sense.
How art thou hooted where the least prevails!
Is it ny fault if these truths call thee fool ?
Ana thou shalt never be miscall'd by me.
Can neither Shame nor Terror stand thy friend ?
And art thou still an insect in the rnire?
How like thy guardian angel have 1 flown;
Snatch'd thee from earth, escorted thee through all
The' ethereal armies; walk'd thee, like a god, 2055
Through splendours of first magnitude, arranged
On either hand; clouds thrown beneath thy feet;
Close-cruissed on the bright paradise of God,
And almost introduced thee to the throne!
Arird arb thou still carousing, for detighty

Rank poison, first fermenting to mere froth,
And then subsiding into final gall?
To beings of sublime, immortal make,
How shocking is all joy whose end is sure :
Such joy more shocking still, the more it charms !
And dost thou choose what ends ere well begun, 2060
And infamous as short? and dost thou choose
(Thou, to whose palate glory is so sweet)
To wade into perdition through contempt,
Not of poor bigots only, but thy own?
For I have peep'd into thy cover'd heart, And seen it blush beneath a boastful brow?
For by strong Guilt's nost violent assault, Conscience is but disabled, not destroy'd.

O thou most awful being! and most vain!
2075
Thy will how frail! how glorious is thy power?
Though dread Eternity has sown her seeds
Of bliss and woe in thy despotic breast;
Though heaven and hell depend upon thy choice,
A butterfly comes cross, and both are fled.
2050
Is this the picture of a rational ?
This horrid image, shall it be more just ?
Lorenzo !, no ; it cannot,-shall not be,
If there is force in reason; or in sounds
Clanted beneath the glimpses of the moon, 2085
A magic, at this planetary hour,
When Slumber locks the general lip, and dreams, Through senseless mazes, hunts souls uninspired.
Attend-the sacred mysteries begin-
My solemn night-born adjuration hear :
2090
Hear, and Ill raise thy spirit from the dust,
While the stars gaze on this enchantment new;
Enchantment not infernal, but divine!
' By Silence, Death's peculiar attribute ;
By Darkness, Guilt's inevitable donm;
By Darkness and by Silence, sisters dread !
That draw the curtain round Night's ebon throne,
And raise ideas solemn as the scene !

By Night, and all of awful Night presents
To thought or sense (of awful much, to both 2100
The goddess brings !) By these her trembling fires.
Like Vesta's, ever-burning, and, like hers,
Sacred to thoughts immaculate and pure!
By these bright orators that prove and praise,
And press thee to revere the Deity;
2105
Perhaps, too, aid thee, when revered, a while
To reach his throne, as stages of the soul,
Through which, at different periods, she shall pass;
Refining gradual, for her final height,
And purging off some dross at every sphere !
2110
By this dark pall thrown o'er the silent world!
By the world's kings and kingdoms most renown'd, From short Ambition's zenith set for ever, Sad presage to vain boasters, now in bloom!
By the long list of swift mortality,
2115
From Adam downward to this evening knell, Which midnight waves in Fancy's startled cye,
And shocks her with a hundred centuries,
Round Death's black banner throng'din human thought
By thousands, now, resigning their last breath, 2120 And calling thee-wert thou so wise to hear !
' By tombs o'er tombs arising, human earth Ejected, to make room for-human earth, The monarch's terror! and the sexton's trade!
By pompous obsequies that shun the day,
The torch funcreal, and the nodding plume,
Which makes poor man's humiliation proud,
Boast of our ruin! triumph of our dust !
By the damp vault that weeps o'er royal bones,
And the pale lamp that shows the ghastly dead, 2130
More ghastly through the thick incumbent gloom !
By visits (if there are) from darker scenes,
The gliding spectre! and the groaning grove:
By groans, and graves, and miseries that groan
For the grave's shelter! By desponding men,
Senseless to pains of death from pangs of guilt :

By Guilt's last audit! By yon moon in blood, The rocking firmament, the falling stars, And thunder's last discharge, great Nature's knell! By second Chaos, and eternal Night,-
Be wise-nor let Philander blame my charm;
But own not ill discharged my double debt,
Love to the living, duty to the dead.
For know I'm but executor; he left
This moral legacy; I make it o'er
2145
By his command: Philander hear in me,
And Heaven in both.-If deaf to hese, oh ! hear
Florello's tender voice ; his weal depends
On thy resolve ; it trembles at thy choice;
For his sake-love thyself: example strikes 2150
All human hearts; a bad example more ;
More still a father's ; that insures his ruin.
As parent of his being, wouldst thou prove The' unnatural parent of his miseries,
And make him curse the being which thou gavest?
Is this the blessing of so fond a father ?
If careless of Lorenzo, spare, oh ! spare
Florello's father, and Philander's friend!
Florello's father ruin'd, ruins him ;
And from Philander's friend the world expects 2160
A conduct no dishonour to the dead.
Let passion do what nobler motive should;
Let love and emulation rise in aid
To reason, and persuade thee to be-bless'd.
This seems not a request to be denied;
2165
Yet (such the' infatuation of mankind!)
${ }^{\prime}$ Tis the most hopeless man can make to man.
Shall I then rise in argument and warmth ?
And urge Plilander's posthumous advice,
From topics yet unbroach'd ?-
2170
But, oh! I faint! my spirits fail! nor strange !
So long on wing, and in no middle clime !
To which my great Creator's glory call'd ;
And calls-but, now, in rạin. Sleen's dewy wand

Has stroked my drooping lids, and promises 2175
My long arrear of rest : the downy god
(Wont to return with our returning peace)
Wili pay, ere long, and bless me with repose.
Haste, haste, sweet stranger ! from the peasant's cot,
The shipboy's hammock, or the soldier's straw, 2180
Whence Sorrow never chased thee; with thee bring
Not hideous visions, as of late, but draughts
Delicious of well tasted cordial rest,
Man's rich restorative ; his balmy bath,
That supples, lubricates, and keeps in play
2185
The various movements of this nice machine,
Which asks such frequent periods of repair.
When tired with vain rotations of the day,
Sleep winds us up for the succeeding dawn;
Fresh we spin on, till sickness clogs our wheels, 2190 Or death quite breaks the spring, and motion ends:
When will it end with me?

- 'Thou only know'st,

Thou, whose broad eye the future and the past Joins to the present, making one of three 2194 To mortal thought ! Thou know'st, and Thou alone, All knowing !-all unknown !-and yet well known! Near, though remote! and, though unfathom'd, felt! And, though invisible, for ever seen!

And seen in all! the great and the minute :
Each globe above, with its gigantic race,
2200
Each flower, each lcaf, with its small people swarm'd, (Those puny vouchers of Omnipotence!)
To the first thought that asks 'From whence?' declare Their common source : thou fountain, running o'er In rivers of communicated joy!
Who gavest us speech for far, far humbler themes !
Say by what name shall I presume to call
IIim I see burning in these countless suns, As Moses in the bush? Illustrious Mind!
The whole creation less, far less, to Thee,
Than that to the creation's ample round,

How shall I name Thee? -How my labouring soul
Heaves underneath the thought, too big for birth !
'Great System of perfections! mighty Cause
Of causes mighty! Cause uncaused! sole root 2215
Of Nature, that luxuriant growth of God!
First Father of effects! that progeny
Of endless series ; where the golden chain's
Last link admits a period, who can tell?
Father of all that is or heard or hears!
Father of all that is or seen or sees!
Father of all that is or shall arise!
Father of this immeasurable mass
Of matter multiform, or dense or rare,
Opaque or lucid, rapid or at rest,
Minute or passing bound! in each extreme
Of like amaze and mystery to man.
Father of these bright millions of the night !
Of which the least, full Godhead had proclaim'd,
And thrown the gazer on his knee-Or, say,
Is appellation higher still thy choice?
Father of matter's temporary lords!
Father of spirits! nobler offspring! sparks
Of high paternal glory, rich endow'd
With various measures, and with various modes 2235
Of instinct, reason, intuition; beams
More pale or bright from day divine, to break
The dark of matter organized (the ware
Of all created spirit) keams that rise
Each over other in superior light,
Till the last ripens into lustre strong,
Of next approach to Godhead. Father fond (Far fonder than ere bore that name on earth)
Of intellectual beings ! beings bless'd
With powers to please thee, not of passive ply 2245
To laws they know not ; beings lodged in seats
Of well adapted joys, in different domes
Of this imporial palace for thy sons;
Of this proud, populous, well policied,

Though boundless habitation, plann'd by Thee ; 2250 Whose several elans their several climates suit, And transposition, doubtless, would destroy. Or, oh ! indulge, immortal King ! indulge
A title less august, indeed, but more
Endearing ; ah! how sweet in human ears! 2255 Swect in our ears, and triumph in our hearts ! Father of immortality to man :
A theme that lately* set my soul on fireAnd Thou the next! yet equal! thou by whom That blessing was convey'd, far more! was bought, Ineffable the price! by whom all worlds
Were made, and one redeem'd! illustrious Light From Light illustrious ! thou, whose regal power Finite in time, but infinite in space,
On more than adamantine basis fix'd,
2265
O'er more, far more, than diadems and tlerones
Inviolably reigns, the dread of gods !
And, oh! the friend of man ! beneath whose foot,
And by the mandate of whose awful nod,
All regions, revolutions, fortunes, fates,
Of high, of low, of mind, and matter, roll
Through the short channels of expiring time,
Or shoreless ocean of eternity,
Calm or tempestuous (as thy Spirit breathes)
In absolute subjection!-And, O Thou!
The, glorious Third! distinct, not separate!
Beaming from both'! with both incorporate, And (strange to tell!) incorporate with dust !
By condescension, as thy glory, great,
Enshrined in man! of human hearts, if pure, 2280
Divine Inhabitant! the tie divine
Of heaven with distant earth! by whom, I trust, (If not inspired) uncensured this address
To Thee, to Them-to whom ?-mysterious power !
Reveal'd-yet unreveald'd! darkness in light! 2285 Number in unity ! our joy ! our dread!

[^2]The triple bolt that lays all wrong in ruin !
That animates all right, the triple Sun!
Sun of the soul! her never setting Sun!
Triune, unutterable, unconceived,
Absconding, yet demonstrable, Great God!
Greater than greatest! better than the best !
Kinder than kindest! with soft Pity's eye,
Or (stronger still to speak it) with thine own,
From thy bright home, from that high firmament 2295
Where thou, from all eternity, hast dwelt ;
Beyond archangels' unassisted ken,
From far above what mortals highest call,
From Elevation's pinnacle, look down,
Through-what? confounding interval! through all,
And more, than labouring Fancy can conceive; 2301
Through radiant ranks of essences unknown?
Through hicrarchies from hierarchies detach'd
Round various b:inners of Omnipotence,
With endless change of rapturous duties fired; 2305,
Through wondrous beings' interposing swarins,
All clustering at the call, to dwell in thee ;
'Through this wide waste of worlds! this vista vast,
All sanded o'er with suns, suns turn'd to night
Before thy feeblest beam-look down-down-down,
On a poor breathing particle in dust, 2311
Or, lower, an immortal in his crimes:
His crimes forgive ! forgive his virtues too!
Those smaller faults, half converts to the right :
Nor let me close these cyes, which never more 2315
May see the Sun (though Night's descending scale
Now weighs up Morn) unpitied and unbless'd!
In thy displeasure dwells eternal pain ;
Pain, our aversion ; pain, which strikes ne now; And, since all pain is terrible to man,
Though transient, terrible ; at thy good hour,
Gently, ah, gently, lay me in my bed,
My clay-cold bed ! by nature, now, so near ;
Py nature near; still nearer by disease !

Till then be this an emblem of my grave; 2325
Let it outpreach the preacher; every night
Let it outcry the boy at Philip's ear,
That tongue of death! that herald of the tomb.
And when (the shelter of thy wing implored)
My senses, sooth'd, shall sink in soft repose,
2330
O sink this truth still deeper in my soul,
Suggested by iny pillow, sign'd by Fate,
First in Fate's volume, at the page of Man-
" Man's sickly soul, though turn'd and toss'd for ever
From side to s.de, can rest on rought but Thee; 2335
Here in full trust, hereafter in full joy :"
On Thee, the promised, sure, eternal down
Of spirits, toil'd in travel through this vale :
Nor of that pillow shall my soul despond ;
For-Love almighty! Love almighty! (sing, 2340 Exult, Creation!) Love almighty reigns !
The death of death ! that cordial of despair !
And loud Eternity's triumphant song!
' Of whom no more:-for, O thou Patron God!
Thou God and mortal! thence more God to man!
Man's theme eternal ! man's eternal theme ! 2346
Thou canst not scape uninjured from our praise :
Uninjured from our praise can he escape
Who, disembosom'd from the Father, bows
The heaven of heavens to kiss the distant earth! 2350
Breathes out in agonies a sinless soul:
Against the cross Death's iron sooptre breaks!
From famish'd Ruin plucks her human prey!
Throws wide the gates celestial to his foes !
Their gratitude, for such a boundless debt, 2355
Deputes their suffering brothers to receive!
And if deep human guilt in payment fails,
As deeper guilt, prohibits our despair !
Enjoins it, as our duty, to rejoice !
And (to close all) omnipotently kind,
2360 Takes his delights among the sons of men.'*

* Pror. chap. riii.

What words are these-and did they come from Heaven?
And were they spoke to man? to guilty man?
What are all mysteries to love like this?
The songs of angels, all the melodies
2365
Of choral gods, are wafted in the sound;
Heal and exhilarate the broken heart,
Though plunged, before, in horrors daik as night :
Rich prelibation of consummate joy !
Nor wait we dissolution to be bless'd.
This final effort of the moral Muse,
How justly titled !* nor for me alone;
For all that read. What spirit of support,
What heights of Consolation crown my song !
Then farewell Night! of darkness, now, no mors;
Joy breaks, shines, triumphs; 'tis eternal day! 2376
Shall that which rises out of nought complain
Of a few evils, paid with endless joys ?
My soul! henceforth, in sweetest union join
The two supports of human happiness,
2380
Which some, erroncous, think can never meet,
True taste of life, and constant thought of death !
The thought of death, sole victor of its dread!
Hope be thy joy, and probity thy skill ;
Thy patron He whose diadem has dropp'd 2385
Yon gems of heaven, eternity thy prize ;
And leaves the racers of the world their own,
Their feather and their froth, for endless toils:
They part with all, for that which is not bread; They mortify, they starve, on wealth, fame, power,
And laugh to scorn the fools that aim at more. 2391
How must a spirit, late escaped from earth, Suppose Philander's, Lucia's, or Narcissa's;
The truth of things new-blazing in its eye,
Look back, astonish'd on the ways of men, 2395
Whose lives' whole drift is to forget their graves !
And when our present privilege is pass'd, -

[^3]To scourge us with due sense of its abuse, The same astonishment will seize us all.
What then must pain us would preserve us now. 2400
Lorenzo ! 'tis not yet too late. Lorenzo!
Seize wisdom, ere 'tis torment to be wise ;
That is, seize Wisdom ere she seizes thee.
For what, my small philosopher! is hell ?
'Tis nothing but full knowledge of the truth, 2405
When Truth, resisted long, is sworn our foe,
And calls Eternity to do her right.
Thus darkness aiding intellectual light, And sacred Silence whispering truths divine, And truths divine converting pain to peace, My song the midnight raven has outwing'd, And shot, ambitious of unbounded scenes, Beyond the flaming limits of the world Her gloomy flight. But what avails the fight Of Fancy, when our hearts remain below?
Virtue abounds in flatterers and foes; 'Tis pride to praise her, penance to perform. To more than words, to more than worth of tongue, Lorenzo! rise, at this auspicious hour, An hour when Heaven's most intimate with man;
When, like a falling star, the ray divine
Glides swift into the bosom of the just ; And just are all, determined to reclaim ; Which sets that tit'e high within thy reach. Awake, then ; thy Philander calls : awake!
'Thou, who shalt wake when the Creation sleeps;
When, like a taper, all these suns expire;
When Time, like him of Gaza in his wrath, Plucking the pillars that support the world, In Nature's ample ruins lies entomb'd, 2430 And midnight, universal midnight ! reigns.

HE FORCE OF RELIGION.

BOOK I.

Fron lofty themes, from thoughts that soar'd on high, And open'd wondrous scenes above the sky, My Muse ! descend : indulge my fond desire; With softer thoughts my melting soul inspire, And smooth my numbers to a female's praise:
A partial world will listen to my lays
While Anna reigns, and sets a female name Unrival'd in the glorious lists of fame.

Hear, ye fair daughters of this happy land!
Whose radiant eyes the vanquish'd world command,
Virtue is beauty ; but when charms of mind
With elegance of outward form are join'd ;
When youth makes such bright objects still more bright.
And Fortune sets them in the strongest light, 'Tis all of heaven that we below may view,
And all but adoration is your due.
Famed female virtue did this isle adorn
Fire Ormond, or her glorious Queen was born :
When now Maria's powerful arms prevail'd,
And haughty Dudley's bold ambition fal'd,
The beauteous daughter of great Suffolk's race, In blooming youth, adorn'd with every grace,
Who gain'd a crown by treason not her own,
And innocently filld another's throne,
Hurl'd from the summit of imperial state,
With equal mind sustain'd the stroke of Fate.
But how will Guilford, her far dearer part,
With manly reason fortify his heart?
At once she longs, and is afraid to know ;
Now swift she moves, and now advances slow,
To find her lord ; and, finding, passes by,
Gilent with fear, nor dares she meet his eye,

Lest that, unask'd, is speechless grief disclose The mournful secret of his inward woes:
Thus after sickness, doubtful of her face,
The melancholy virgin shuns the glass.
At length, with troabled thought, but look serene,
And sorrow soften'd by her heavenly mien, She clasps her lord, brave, beautiful, and young,
While tender accents melt upon her tongue;
Gentle and sweet, as vernal zephyr blows, Fanning the lily, or the blooming rose :

- Grieve not, my lord ; a crown, indeed, is lost ;

What far outshines a crown we still may boast;
A mind composed, a mind that can disdain
A fruitless sorrow for a loss so vain.
Nothing is loss that virtue can improve
To wealth eternal, and return above ;
Above, where no distinction shall be known
'Twixt him whom storms have shaken from a throne,
And him who, basking in the smiles of Fate, 51
Shone forth in all the splendour of the great:
Nor can I find the difference here below ;
I lately was a queen; I still am so,
While Guilford's wife : thee rather I obey,
Than o'er mankind extend imperial sway.
When we lie down in some obscure retreat,
Incensed Maria may her rage forget ;
And I to death my duty will improve,
And what you miss in empire, add in love-
Your godlike soul is open'd in your look,
And I have faintly your great meaning spoke.
For this alone I'm pleased I wore the crown,
To find with what content we lay it down.
Heroes may win, but 'tis a heavenly race
Can quit a throne with a becoming grace.'
Thus spoke the fairest of her sex, and cheer'd
Her órooping lord, whose boding bosom fear'd
A darker cloud of ills would burst, and shed
Severer vengeance on her guiltless head.
'Too just, alas! the terrors which he felt : For, lo! a guard !-forgive him if he meltHow sharp her pangs, when sever'd from his side, The most sinecrely loved and loving bride In space confined, the Muse forbears to tell;
Deep was her anguish, but she bore it well : His pain was equal, but his virtue less ;
He thought in grief there could be no excess.
Pensive he sat, o'er cast with gloomy care,
And often fondly clasp'd his absent fair ;
Now, silent, wander'd through his rooms of state, And sicken'd at the pomp, and tax'd his fate, Which thus adorn ${ }^{2} d$, in all her shining store,
A splendid wretch, magnifieently poor.
Now on the bridal bed his eyes were cast,
And anguish fed on his enjoyments past ;
Each recollected pleasure made him smart,
And every transport stabb'd him to the heart.
That happy moon which summon'd to delight,
That moon which shone on his dear nuptial night, 90
Which saw him fold her yet untasted charms
(Denied to princes) in his longing arms,
Now sees the transient blessing fleet away,
Empire and love : the vision of a day.
Thus, in the British clime, a summer storm 9 :
Will oft the smiling face of heaven deform ;
The winds with violence at once deseend, Sweep flowers and fruits, and make the forest bend;
A sudden winter, while the Sun is near,
O'ercomes the season, and inverts the year.
But whither is the eaptive borne away,
The beauteous captive ! from the cheerful day?
The scene is changed indeed; before her eyes
Ill boding looks and unknown horrors rise :
For pomp and splendour, for her guard and crown, 105
A gloomy dungeon, and a keeper's frown:,
Black thoughts eacl morn invade the lover's breast :
Each night a ruffian locks a queen to rest.

Ah, mournful change, if judged by vulgar minds ! But Suffolk's daughter its advantage finds.
Religion's force divine is best display'd In deep desertion of all human aid;
To succour in extremes is her delight, And cheer the heart when terror strikes the sight. We, disbelieving our own senses, gaze,115

And wonder what a mortal's heart can raise To triumph o'er misfortunes, smile in grief, And comfort those who come to bring relief.
We gaze, and as we gaze, wealth, fame decay,
And all the world's vain glories fade away.
Against her cares she raised a dauntless mind,
And with an ardent heart, but most resign'd, Deep in the dreadful gloom, with pious heat, Amid the silence of her dark retreat, Address'd her God-'Almighty Power Divine ! 125 'Tis thine to raise, and to depress is thine ;
With honour to light up the name unknown,
Or to put out the lustre of a throne.
In my short span both fortunes I have proved, And though with ill frail nature will be moved,
I'll bear it well - (O strengthen me to bear!)
And if my piety may claim thy care, if I remember'd, in youth's giddy heat, And tumult of a court, a future state; O favour, when thy merey 1 implore,
For one who never guilty sceptre bore !
Twas I received the crown; my lord is free;
If it must fall, let vengeance fall on me :
Let him survive, his country's name to raise, And in a guilty land to speak thy praise!
O may the' indulgence of a father's love, Pour'd forth on me, be doubled from above! If these are safe, I'll think my prayers succeed, And bless thy tender mercies whilst I bleed.'
'Twas now the mournful eve before that day 145 In which the queen to her full wrath gave way

 THE FORCE OF RELIGION.Though rigid jastice rush'd into offence,
And drank, in zeal, the blood of Innocence.
The Sun went down in clouds, and seem'd to mourn
The sad necessity of his return;
The hollow wind and melancholy rain,
Or did, or was imagined to complain ;
The tapers cast an inauspicious light ;
Stars there were none, and doubly dark the night.
Sweet Innocence in chains can take her rest; 100
Soft slumber gently creeping through her breast,
She sinks; and in her sleep is reenthroned,
Mock'd by a gaudy dream, and vainly crown'd.
She views her fleets and armies, seas and land,
And stretches wide her shadow of command:
With royal purple is her vision hung ;
By phantom hosts are shouts of corquest rung,
Low at her feet the suppliant rival lies :
Our prisoner mourns her fate, and bids her rise.

> Now level beams upon the waters play'd, 163

Glanced on the hills, and westward cast the shade ; The busy trades in city had began
To sound and speak the painful life of man.
In tyrants' breasts the thoughts of vengeance rouse, And the fond bridegroom turns him to his spouse. $1 \% 0$ At this first birth of light, while morning breaks,
Our spouseless bride, or widow'd wife, awakes; Awakes, and smiles; nor night's imposture blames ; Her real pomps were little more than dreams; A short-lived blaze, a lightning quickly o'er,
That died in birth, that shone, and were no more:
She turns her side, and soon resumes a state
Of mind well suited to her alter'd fate,
Serene, though serious, when dread tidings come (Ah, wretched Guilford!) of her instant doom. 180 Sun! hide thy beams; in clouds as black as night
Thy face involve ; be guiltless of the sight;
Or haste more swiftly to the western mair,
Nor let her blcood the conscicus day-light stain :
Oh : how severe ! to fall so new a bride, Yet blushing from ths priest, in youthful pride; When Time had just matured each perfect grace, And open'd all the wonders of her face! To leave her Guilford dead to all relief, Fond of his woe and obstinate in grief. Unhappy Fair! whatever Fancy drew, (Vain promised blessings) vanish from her view ; No train of cheerful days, endearing nights, No sweet domestic joys, and chaste delights; Pleasures that blossom e'en from doubts and fears, And bliss and rapture rising out of cares: 196 No little Guilford, with paternal grace, Lull'd on her knee, or smiling in her face; Who, when her dearest fathêr shall return From pouring tears on her untimely urn, Might comfort to his silver hairs impart, And fill her place in his indulgent heart: As where fruits fall quick-rising blossoms smile, And the blest Indian of his cares beguile.

In vain these various reasons jointly press
To blacken death, and heighten her distress; She through the' encircling terrors darts her sight To the bless'd regions of eternal light, And fills her soul with peace : to weeping friends Her father and her lord she recommends,
Unmov'd herself: her foes her air survey, And rage to see their malice thrown away. She soars; now nought on earth detains her careBut Guilford, who still struggles for his share. Still will his form importunately rise,
Clog and retard her transport to the skies. As trembling flames now take a feeble flight, Now catch the brand with a returning light, Thus her soul onward, from the seats above Falls fondly back, and kindles into love.
At length she conquers in the doubtful field;
That Heaven she seeks will be her Guilford's shield.

Now Death is welcome ; his approach is slow ;
"Tis tedious longer to expect tha blow.
Oh, mortals! short of sight, who think the past 225 O'erblown misfortune still shall prove the last:
Alas! misfortunes travel in a train,
And oft in life form one perpetual chain :
Fear buries fear, and ills on ills attend,
Till life and sorrow meet one common end.
230
She thinks that she has nought but death to fear ;
And death is conquer'd. Worse than death is near:
Her rigid trials are not yet complete;
The news arrives of her great father's fate.
She sees his hoary head, all white with age,
A victim to the' offended monarch's rage.
How great the mercy, had she breathed her last
Ere the dire sentence on her father pass'd!
A fonder parent Nature never knew,
And as lis age increased his fondness grew.
A parent's love ne'er better was bestow'd ;
The pious daughter in her heart o'erflow'd.
And can she from all weakness still refrain?
And still the firmness of her soul maintain ?-
Impossible ! a sigh will force its way,
One patient tear her mortal birth betray ;
She sighs and weeps! but so she weeps and sighs,
As silent dews descend, and vapours rise.
Celestial Patience ! how dost thou defeat
The foe's proud menace, and clude his hate!
While Pássion takes his part, betrays our peace
To death and torture swells each slight disgrace ;
By not opposing thou dost ills destroy,
And wear thy conquer'd sorrows into joy.
Now she revolves within her anxious mind
What woe still lingers in reserve behind.
Griefs rise on griefs, and she can see no bound,
While nature lasts, and can receive a wound.
The sword is drawn; the queen to rage inclin'd,
By merey nor by piety comfined.

What mercy can the zealot's heart assuage,
Whose piety itself converts to rage?
She thought, and sigh'd; and now the blood began
To leave her beauteous cheek all cold and wan :
New sorrow dimm'd the lustre of her eye, 265
And on her cheek the fading roses die.
Alas ! should Guilford too-When now she's brought
To that dire view, that precipice of thought,
While there she trembling stands, nor dares look down,
Nor can recede, till Heaven's decrees are known, 270
Cure of all ills, till now, her lord appears-
But not to cheer her heart, and dry her tears?
Not now, as usual, like the rising day,
To chase the shadows and the damps away ;
But like a gloomy storm, at once to sweep
And plunge her to the bottom of the deep.
Black were his robes, dejected was his air,
His voice was frozen by his cold despair ;
Slow, like a ghost, he moved with solemn pace ;
A dying paleness sat upon his face :-
Back she recoil'd, she smote her lovely breast,
Her eyes the anguish of her heart confess'd :
Struck to the soul, she stagger'd with the wound,
And sunk, a breathless image, to the ground.
Thus the fair lily, when the sky's o'ercast,
At first but shudders in the feeble blast;
But when the winds and weighty rains descend,
The fair and upright stem is forced to bend,
Till broke, at length, its snowy leaves are shed,
And strew with dying sweets their native bed.

BOOK II.

Her Guilford clasps her, beautiful in death, And with a kiss recals her fleeting breath : Po tapers thus, which by a blast expire, A lighted taper, touch'd, restores the fire.

She rear'd her swimming eye, and saw the light,
And Guilford, too, or she had loath'd the sight.
Her father's death she bore, despised her own,
But now she must, she will, have leave to groan.
'Ah! Guilford!' she began, and would have spoke,
But sobs rush'd in, and every accent broke:
Reason itself, as gusts of passion blew,
Was ruffled in the tempest, and withdrew.
So the youth lost his image in the well,
When tears upon the yielding surface fell;
The scatterd features slid into decay,
And spreading circles drove his face away.
To touch the soft affections, and control
The manly temper of the bravest soul,
What with afflicted beauty can compare,
And drops of love distilling from the fair?
It melts us down ; our pains delight bęstow,
And we with fondness languish o'er our woe.
This Guilford proved ; and, with excess of pain,
And pleasure too, did to his bosom strain
The weeping fair: sunk deep in soft desire,
Indulged in love, and nursed the raging fire;
Then tore himself away; and, standing wide,
As fearing a relapse of fondness, cried,
With ill dissembled grief, ' My life ! forbear ;
You wound your Guilford with each cruel tear:
Did you not chide my grief? repress your own,
Nor want compassion for yourself alone.
Have you beheld how, from the distant main,
The thronging waves roll on, a numerous train,
And foam, and bellow, till they reach the shore,
There burst their noisy pride, and are no more?
Thus the successive flows of human race,
Chased by the coming, the preceeding chase ;
They sound and swell, their haughty heads they rear,
Then fall and flatten, break and disappear.
Life is a forfeit we must shortly pay,
And where's the mighty lucre of a day ?

Why should you mourn my fate? 'tis most unkind ;
Your own you bore with an unshaken mind:
And which, can you imagine, was the dart
That drank most blood, sunk deepest in my heart?
I cannot live without you; and my doom
I meet with joy, to share one common tomb. -
And are again your tears profusely spill'd?
Oh! then, my kindness blackens to my guilt!
It foils itself if it recal your pain :-
Life of my life! I beg you to refrain :
The load which Fate imposes you increase,
And help Maria to destroy my peace.'
But, oh ! against himself his labour turn'd ;
The more he comforted the more she mourn'd.
Compassion swells our grief; words soft and kind
But sooth our weakness, and dissolve the mind.
Her sorrow flow'd in streams; nor hers alone;
While that he blamed, he yielded to his own.
Where are the smiles she wore when she, so late,
Hail'd him great partner of the regal state ;
When orient gems around her temples blazed,
And bending nations on the glory gazed ?
'Tis now the queen's command they both retreat 65.
To weep with dignity, and mourn in state:
She forms the decent misery with joy,
And loads with pomp the wretch she would destroy.
A spacious hall is huing with black, all light
Shut out, and noon-day darken'd intonight :
From the mid-roof a lamp depends on high,
Like a dim crescent in a clouded sky;
It sheds a quivering, melancholy gloom,
Which only shows the darkness of the room-
A shining axe is on the table laid,
A dreadful sight! and glitters through the shade.
In this sad scene the lovers are confined,
A scene of terrors to a guilty mind!
A scene that would have damp'd with rising cares,
And quite extinguish'd every love but theirs.

What can they do? they fix their mournful eyesThen Guilford thus, abruptly: ' 1 despise
An empire lost; I fling away the crown;
Numbers have laid that bright delusion down;
But where's the Charles; or Dioclesian where,
Could quit the blooming, wedded, weeping fair ?
Oh ! to dwell ever on thy lip! to stand
In full possession of thy snowy hand!
And, through the' unclouded crystal of thy eye,
The heavenly treasures of thy mind to spy !
Till rapture reason happily destroys,
And my soul wanders through immortal joys! Give me the world, and ask me, 'Where's my bliss ?
I clasp thee to my breast, and answer This.
And shall the grave'-He groans, and can no more, $9 \breve{J}$
But all her charms in silence traces o'er ;
Her lip, her cheek, and eye, to wonder wrought, And wondering sees, in sad presaging thought, From that fair neck, that world of beauty, fall, And roll along the dust, a ghastly ball!

Oh ! let those tremble who are greatly bless'd!
For who but Guilford could be thus distress'd ?
Come hither, all you happy ! all you great!
From flowery meadows, and from rooms of state;
Nor think I call your pleasures to destroy,
But to refine, and to exalt your joy :
Weep not ; but, smiling, fix your ardent care
On nobler titles than the brave or fair:
Was ever such a mournful, moving sight?
See, if you can, by that dim, trembling light: 110
Now they embrace ; and, mix'd with bitter woe,
Like Isis and her Thames, one stream they flow :
Now they start wide; fix'd in benumbing care,
They stiffen into statues of despair:
Now tenderly severe and fiercely kind,
They rush at once; they fling their cares behind,
And clasp, as if to death ; new vows repeat,
4nd quite yrapp'd up in love, forget their fate ?,

A short delusion ; for the raging pain
Returns, and their poor hearts must bleed again. 120
Meantime, the queen new cruelty decreed;
But ill content that they should only bleed,
A priest is sent, who, with insidious art,
Instils his poison into Suffolk's heart,
And Guilford drank it : hanging on the breast,
He from his childhood was with Rome possess'd.
When now the ministers of Death draw nigh,
And in her dearest lord she first must die,
The subtle priest, who long had watch'd to find
The most unguarded passes of her mind,
Bespoke her thus: 'Grieve not; 'tis in your power
Your lord to rescue from this fatal hour.'
Her bosom pants ; she draws her breath with pain;
A sudden horror thrills through every vein;
Life seems suspended, on his words intent,
And her soul trembles for the great event.
The priest proceeds: 'Embrace the faith of Rome, And ward your own, your lord's, and father's doom.' Ye blessed spirits ! now your charge sustain : The past was ease : now first she suffers pain.
Must she pronounce her father's death ? must she Bid Guilford bleed ?-It must not, cannot be. It cannot be! but 'tis the Christian's praise, Above impossibilities to raise The weakness of our nature, and deride
Of vain philosophy the boasted pride.
What though our feeble sinews scarce impart
A moment's swiftness to the feather'd dart ;
Though tainted air our vigorous youth can break,
And a chill blast the hardy warrior shake? -
Yet are we strong; hear the loud tempest roar
From east to west, and call us weak no more :
The lightning's unresisted force proclaims
Our might, and thunders raise our humble names.
'Tis our Jehovah fills the heavens; as long
As he shall reign Almighty, we are strong:

We, by devotion, borrow from his throne,
And almost make Omnipotence our own:
We force the gates of heaven by fervent prayer,
And call forth triumph out of man's despair.
Our lovely mourner, kneeling, lifts her eyes
And bleeding heart, in silence, to the skies,
Devoutly sad-then, brightening, like the day,
When sudden winds sweep scatter'd clouds away,
Shining in majesty, till now unknown,
And breathing life and spirit scarce her own, She, rising, speaks; 'If these the terms-'

Here Guilford, cruel Guilford! (barbarous man!
Is this thy love ?) as swift as lightning ran,
O'erwhelm'd her, with tempestuous sorrow fraught,
And stifled, in its birth, the mighty thought : 181
Then, bursting fresh into a flood of tears,
Fierce, resolute, delirious with his fears,
His fears for her alone, he beat-his breast,
And thus the fervour of his soul express'd:
Oh! let thy thought o'er our past converse rove,
And show one moment uninflamed with love!
Oh! if thy kindness can no longer last,
In pity to thyself forget the past!
Else wilt thou never, void of shame and fear,
180
Pronounce his doom whom thou hast held so dear:
Thou, who hast took me to thy arms, and swore
Fimpires were vile, and Fate could give no more ;
That to continue was its utmost power,
And make the future like the present hour :
Now call a ruffian, bid his cruel sword
Tay wide the bosom of thy worthless lord :
Iransfix his heart (since you its love disclaim)
And stain his honour with a traitor's name.
'Phis might perhaps be borne without remorse,
But sure a father's pangs will have their force!
Shall his goad age, so near its journey's end,
Through critel torment to the grave descend ?

His shallow blood all issue at a wound,
Wash a slave's feet, and smoke upon the ground? 195
But he to you has ever been severe;
Then take your vengeance'-Suffolk now drew neat,
Bending beneath the burden of his care,
His robes neglected and his head was bare:
Decrepit Winter, in the yearly ring,
Thus slowly creeps to meet the blooming Spring :
Downward he cast a melancholy look,
Thrice turn'd to hide his grief, then faintly spoke :-
'Now deep in years, and forward in decay,
That axe can only rob me of a day:
For thee, my soul's desire! I can't refrain;
And shall my tears, my last tears, flow in vain?
When you shall know a mother's tender name, My heart's distress no longer will you blame.' At this, afar his bursting groans were heard ;
The tears ran trickling down his silver beard: He snatch'd her hand, which to his lips he press'd, And bid her ' plant a dagger in his breast ;' 'Then, sinking, call'd ' her piety uajust,'
And soil'd his hoary temples in the dust.
Hard-hearted men! will you no mercy know? Has the queen bribed you to distress her foe?
O weak deserters to Misfortune's part, 3 y false affection thus to pierce her heart ! When she had soar'd, to let your arrows fly,
And fetch her bleeding from the middle sky. And can her virtue, springing from the ground, Her flight recover, and disdain the wound, When cleaving love and human interest bind The broken force of her aspiring mind ?
As round the generous eagle, which in vain Exerts her strength, the serpent wreaths his train, Her struggling wings entangles, curling plies His poisonous tail, and stings her as she flies.

While yet the blow's first dreadful weight she feole, And with its force her resolution reals,

Large doors, unfolding with a mournful sound
To view discover, weltering on the ground,
Three headless trunks of those whose arms maintaind,
And in her wars immortal glory gain'd :
The lifted axe assured her ready doom,
And silent mourners sadden'd all the room :-
Shall I proceed, or here break off my tale,
Nor truths to stagger human faith reveal?
She met this utmost malice of her fate
With Christian dignity and pious state ;
The beating storm's propitious rage she bless'd,
And all the martyr triumph'd in her breast.
Her lord and father, fir a moment's space,
She strictly folded in her soft embrace !
Then thus she spoke, while angels heard on high,
And sudden gladness smiled along the sky :

- Your over-fondness has not moved my late;

I am well pleased you make my death so great:
I joy I cannot save you, and have given
Two lives, much dearer than my own, to Heaven,
If so the queen decrees.*-But I have cause
To hope my blood will satisfy the laws ;
If there is mercy still, for you, in store :
With me the bitterness of death is o'er ;
He shot his sting in that farewell embrace,
And all, that is to come, is joy and peace.
Then let mistaken sorrow be suppress'd,
Nor seem to envy my approaching rest.'
Then, turning to the ministers of Fate,
She, smiling, says, ' My victory's complete ;
And tell your queen I thank her for the blow,
And grieve my gratitude I cannot show.
A poor return I leave in England's crown,
For everlasting pleasure and renown :
Her guilt alone allays this happy hour ;
Her guilt,-the only vengeance in her power.'
Not Rome, untouch'd with sorrow, heard her fate,
And fierce Maria pitied her too late.
